THE dailies have been teeming with conjectures of the presidential nominating campaign that is now about to be closed at Chicago, but doubtless before this issue of the JOURNAL reaches all our readers, the republican nominee will have been named, and so it is quite unnecessary for us to journalize the conjectures.

BIRDIE WILSON, Mary Crissman, Luella Pingree, Sadie Conner, Lydia Mitchell and Grace Jackson graduated the other evening at the commencement exercises of the Kearney high school. Prof. Miller delivered an able address to the class. He has had charge of the school for the past two years, and his work has been reported excellent.

Looking Toward Chicago.

Nominating conventions do not always express the wish of the electors supposed to be represented by delegates, and therefore there is no calculating, even by approximation, what a given convention will do. Those who have a notion that one of these national bodies differs, in its essential features, from any other, will after a while perhaps have their minds disabused.

The gathering now in deliberation at Chicago seems to have plainly before them a few settled propositions as a sort of basis to work upon, any of which, unheeded by them, may make them chargable with blundering.

First. Republicanism means liberty guarded by law; it means progress; it means an honest, hearty attempt to solve living, vital problems; it means a broadened field for our commerce; it means the "American idea" of fair play and an opportunity for all, at home and abroad; it means continuing progress towards the absolute rule "of the people, by the people, for the people."

The convention will blunder if they imagine this is a time for temporizing, a time for lowering the flag of progress, a time for dodging the issues plainly in view. On the contrary, the party of ideas must again plant its standard on the upper planes of political conscience and morality, and lead onward and upward the hosts anxious and eager to follow.

Second. The candidates should represent the progressive spirit of the times, be men well known to the country, and having its confidence. The next president should be a man of great ability as a statesman. With such a man, and anything like favorable conditions so far as national legislation is concerned, the next four years will show a marked and wonderful improvement in national affairs, because we are far enough away from the late civil strife to become, on good provocation, a really united people, harmoniously working together for the general interest.

Third. It will be a fatal blunder to select a comparatively unknown man. This risk cannot be taken with anything like safety. If the contest proves unsuccessful for the men chiefly named, the representative republicans at Chicago will do well to unite at once upon General Sherman and Robert Lincoln, model American citizens, men of brain and nerve, men of stamina, and men of courage who have shown that they actually believe in good government.

RECENTLY the city of London was threatened with a small-pox scare. The malady is alarmingly prevalent in several metropolitan districts, and is spreading from the city to adjoining provinces, several of which are already badly infected. Some idea of the present prevalence of the plague may be formed from the magnitude of the efforts which have already been forced upon the authorities to control the disease. London alone, since the start of the plague last November, has expended $250,000 for additional accommodations for the constantly increasing number of the afflicted. It is now proposed to erect new, metropolitan, small-pox hospitals at a cost of $750,000.

BRO. WILLARD of the Loup City Times closes a well written editorial in these words:

"We are not for Blaine for any meteor like brilliancy his enemies may have discovered; we are for Blaine because of his manhood, his statesmanship, his fitness, his supreme faith in the all conquering power of principle, his love of learning, and patient industry, which has revealed to the world, the ponderous elements of his mind, and lastly, to use his own words in his eulogy on Garfield, "because all the world in concert cannot keep him in the back-ground," for while in the front he has played his part with a prompt intrepidity, and commanding ease, that are the outward symptoms of the immense reserve of energy in his power to draw on."

THE attendance on the national greenback convention at Indianapolis, Ind., is unexpectedly quite large, no less than seven hundred delegates already estimated that will be in attendance. All indications point to the nomination of Butler. Although there is some opposition to Butler, there is no probability that it will develp enough strength to defeat him. An attempt has been made to make a candidate of Jesse Harper, of Illinois. It is said the Maryland delegation will vote for him, but the movement seems to have little strength elsewhere. Geueral West, of Mississippi, appears to be the unanimous choice for vice-president.

It Was Finally Decided.

There was a warm discussion in a parish meeting of the Seventy-first church the other evening. It was shown that something must be done at once in the way of economy, and various suggestions were made toward the curtailment of expenses. One brother thought the paid choir should be given up, another suggested that the Sunday-school pic-nic, the young people's dance, and the older people's monthly raffle could be dispensed with; but it was finally decided to reduce the minister's salary. It would never do to interfere with the necessities of worship.—Chicago Tribune.

SENATOR INGALLS has reported to the senate from the judiciary committee, the following substitute for the joint resolution introduced by senator Jackson, proposing an amendment to the constitution: "Executive power shall be vested in the President of the United States of America. The President and Vice-President hereafter elected shall hold their offices for a term of six years, but the President shall not be re-eligible, nor shall the Vice-President be eligible to the office of President if he shall have exercised the same in case of vacancy therein."

From The Speech of Senator Van Wyck.

