THE JOURNAL.

WEDNESDAY MARCH 8, 1882.

Communications, to insure insertion in the next issue, should be in hand on Mondays; if lengthy, on Thursdays preceding issue-day. Advertisements, of whatever class, should be in hand by noon, Tuesdays.

Advertisements under this head 15 cts. a line first insertion, 10 cts. a line each subsequent insertion.

—Penelope.

—Save your dimes for Uncle Tom. 2

—Mrs. W. B. Coffin returned last week.

—Penelope is "just too too for anything."

—The best powder in the market at Arnold's. 45-2

—John Stauffer, Esq., went down to Lincoln Tuesday.

—Potatoes for seed are going to be an object this spring.

—E. J. Baker returned last week from his sojourn in the east.

—Hon. H. J. Hudson started for Lincoln yesterday morning.

—Penelope and My Neighbor's Wife at the Opera House to-night.

—At Brandt's Restaurant, a warm meal for one dime. Don't forget it. 42-tf

—Reserved seats are selling fast, for Penelope and My Neighbor's Wife.

—Now seems to be a good time for putting on paint where it is needed.

—Several horses affected with the pink-eye have died lately in Boone county.

—McAllister Bros. were at Clarksville, a portion of last week, on law business.

—Mr. Hammond has erected a wind-mill near the north track of the U. P.

—Are you going to the Opera House to-night to see Penelope? "You Bet."

—Come to the Methodist Church Friday evening, to see the old lady in a shoe.

—B. R. Cowdery, of this city, has beed appointed Notary Pubiic by Gov. Nance.

—Plenty of old papers in bundles of ten each, for five cents a bundle, at the JOURNAL office. tf —Messrs. Brindley & From have sold their Billiard establishment, on 11th St., to A. J. Whitaker.

—The public never tire of seeing Uncle Tom's Cabin presented on the stage by a good company. 2

—The Boston Ideal Company will render Uncle Tom's Cabin, the evening of March 18th, at the Opera House. 2

—A fine lot of cattle, twenty in number, went up to Creston last Friday. We couldn't learn whose they were.

—Mr. H. S. Lathrop was in the city Monday, and left with us illustrations of the great New Orleans Mardi Gras.

—Should you fail to see My Neighbor's Wife, you'll have nothing to talk about for a week. Opera House to-night.

—Louis Headberg is one of the pay-as-you-go kind, and in nine years here, has never owed a groceryman a dollar.

—Contractors and bridge builders will find something interesting in an advertisement from the County Clerk in to-day's JOURNAL.

—There will be no service at the Episcopal church next Sunday. Lentan service Friday, 4 p. m. Sunday school at 10 a. m., as usual.

—The B. & M. R. R., known as the "Burlington Route," offers special advantages to travelers. See advertisement in this paper. 43tf

—It isn't everything that transpires that should be published in a newspaper. Didst ever think, reader, of what would happen in such a case?

—Remember that those who subscribe for the JOURNAL paying one year in advance, get Kendall's Treatise on the horse and his diseases.

—A party of Nimrods headed by A. J. Arnold, of this city, spent a short time at the Looking Glass one day last week, and captured about 80 nice black suckers.

—It is reported that Dan Condon made $14,000 out of his railroad contracts up West last year. If this be true, Dan must have had a streak of good success.—Schuyler Sun.

—Nich. Blasser has recently purchased of Dr. Boneste el the Lebbs farm in the vicinity of Duncan, 160 acres for $2000. This makes Nich's landed interest amount to 600 acres.

—Rev. Hulihorst returned home last week. During his sojourn east he received a physician's diploma, and is now registered here as a physician, in compliance with the statute.

—J. V. Early sold four head of cattle th other day at a good price —$28 a head for coming two year olds, to Et. Murray, who paid for them, in god part, with money obtained frot the sale of turkeys.

—L. M. Sey, of this city has a valuable yo g Brama pullet judging from the eg shown us by him, which the pu t had laid. It measured six inch the short way and eight inches th long way around it, and weighed ur ounces.

—G. W. Stewart has moved from near Duncan to Fremont.

—The recent freeze-up has put a sudden stop to plowing, which had begun pretty lively.

—John West, Wm. Dougherty and G. W. Turner purpose a trip into Colorado in the near future.

—Among the Rural Nebraska's premiums we notice one to Milton Mead, Columbus, a $50 corn planter.

—The communication of "Tax Payer," though not lengthy, was handed in too late for publication this week.

—A. W. Crites, Esq., of Plattsmouth gives a very favorable account of improvements in that city. He is here on legal business.

