> caster county has moved in the matter. -Nebraska farmers are alive to the fact that this is a stock state at present, adapted to mixed farming. Indications show that the chief crops here this year will be corn and oats. These are almost unfailing crops and while the corn will fatten the cattle, hoge and sheep, the oats will make a rich supply for all the young stock. What we don't know about farming would, of course, fill a very large book, (using a trite saying) but, after the above named for main crops, we don't remember anything we ever raised on the farm that did better, gave us more pounds of good feed to the acre, at a less expense, than broadcast corn. Probably the very worst time of the year for stock is the spring of the year, after a long term of dry feed, and just then is the time for the corn-fodder, the clear oats straw or something of that nature, besides which it is good all through the winter, for calves, milch cows and such stock cattle as for any reason, need a little nursing.

A Young Woman Attempts to Drown Herself in the Loupe.

Lyda Goldsby is a young woman who has been engaged as a domestic in different households of the city having resided here for several months past. Last Saturday she had some kind of trouble with the lady of the household in which she was employed and in the evening went to the house of Mr. Nelson, who lives on the bottom, and in whose employ she had formerly worked. Mrs. Nelson was not at home at the time. The girl seemed very much cast down and despondent and to the inquiry of Mr. N. as to the cause, stated that she had been abused and made to suffer from evil reports, which were false and groundless.
