The New Testament.

English and American scholars have been spending the past ten years in a revision of the New Testament, which is now published. It is understood that it affects no doctrines of the sects, but cures defects of translation in the former editions. The phrase Holy Spirit is used instead of Holy Ghost, Hades and Gehenna, both formerly translated "hell," are now, respectively, Hades and hell. In I Thessalonians, iv, 15, the old version reads: "We which are alive shall not prevent them that are asleep." Prevent now means to hinder; it formerly meant, to go before. The new version says: "We that are alive, that are left into the coming of the Lord, shall in no wise precede them that are fallen asleep." In Romans i, 13: "Now, I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that oftentimes, I purposed to come unto you (but was let hitherto) that I might have some friend, &c." "Let" is changed to "hinder," in the new version, the other no longer expressing the meaning of the passage.

OLD. Rev. xx, 14: "And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire." NEW. "And death and hades were cast into the lake of fire."

OLD. Matt. xx, 23: "But to sit on My right hand and on My left, is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them, for whom it is prepared of My Father." NEW. "But to sit on my right hand and on my left hand is not mine to give, but it is for them for whom it hath been prepared of my Father."

OLD. In I John chap. 5, the seventh verse, reading as follows, is omitted: "For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word and the Holy Ghost; and these three are one." "The genuineness of the latter part of this verse, and the first clause of the next," says a commentator, "it is well known has divided the opinions of the learned men for nearly four centuries," and the translators regard it as spurious.

IN Hebrews, the well known first verse of the eleventh chapter, "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen," is changed to read, "Now faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the proving of things not seen."

IN the thirteenth chapter of 1st Corinthians, the word "love" is substituted for "charity," the passage opening in the new version thus: "If I speak with the tongue of men and of angels, but have not love, I am become sounding brass, or a clanging cymbal," and closing, "but now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."

THE first two verses of chapter v, II Corinthians appear thus: "For we know that if the earthly house of our tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For verily in this we groan, longing to be clothed upon with our habitation which is from heaven."

IN the fourth chapter of John the 27th verse reads, "And upon this came his disciples, and marvelled that he talked with the woman." The new version has it "and marvelled that he talked with a woman," the idea being that it was rather beneath dignity to hold conversation with a woman.

CHAP. vii, verse 17 reads, "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the teaching whether it be of God, or whether I speak from myself."

THE words "For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory forever, amen," are expunged from the text, as not being found in any of the authoritative uncials.

EQUAL RIGHTS. THE new railroad law which goes into effect in Nebraska to-day provides, in brief, that every railroad corporation shall give all persons reasonable and equal terms, facilities and accommodations for the transportation of any merchandise or other property; that the rates as published and in force Nov. 1, 1880, shall be the maximum—less may be charged, but not more, and "no railroad company shall demand, charge collect or receive for such transportation for special distances a greater sum than it demands, charges, collects or receives for a greater distance;" that there shall be no secret rate, rebate, drawback, nor any undue advantage. The penalty, in addition to liability for damages sustained, is a fine of $500 for each offence. There has been considerable comment upon the law, and an endeavor on the part of some newspapers to show that it will work adversely to the interests of the State, but so far we have failed to see a single good reason advanced against it. Will these journalists point out a single provision that is unfair, unjust, or injurious to the public welfare? If the law is so freighted with ills as they would have us believe, they surely could cite one of its provisions that outrages the equal rights of citizens.

IF laws were self-executing we might know by experience during the next year, just how good or bad this law is; and herein lies the trouble there is and that there will be with all legislation designed to hold the scales of justice level between the people and the corporations, the laws will not be executed until the public mind is deeply, thoroughly roused, and ever on the alert, and then individuals will not seek the protection of the law until its outrage has become unendurable.

Herd Law.