—Mr. Gordon C. Dimick of Madison returned from the east last Tuesday, with his bride, who makes her first acquaintance with Nebraska and Nebraska people.

—Jos. Bucher says that the improvements on his mill will probably cost upwards of $2,500. When he gets through, he has promised to allow us to sample his flour.

—All who have paid their subscription to the JOURNAL for the year 1882 are entitled to a copy of Kendall's treatise on the horse and his diseases, in either English or German. 36-tf

—Our new mammoth spring stock is now in; it is by far the most complete ever shown in Platte county. Everybody invited to call and examine, at L. Kramer's New York Cheap Cash Store. 45-tf

—J. M. Cresap, from West Virginia, returned with Rev. W. Price, and makes his home in Nebraska. We claim we have a good country, but in the way of hills we yield at once to West Virginia.

—Rev. W. T. Price, who spent the winter in West Virginia and Maryland, returned to Columbus the other day. Having sold his farm in this county he has made up his mind to stay in Nebraska, and will look about for another home.

—The sermon of Rev. J. W. Little last Sunday evening was the closing discourse of a series. The subject, "Practical sympathy, as opposed to mere sentiment", was pretty fully presented, the basis of his remarks being, the parable of the good Samaritan.

—D. Anderson has purchased a Jersey bull. Platte county is destined to stand in the very front rank, in a few years, on the cattle business. She is well on the way now, and with the strides that her enterprising dealers are making, her progress will be rapid.

—Elsewhere will be found an interesting letter from Mr. Dan. Condon, well known in this community. In these days of quick transit a man can be at the ends of the earth in a very few days, and Dan. seems to be there. We shall be glad to hear from him again.

—D. Anderson has received a car load of milch cows from Kearney. In the absence of any particular information on the subject, it is safe to infer that David intends these for creamery purposes. We know that he believes it will pay a large profit on the investment.

—We learned, after we had gone to press last week, that Mr. Frank Price had been injured by falling from the boiler, at the Creamery, while engaged in placing some parts of it together. He has been confined to his bed, but, we are glad to learn, is better again.

—We furnish the American Agriculturist (in English or German), the best farmers' monthly in the world, together with the COLUMBUS JOURNAL, one year, to any address in the United States or British Possessions, for $3, cash in advance. The price of the Agriculturist alone is $1.50.

—Many of our subscribers are taking the American Agriculturist with the JOURNAL, both for $3.00 a year payable in advance. The Agriculturist is published in English and German, is finely illustrated, and is conducted on old-fashioned principles of honesty and common sense. tf.

—J. N. Reynolds, of Fullerton, purchased Louis Headberge's farm, on Beaver valley, last week. He intends to make hog raising on that place a specialty. The entire bottom land can be irrigated by a spring on the farm. The cultivated land, he will plant in artichokes.—Genoa Leader.

—After the closing exercises of the Baptist school last Sunday, it was decided to hold a meeting of the teachers next Sunday at 2:30, p. m., to consider items of importance to the school. We are informed that this is the only session held in the late afternoon in the protestant churches.

—Nich. Blasser has completed a bridge on the farms of Henry Schwarz and Wm. Wedder and on the county line between Platte and Colfax. The bridge is a substantial structure one hundred feet in length. The work was begun on the 9th of February and completed Monday of last week.

—The Columbus Woman's Suffrage Association hold their meetings regularly at the Congregational church, and are desirous that all who feel an interest in the cause of equal suffrage should be present at their meetings, and take an active part in furtherance of the cause for which they are laboring.

—Mr. John Graf is now with J. B. Delsman, who conducts one of the oldest grocery establishments in the city. It would be a great pleasure to John to have his friends from the country call and see him, and find out what he can do for them. 1

Forest Tree Seedlings.

As I have been having a good many enquiries about forest trees, I have concluded to supply all who wish, at the following prices:

Boxelder,	4 to 10 inches,	per 1000,	$2 00
Cottonwood,	6 to 18 "	" "	1 50
Elm,	4 to 10 "	" "	2 00
Maple,	4 to 10 "	" "	2 00

All orders must be received by April 1st. JOHN JANNAHILL, 45 3 Columbus, Neb.

