The system is not now, in any sense, an experiment, and its success would perhaps justify a still greater reduction. It is an interesting fact that two million dollars have been paid for money orders that have never been presented.—Omaha Republican.

The North Carolina Methodist who sang so loudly and discourteously in church as to annoy other worshippers and was indicted as a nuisance, has won his case. The language of the court is: "The disturbance of a congregation by singing, when the singer does not intend to disturb it, but is conscientiously taking part in the religious services, may be a subject for the discipline of his church, but not indictable."

It is well known that for several years before his death Emerson's memory was very untrustworthy. But it was with a fine sense of humor that he appreciated the little difficulties caused him by his weakness.

One day his daughter saw him diligently searching for something, and would have aided him, but he could not tell what he wanted. His treacherous memory had let slip the name of the article. At last he turned to her with merry inspiration twinkling in his eyes and said, "It is the thing that people take away." She at once brought him his umbrella, and all was right.—Inter-Ocean.

MARSHAL McCool was a posse of men found on the morning of the 28th ult., the decomposed body of Wm. Anst, of Omaha, two miles from Snake creek, in the sand hills. They found upon his person $23, thus showing that he was not murdered for his money. They also found some promissory notes, with the following letter written by him:

JULY, (no date), 1882. I have been carried away one evening from Omaha, my home, and they got me to place which I did not know. I found out in the morning it was a great territory. I had nothing to eat or drink in five days. I cannot say when I can get any. I say good bye to all, and hope you will do well. W. M. AUST.

Mr. Aust was a well-to-do butcher in Omaha, and left there three weeks ago for the Black Hills, his object being the collection of $1,600 or $1,700 due on sold shipped two years ago. He was last heard from while alive on the road from Sidney to Leadwood, near Snake Creek Station, where he jumped from the stage, and disappeared among the sand hills, where he remained until he perished from exposure and hunger. It is a very sad occurrence.

THE river and harbor bill was taken up in the house on the 2d, and the vote was immediately taken upon the question, "shall the bill pass, the objections of the president to the contrary notwithstanding," and a yeas and nays ordered. The vote resulted, yeas 121, nays 60. Our representative, Mr. Valentine, voting for the bill. In the Senate the vote resulted on the bill 41 yeas, nays 16, Senator Van Wyck voting nays. So the bill passed notwithstanding the objections. It is rather hard to predict what may be the results politically of the passage of the bill, but we learn from our exchanges that democrats were delighted with the result, and were on high feather after the passage of the bill.

A FEW different articles combined don't generally spoil the soup, but for the democrats, republicans, greenbackers and alliance men to mix up their own principles with temperance, prohibition and woman suffrage in the coming political contest in Nebraska, will certainly spoil the political "broth" for all of them. Political issues should be few, and made distinct and plain, and the unpopularity of one issue generally considered to be subordinate, should never be permitted to be used by any party to defeat the popular issue which is dominant and ought to prevail. We are not all ways wise enough to see or comprehend the final result of our actions, especially when we become enthusiastic on any one issue. It will be highly necessary for the members of the different political State conventions to keep cool, and bring to bear upon their action all the judgment and wisdom they possess in formulating the questions at issue before the people. Doubtless it will be possible to leave every issue where it properly belongs, and where the voters desire it should be.

THE British military authorities in Egypt incline to the opinion that Arabi Pasha will not make an attack. He is, however, strengthening his position, and his soldiers are working like slaves on the intrenchments. The English experience much trouble in moving their heavy ordnance, by the use of which they intend to dislodge Arabi, and gunners and guns from the feet are being sent to the front. A terrible story of the atrocities at Tantau is related by an escaped eye-witness. Omar Luffi has been appointed Minister of War and Marine. An officer who deserted from Arabi says that, under the protection of a flag of truce, the rebels are constructing fortifications near Aboukir, and are also making formidable preparations near Rosetta. A message from the Queen calling out the reserves was read in the House of Commons. The Cunard Company are busy preparing shipping to transport troops to Egypt. Turkey has decided to dispatch troops to Egypt, and Dervisch Pasha will be intrusted with the organization of the expedition. An Italian journal anticipates future complications growing out of Anglo-French intervention in Egypt, and claims Italy acted wisely in refusing to be dragged into the business.—Inter-Ocean.