ED. JOURNAL: There seems to be a difference of opinion among lawyers and laymen concerning the attitude of our supreme court on the above subject, with respect to damage by stock on uncultivated lands. In the case reported in the tenth volume Nebraska Supreme Court Reports, page 492, the court decided in effect that as regards wild prairie lands cattle are free commoners, and that no action can be maintained for trespass of stock thereon—when such stock strays upon lands of that description. A re-hearing has been ordered in the above case, and as I understand, the court still adheres to its former decision, but will further hold that where the trespass resulted from the willful act of the owner of, or the party having the property in charge, then an action will lie for damages, whether the alleged trespass be committed on either wild or cultivated lands.

THE law of 1881, introduced by Senator Turner, found in the session laws of Nebraska for that year, page 65, which will take effect on the first day of June, and which defines cultivated lands to include forest trees, fruit trees, hedge rows planted on said lands, also those surrounded by a plowed strip at least a rod in width, plowed once a year, will undoubtedly be an adequate protection to farmers for the coming two years.

BYRON MILLETT.

WORTHY OF MENTION. THE triumphs of modern printers' art are simply marvelous; Chicago takes the lead, as usual, and the Times, as usual leads Chicago by a long way. Think of it, space annihilated, time almost annihilated, and the entire New Testament revised, sold for five cents, wherever the Times is sold. That wonderful paper has this to say of a job of printing "in advance of any other newspaper in the world."

"THE work done for the Times by the Western Union Telegraph company on Friday night, in bringing from New York to Chicago the revised version of the Four Gospels, has never been equaled in the history of telegraphy. No less than twenty cables were used in this labor, and to obtain this direct line not only were all the direct lines pressed into service, but circuits were made through Canada, by way of the Ohio valley, and even further south. One of the beneficial results of the recent consolidation was seen in this work, the wires of the American Union line contributing to its success. The time occupied in transmission was from 5 to 11:30 o'clock p. m., nineteen wires being in use up to 9 o'clock, and twenty-one after that hour. The reader may form some idea of the vast amount of telegraphic labor accomplished when he is told that the number of words actually transmitted was $3,715."

THE commissioners of Harlan Co. have impeached James Billings, county treasurer, finding him guilty of habitual and willful neglect of duty, and also of extortion. The Enterprise says it was proven he had collected excessive fees; failed to keep a fee-book; sold lands and made their sale illegal by charging $1 on each sale more than provided by law. The Enterprise charges their county clerk with wrongdoing and calls for his impeachment. Among other things, it mentions that he refuses to keep a fee-book, and pay into the county treasury an excess of fees over $1500.

RECENT advices from London show that there never was such excitement in Ireland as at the present time, over the enforcement of the coercion act and evictions. Incendiary fires are numerous, conflicts with the authorities and also the lamentable destruction of property is increasing. A grand general uprising of the peasantry is believed to be imminent. Extraordinary orders have been given to the military in anticipation of a general uprising.

FIVE other men charged with assisting in tar and feathering W. G. Stanton, in Douglas county, this State, were brought before Judge Anderson of Omaha, when two of them were discharged, and the other three, A. Leech, and Abe and Elias Wallen, being held in $200 each to appear and answer with the others arrested. Warrants were issued for another batch. Stanton has not dared return to Jefferson precinct since the arrests were made.

RECENT news from Leavenworth, Kansas, reports a test case regarding the prohibition law in the district court, Judge Crosier deciding that the legislature, under the constitution, cannot prohibit but only regulate the sale of liquor for mechanical, scientific or medical purposes; that inasmuch as the law undertook to prohibit the sale of articles which under the amendment it could only regulate, it was unconstitutional.

CAPTAIN A. J. FITZ, of San Francisco, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and a prominent leader of the democratic party, suicided the other night by hanging. No cause discovered for the act. His family affairs were pleasant and he was not financially embarrassed.

TUESDAY of last week, at St. Joe, Mo., in a cellar under a saloon frequented by colored men, one hundred barrels of Danforth's fluid ignited, and wrecked the building. Three men were taken out dead; five or six others were rescued, nearly dead; eight or ten supposed to have been in the saloon, are yet missing. Water had no effect on the fire. It is asserted that the place was fired to destroy the evidence of a murder.