—G. Heitkemper is moving into his new quarters in the building just erected between Oehlrich's and the New York C. C. Stores. This establishment will be one of the most complete Jewelry Stores in the State. Every desirable article in this line of business will be on sale, and skilled workmen will attend to the execution of all orders in the different branches of work needed by the many customers of this well-known house. 1

—All matters concerning the public interests are proper subjects for discussion in the public journals, whether the sentiments expressed do or do not meet the approbation of editors or readers. Newspapers are mediums of exchange, not only of business wants, but of thoughts and sentiments; of methods of administering public affairs, etc., and on all such subjects the JOURNAL invites the fullest discussion, conducted in the spirit of fairness, and with the object of subserving public interests.

—Hon. J. E. North holds a relic—the commission of his father, Thos. J. North, as surveyor of Richland county, Ohio, dated Oct. 28th, 1848, and signed by Wm. Bebb, as governor and Saml. Galloway as secretary of state. Thus time passes—the old governors and surveyors serve their day and generation and pass off the stage of action, and their children go into new lands and help to build up new communities, occupying therein positions of honorable trust and profit.

—District Court opened Monday with a large number of cases on the docket. Present, Hon. Geo. W. Post, Judge; M. B. Reese, Dist. Atty; D. C. Kavanaugh, Sheriff; C. A. Newman, Clerk; E. M. Battis, Reporter. Also, Attorneys Whitmoyer, Gerrard, Post, Geer, McAllister Bros., Bowman, Cornelius, Sullivan, Higgins, Crites, Millett.

The Grand Jury has been impaneled. The next issue of the JOURNAL will contain a full account of the proceedings.

—The Western Historical Company of Chicago has a large force of men at work in Nebraska gathering material for a very complete history of the state. The book is to contain 1400 pages, and from the quality of work done here by the canvassers and writers, we judge that the book will be the most thorough of any yet published. H. G. Cutler and Harvey Ingham have been here several weeks busily engaged at their task and forwarding their completed work. It is expected that the book will be ready for distribution in about three months.

—Bishop Clarkson preached at Grace Church last Sunday. The house was well filled. The services consisted of the ordinary exercises, confirmation, and the Holy Communion. The subject of the Bishop's discourse was, "The sin of doubting the truth of the express declarations of the Bible, by those who are convinced that they are truly a part of the scriptures as given by the sacred writers"—The entire sermon was in accordance with the Evangelical doctrine of protestantism, and his views were clearly expounded, and forcibly illustrated.

—The JOURNAL's advertisements may be very fitly classed as interesting and profitable items to those purchasers who have an eye to bargains. Don't you forget that the business man who invites you to his store through a neat advertisement in his county paper, has something for you when you get there. "The nimble sixpence" is a good mottoe. Quick sales and small profits count every time, and there are men who can sell and reinvest, and by doing this many times a year, reap a good harvest of profit, with satisfaction to their customers, furnishing them at all times on a small margin above cost.

Rising.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—The first serious fire in our village, occurred this morning, in the destruction of the Bellow House, the leading hotel of our pretty village. At three o'clock this morning, all that remained of this popular resting place for travelers, was a heap of "red-hot ashes." A good share of the furniture was saved; but Mrs. Bruce and her daughter have the sympathy of the entire community, in their loss. Travellers and boarders, will badly miss the blotting out, "by the fire demon" of the "old Bellow:" but we hope a larger and more imposing structure, "phœnix like," will soon rise from its ashes. The origin of the fire we have not learned. It is cold here, bitter cold. WHY NOT?

March, 5th, 1882.

Winnipeg.

EDITOR JOURNAL, Dear Sir:—I suppose you have heard so much of the country and its resources you would like to hear something about it. Well, the country is as level as the old Platte valley, but there is water standing on the surface, and they claim that they can raise from 30 to 40 bushels of wheat to the acre. I have seen some of it which is as good as I ever saw, and sells out here for 90 cts. per bushel; they claim to raise good potatoes and oats, and that all their crops are good, but the town-lot land excitement is the biggest I ever saw or heard of. Every homesteader is getting just 160 acres in Manitoba, the same that I got the last homestead in Nebraska in 1869. I have seen quarter sections sold for $5,000 and one half section for $16,000.

They claim to have a population of 16,000. Well, I would judge that two-thirds of them are land and town-lot agents. It looks to me as the wildest speculation that was ever gotten up and bound to take a tumble. Every day some disappointed men turns up here from Montreal, Toronto and all over the east, thinking he has a bonanza in town-lots, and finds what he has bought to be in the middle of some frog-pond. He leaves for home on the next train, disgusted. Well, the only ones in Columbus that I think would do well here are Jim. North, Chas. Speice, Sam. Smith, Leander Gerrard, as land agents and bankers. Horse jockies, hotel keepers and saloon keepers also make money. There are 85,000 tickets sold by the Allen line direct for here from the old country; by special from Portland, Maine.

