TRULY TIMELY.

For the season is just right for such a trip. Outlined—Very Interesting Details of September's Grand Excursion of Excursions.

The Grand excursions eastward announced for September by the Baltimore and Ohio are attracting widespread attention, and it is not strange that such should be the case, as no more attractive trip has been offered for years. In the way of rates the programme is particularly enticing, as it is very rarely indeed nowadays that a reduction on tickets is consented to, down to so low a figure as half fare, or one regular fare for the round trip, thus taking in the enormous territory covered by the B. & O. system, of which Chicago, Columbus, St. Louis, Louisville, Cincinnati and Pittsburg are important centres.

Every preparation is being made in the matter of cars, dining accommodations and the excursions, and will be remarkable for complete and thorough facilities to insure absence of crowding and the perfect comfort of all. Magnificent new parlor and sleeping cars will be run through without change, elegant dining cars provided and new day coaches in abundance. From Baltimore and Washington extensive facilities will be offered for the continuous enjoyment of the excursions. Two lines of steamers will be run from Washington to Old Point Comfort, Fortress Monroe and Norfolk, with the fare not exceeding one dollar and a-half for the round trip. The famous Bay View Hotel at Old Point is of immense dimensions, one of the largest hotels in the world, and is situated on a fact in the country. It is a glorious trip down the beautiful Chesapeake Bay to the Atlantic Ocean. Old Point never looked more attractive than now, and its bathing shore is a sight to behold when the tide is in, with hundreds of merry bathers tumbling about in the surf. Fortress Monroe is but a few steps from the hotel and open to tourists, as are all the many cities of great historic interest within easy reach on the Peninsula, so celebrated in the annals of the war; the Soldiers' Home, Hampton Church and too many other points to mention, while a brief excursion to the beautiful islands of Norfolk, Portsmouth and other Virginia centres of interest. Making the trip from either Washington or Baltimore one night, and back the next, the excursionist has the whole day at his disposal, and is enabled to visit Washington it is only a little over two hours' ride to Harper's Ferry, the most noted spot perhaps among all the historic centres on the Potomac. The lovely river is reached in a few hours, and the excursionist is enabled to visit the ruins of the old arsenal, Jefferson Rock, etc. The round trip costs but about a dollar and a-half, and the money well spent. Another inexpensive trip, and a most delightful one, is that from Washington to the Potomac, skirted by historic shores, to Mount Vernon. From Baltimore and Washington special fast excursion trains will be run to the wonderful Lora Caverns of Virginia, and the excursionist is enabled to visit any other known subterranean chamber. The fare, three fifty for the round trip, including admission to the caverns. In addition, there will be a special train to Baltimore, and a special train to Washington, and a special train to the Potomac, with a low rate as fifty cents for the round trip, and in fact no end of pleasure to be commanded at practically nominal figures. From Baltimore to Washington the special train will be run to the Potomac, and return, the round trip will only be a dollar twenty, with trains at least every hour, and often hardly more than a quarter of an hour apart. The distance is but forty miles, and B. & O. trains make it in fifty minutes, some of them, and others in one hour. This enables frequent visits from one city to the other, and excursionists who prefer to make their headquarters at Washington, where there are hotel accommodations for a very multitude. Baltimore is also exceedingly well provided with hotels, and in either city the regular rates will be strictly adhered to. The sleeping-car accommodations en route will do well to write to B. & O. agents to this end, also as regards any information which may be desired. The preparations for the grand Oriole festival at Baltimore are being pushed forward with great energy and upon a hitherto unprecedented scale. The mystic pageant on the night of September 15th will itself be worth a journey of a thousand miles or more to witness. Nothing approaching it in extent and grandeur was ever before attempted in the world. All three of the carnival nights will be strikingly brilliant, as the programme is replete with novel features.

For the Journal.

Health Notes.

"Rounded features." Look at a healthy child. What roundness of form, what fine curves, what graceful gestures! There is nothing abrupt, or forced, or unnatural, or affected. The changes from this condition to the reverse are gradually produced, as the child becomes a man or a woman, by hard labor, by privations, by physical or mental suffering, but above all by the destructive power of the passions. A word to the wise is sufficient.

"The Will must sit supreme." Here we touch on the core of the difficulty. Ill-health in much more the result of weakness and perversity of Will than generally supposed. Also, reverse, ill-health leads to Will-weakness. Ignorance of the laws of health is a source of much suffering; yet a complete knowledge of them is not sufficient. We must also be in possession of the Will power to live in accordance with them. How and where obtain this Will power? To answer this question and to solve this supreme problem is the proper and peculiar province of religion. The object of religious activity is the complete and perfect health and soundness of the human being—using the term health not in its limited, but in its universal and philosophical sense. From this high philosophical standpoint, pride, selfishness, hatred, uncharitableness, envy, malice, levity, profanity, irreverence, carnal lust, untruthfulness, are all so many diseases, or rather, the various symptoms of one fundamental disease. And these deeper diseases are of greater importance than the mere physical and superficial, inasmuch as they are at the bottom of the latter and are centric. Of what use can it be, to gain the whole world and lose the soul, that is self? When the soul, the self, is destroyed, fatally injured, there is evidently nothing left—that is the end of all for that individual. Hence, to preserve the soul, the self, the health, in its centre and its periphery, is the first, the supreme business of every man.
