-A number of the parents and members of the school board visited the different school rooms Friday last to inspect the written work of the pupils during the last term. The adoption of this method here is certainly commendable for very many, substantial reasons. From the primary department, where, under the Mrs. Ballou the gentle little ones are led along the way of learning, to the highest department, the work on paper, in black and white, shows for pupil, teacher, parent and friend, the Bacon said long ago that writing makes the exact man, and it remains facility of expression: the formation its which will endure through life : the knowledge of language by actual use, rather than an abstract fact having no application to everyday work; the correction of bad habits and slovenly work; a strong desire to improve upon former efforts, besides all which it keeps a complete record of educational progress of every pupil, which is an invaluable aid to teachers. Supt. Cramer, and all the teachers in all the departments under his supervision deserve the thanks of pupils ized agent at Humphrey for soliciting and parents for the spirit in which they have done their work. We noticed in the work of six and eight years old boys and girls, a neatness of penmanship and accuracy of expression, which would do honor to many him your home work and your home a man and woman five times that age. We predict for this method a universal adoption.

Plenty of water and mud. Quite a sad accident occurred in Humphrey precinct: a little girl of James Brown was riding on the corn planter while her father was drilling beans. Somehow she caught her small hand in the cog wheels of the planter and completely mashed several of her little fingers. Last Thursday night a storm of rain hail and wind moved several small buildings from their foundations and the large hotel trame of Jacob Steffes new building was twisted on its pins about eight inches; several of his windows were broken by hail. The stable owned by Mr. Clark was moved nearly two feet with his team inside, a narrow escape for the horses.

The people of Humphrey will not be outdone, as they intend to celebrate the glorious Fourth in a right royal manner, speaking by celebrated orators, games, races such as sack race. catching greased pig, horse race are talked of.