The Canadian Pacific are building emigrants' sheds for their reception, as hotel room is scarce. The largest hotel in the place was burned down on Tuesday morning, some of the guests having a narrow escape with their lives. They have a very poor fire brigade here, and are now getting severely handled by the City Council. You would have heard from me before now, but I have been very sick, since I left home, with a sore throat. It kind of scared me when I thought of what happened to one of our Columbus men in Chicago a few years ago, but thanks to Doctor Timme of Toronto who was on the train with me, I got better. Now my advice to the settlers of Platte and Colfax counties is to stay where they are, and let very well alone, for if they ever want to think more of Nebraska, just let them travel towards the North pole as far as I have.

March, 2d, '82. Yours,
DAN. CONDON.

Intolerance.

The following from the facile pen of Rev. C. C. Starbuck, written at the time of the Thomas trial at Chicago and mislaid by us is still exceedingly appropriate in its general bearings:

You have given some extended extracts from the Chicago Times, commenting on Dr. Thomas's trial. I have nothing to say as to that, except that Dr. Parkhurst appears to me to be a model of an intolerant, thick-headed persecutor, whatever may be thought of the defendant. But the Times cannot forbear the opportunity to display its malignant hatred of Christianity. It says, for instance, that there is good evidence for believing that Paul ever after his conversion would have cut off Peter by the civil sword, if he had had it still at command. Now, all the evidence we have is before everybody, in the New Testament. And what is it? This: that Peter had carried through the very principles for which Paul was strenuous, namely, justification by faith apart from ceremonies, and the equality of Gentiles in the church, long before Paul was of note in the church, and that to these principles Peter never turned his back. Once, and once only, he for a little while acted inconsistently with them, for which he was decisively rebuked by Paul, as endangering the freedom of the whole Gentile church, a rebuke which he appears to have taken patiently, without an attempt at self-vindication. And this one instance of disagreement, taking the form of well-merited rebuke, is proof that Paul would have put Peter to death if he could! So then, it seems we are never to rebuke inconsistency in our brethren, if we do not want Mr. Story to post us as meditating an auto-de-fe at the earliest opportunity. I wonder that the Times has passed over the much sharper quarrel between Paul and Barnabus. When two other good men fall out, we lament it as a proof of the weakness of the best, but if two Apostles do so, the ingenious malignity of infidelity discovers that nothing short of fire and sword would pacify them. But the logic of unbelief is far too wonderfully independent of fact or reason to be followed up. In this respect it is fully equal to the logic of groveling superstition.

C. C. STARBUCK.

The Chicago Herald.

Elsewhere will be found the advertisement of the Chicago Herald, one of the best, neatest, cleanest and nicest newspapers in the country, edited by Hon. Frank W. Palmer, late of the Inter-Ocean. We will furnish the COLUMBUS JOURNAL and the Weekly Chicago Herald, one year, for $2 75; JOURNAL and Sunday Herald, $3; JOURNAL and Daily Herald $6.50. 40-tf

Library and Reading Room.

That this will be a successful movement, there seems to be no room for doubt. Although this is a non-official statement of the project, it is to be hoped that none will take exceptions to the presentation of the subject in a few of its bearings, on that score.

The necessity of such an institution has been pretty fully set forth in a variety of ways. The possibility of establishing the work on a permanent basis has been demonstrated beyond the expectation of the most ardent supporters of the undertaking.

That every class in society will be benefited by its success, is a proposition that needs no argument to establish; yet it admits of illustration. Our best minds have been advanced by means of like associations. Some of the libraries being largely patronized, and others of such meager proportions, that the work accomplished by them has been lost sight of in the general onward march of progress.

But those who should contribute to the advancement of the interests of the scheme? Surely none can be denied this most blessed opportunity to work for the promotion of useful knowledge. All are entitled to the privilege of working in some measure to bring about this desired result. Let us then view the subject in some of the many aspects which present themselves for our consideration.

To begin, we would earnestly urge the propriety of every person doing something that will have a tendency to favor the cause of true culture. And we believe this to be a medium of accomplishing more, according to the amount of exertion, than almost any other that can be devised. Let, then, each one study his own circumstances, his ability to contribute means for its financial support, his opportunities to speak or write of its blessings, and his proper course of action in carrying out the longings of his better nature. Be not afraid that others will consider you too zealous. Some can contribute money, and the canvassers for subscriptions, say that about $300 have been pledged, and that the amount which has been set as a minimum limit will soon be reached, and it is possible that before this reaches the reader that amount will have been subscribed. It is reported that many have offered to donate books. That these publications will be of practical utility, is vouched for by the intelligence of the donors.