OMAHA intends giving a grand Fourth of July celebration that is to be held at the State Fair grounds. J. H. Pierce will make a balloon ascension, in his air ship "Ranger." Redged rates have been secured on all the railways, to people from the interior of the state who will take advantage of the occasion, to make a cheap Fourth of July excursion, and see the grand sights on the Fourth at Omaha.

THE steamer Victoria, with over 600 excursionists on board, returning from Springfield the other day when one mile below London, Ont., suddenly collapsed and became a total wreck level with the water's edge, and plunging all the passengers into the stream. At the latest accounts from the disaster only about one hundred and fifty dead bodies had been recovered.

AN old farmer from Cass county, Mich., was moving west with his family and stopped the other day at South Bend, Ind., to feed and take dinner. After dinner he was leading a stallion, when it attacked him, threw him to the ground and literally stamped him to death. It bit great chunks of flesh from the poor man's face.

ONE hundred and seventy-five ladies and gentlemen of the Raymond excursion party from Boston and vicinity, passed over the Union Pacific the other evening for Chicago. The train is run as a special, and the party has been on a grand pleasure trip to Colorado, California, Utah and other points.

RUSSIAN social and political affairs have had their due effect upon trade. Imports of cotton material have diminished from 8 to 40 per cent. The cloth and iron trade are paralyzed, and the Anglo-Russian merchants, tired of waiting for better times, are preparing to leave with their capital for England.

THE NAST has a very suggestive picture among his latest. Hayes's Postmaster General is represented as a "key" with donkey's ears, tail and legs, with a mail sack on his back, and led by Gen. Brady. The text is, "The late Postmaster General didn't know what a load he was carrying."

LINCOLN'S public library costs her citizens about $1,300 a year—a small tax. The number of visitors during eleven months of last year was 23,700. No intelligent neighborhood should be without its public library, and the village or city that lacks such an institution is far behind the times.

THIRTEEN hundred hostile Sioux Indians were started from Ft. Buford last week for Standing Rock agency. Sitting Bull with one hundred followers, has come into the fort. When they all arrive at Standing Rock there will be at least 3,000 Indians at that agency.

THE conflicting dispatches from New York on the political situation leave everybody to guess what may happen, which is just about as correct news as can be obtained from that quarter. One person undertakes to speak with some certainty that there will be no caucus.

THE Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh narrowly escaped drowning on the 24th at Sidmouth, a seaport town on the coast of Devon. They ventured out on a point of land, and the tide changing, they were cut off from shore. A life boat from a vessel near by rescued them.

IT is stated in our exchanges that Gen. J. A. Williamson, commissioner of the general land office, tendered his resignation last week, which was very promptly accepted by Secretary Kirkwood. It is charged that General Williamson was the "brady" of the Interior department.

THE Boone county Argus of a recent date says that some one fired through Mr. Avery's window at night, nearly striking Mr. Avery and lodging in a bed, striking it just where an infant had been lying a moment before. No clue to the perpetrator.

A BAND of armed mounted men on the night of the 26th, ult., broke into Mr. Lapell's store at Mountain Home, Arkansas, and robbed the safe of several thousand dollars, set fire to the store and blew it up with gun powder. The robbers escaped.

LARS BOULAND, of Svede Bend, Iowa, was murdered the other night, it is believed, for his money. His head was smashed, and a corn cob crowded into his mouth to stifle his cries. His body was found in a ditch near his house by neighbors.

S. R. TRUWATHAN and Robt. Monter on the 23d, had a fight on the top of Boston mountains, in Searcy county, Arkansas. Monter was knocked off his horse with a stone, and over a high precipice, and was horribly mangled and mortally wounded.

THE Omaha Bee says it is generally believed that S. H. H. Clark has been tendered the general management of Gould's southwestern system of roads and that he has been holding the offer under advisement since his return from California.