Although there may be an organization perfected at an early day, it is obligatory on all to foster it with judicious care. And in conclusion we would ask each one to seek some suitable method of using time, talents or means, in promoting and developing to its utmost usefulness this common interest. Can not every one choose a path and work in it, leaving to others to supplant whatever may be out of their line of action?

Let us be heartily engaged, doing what we can to further the measures that are proposed, examine with care the details, that our co-operation may prove of value to others as well as to ourselves.

From "The Times."

EDITORS TIMES:—Seeing an article in your paper last week from Arnold Parker, I was impressed with the earnestness with which he appeals to you to continue to enlighten the public in regard to the means by which he was so miraculously cured of rheumatism and hip-joint lameness by using Kendall's Spavin Cure. The article to which he alludes by Dr. Bates, impressed me so favorably with the real merits of this remedy that I tried it also for several blemishes on my horses and found it the most perfect cure I ever tried for spavins and other blemishes, as it completely removes the enlargement in every instance by continuing its use for several days after the lameness had subsided. The perfect success I have always had with Kendall's Spavin Cure led me to use it on my own person, and for all the family with the very best results as a family liniment. While several of the cures made with it have been almost miraculous, none have been more satisfactory than several cures which I made with it of foot-rot and also sore teats as well as warts on teats of cows. I consider it a cure for sore teats or foot-rot in either cows or sheep. With the satisfaction this remedy has always given in every instance, I cannot refrain asking with my friend Parker that you continue to make known to the world this, the grandest discovery of the nineteenth century.

Yours truly,
JAMES CAMPBELL.

Herkimer, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1881.

The above letter, with one published last week, encourages us in our efforts to make our paper one of the most valuable journals in the country and to all our patrons, and we now ask others of our readers who have been alike benefitted by the letter published one year ago from Dr. Bates that they send us for publication, statements which they may wish to make for the benefit of others.—[Ed.]

—At the sale of property belonging to the Rieder estate, cows brought $40 to $45; three-year-old steers, $35; yearlings, $16. The sale amounted to about $1,200, and a good portion of it was paid in cash. Jno. Huber, auctioneer, is our authority for the above facts.

What is Practical?

The article of Mr. G. W. Stevens, in the last issue of the JOURNAL, on, "What to Teach," was so decidedly one-sided, that, with all respect for Mr. Stevens, whom I do not know personally, I will endeavor to present the other side.

He asks, "what things our boys and girls at the present day should learn?" The object of the school is not simply to teach the child, that is to impart information. This is one object, but an equally important one is to educate the child, to draw out, expand, discipline the mind. The aim should be not simply to cram the cistern of the childish mind, but to develop the cistern into a vast reservoir of thought and feeling, for that is what the manly mind should be. The importance of discipline should not be lost sight of, for a young man with a thoroughly-trained mind, though deficient in practical information, is in a better condition to enter the busy world than one who possesses only a jumbled and disorganized mass of practical knowledge. A mind that has been carefully trained in the study of Latin and Greek will very quickly grasp the details of any ordinary business, if, indeed, it is a practical mind. This suggests another tho't, that the object of the school is not to shape all minds in one cast-iron mould. Each individual should be developed in the direction of his peculiar bent, that is to say, the individual should be developed as an individual. Some minds are not practical, and no process has yet been discovered to make them practical. Yet there is a place for them, and a use for them. Some of the men who have exerted a magic power over their fellows have been rather unpractical. Wendel Phillips, and Sir Walter Scott are types of this class. The unpractical works of such men have always had their money value; hence, the practical man will have to acknowledge that unpractical things sometimes have a very practical result.

Again, many of our boys are to be ministers, doctors, lawyers, literary men, etc. Is a mere practical education, in the sense in which Mr. Stevens seems to speak, sufficient for these? Decidedly not. For, to say nothing of the higher order of discipline which is imparted by a diversity of studies, men in all these professions need a large fund of eclectic information, in addition to the definite knowledge which is peculiar to the professions.

I protest against the notion that everything must be cast aside as worthless which does not make a man more successful as a money-getter, or a bread-and-butter producer. The man is larger, broader, greater than the groceryman, the coal dealer, the cotton spinner, or even than the congressman; and it is the whole man that should be educated. FRANKLIN PIERCE.