"The house cannot afford, neither can we on this side afford to close our doors with no legislation on the subject. We talk about the national debt. We have been legislating for weeks and months about our national debt, and yet look for a moment on the railroad property of this country, which to-day is appraised at their own figures at nearly $7,000,000,000. According to Poore's manual the value is double the actual cost, say $3,000,000,000. The figures are almost staggering. In what manner has this immense debt—because it is a debt upon the people—been piled up? In the early days they had credit mobiliers, and little and distinguished statesmen in this land and men intelligent, prominent in the social and financial world and in the politics of the country, were in them. I am speaking about the system, not about individuals; and a great authority on this matter explains how these securities are sold and how they are purchased.

By purchase, on the same terms as they were sold on the Boston market to all applicants—

Of course it is all right as it was done in Boston—

sold to Josiah Bardwell, to Elisha Atkins, and to other respectable merchants, securities, which were divided, as is usual in such enterprises, into three kinds, first mortgage bonds, second mortgage bonds, and stock. The price, I think, was three for one; that is, the purchaser got first mortgage bonds for his money, and an equal amount of second mortgage bonds or land grant bonds and of stock thrown in as the basis of possible profit.

This is the history of the system. It applies not only to the Northern Pacific but to other roads. That is the way it is done on the Boston market, and that of course is the highest type of nobility and honesty in all financial transactions. Three for one! Look at it for a moment—three for one. Here are $6,000,000,000 of securities that according to the statement of this man who is above reproach—you know who he is—that actually cost their holders $2,000,000,000. Beyond that are $4,000,000,000 which are held as mortgages on the state of Michigan, on the state of Oregon, and on the states of Kansas and Nebraska, and other states—$4,000,000,000 for which these gentlemen have not paid a farthing. We have in this way an incumbrance of more than the national debt. The national debt we can pay; this debt can never be paid. They hold it forever. They say, "We must have interest on our mortgage, we must have dividends on our stock" when they hold those stocks and those bonds on the basis of three to one. For every dollar in actual money supplied they have $3 on which they are drawing interest. Of the more than $6,000,000,000 only $2,000,000,000 have been actually expended and the $4,000,000,000 stand to-day as a mortgage upon the prosperity, upon the wealth, upon the earnings of the people."

FROST was general in Wisconsin on the night of the 28th ult. Reports from Rock county, state that tobacco is badly damaged. Small fruits and vegetables are ruined. The grape crop in East Saginaw, Mich., was severely injured, fully 25 per cent. Reports from the northern portions of Ohio indicate very serious injury to wheat, barley, corn and fruits, from the frost on the night of the 28th. The same frost extended to Freeport, Ill., greatly damaging beans, peas, potatoes, tomatoes and cabbage plants. Grapes and strawberries were almost totally ruined. Corn was severely nipped, but not killed.

THE grand lodge of Good Templars convened at Washington City in its thirtieth annual session. It is stated that four hundred delegates are in attendance, representing Canada, India, Prince Edwards' Island and every state in the Union. Presiding officer Katzenstein read his annual report, which asserts that unless one or both the great political parties declare unequivocally for temperance, that the temperance people will support the prohibition candidate to be nominated at Pittsburg, July 23d.

CAMERON, it is said, refuses to influence the delegation to Chicago, and says he will support the nominee of the convention to the utmost of his power, no matter which republican candidate may be nominated. That is certainly the right kind of spirit to manifest, especially so coming from a man who wields a large political influence in his own state. His example is worthy of imitation by other politicians occupying similar positions toward the people.

THE majority report of the senate election committee on the Danville riot declared that it was premeditated and preconcerted for the purpose of raising a race issue and intimidating the negroes; that the democrats prearranged the riot and endorsed it after it had occurred. Mr. Lapham, who prepared the report, introduced some telegrams which he claimed sustain the conclusion that the riot was the deliberate work of the democratic party.

THE tariff question threatens to divide the democracy as a two-edged sword. It is, with them, all the way from absolute free trade with direct taxation to support the government, through "freer trade," tariff for revenue only, tariff for revenue, tariff for revenue with incidental protection, and tariff for revenue and protection. And the discussion has been so heated that there is a liability that some wing of the bird may get hurt.

A DISPATCH from Omaha to the Chicago Times claims "half the Nebraska delegates for Blaine and half for Arthur on the first ballot, though Arthur may catch eight of the ten when it is necessary for him to have them." And yet there is no shadow of doubt but Nebraska is decidedly for Blaine, which fact these delegates may have occasion to know more pointedly than they now seem to be aware of.

A MAN by the name of Kobeck, at Kearney, Neb., attempted to murder his wife by shooting her the other night. One ball passed through her head in front of the lower part of the ear, going out on the opposite side. She is lying in a critical condition. His attempt to commit suicide will prove ineffectual, notwithstanding he severed a portion of his windpipe. He has been arrested and lodged in jail.

IT turns out upon further investigation of the case of ex-Senator W. Sharon and Miss Hill for a divorce and alimony, that when she first went to live with him Sharon offered her $250 a month to live with him. She replied that it was not enough, when he increased the offer to $500, which was silently accepted. From that Sharon states that he continued to pay Miss Hill that amount monthly.

THIRTY delegates from the Universal Peace Union called upon the President the other day to testify to their approbation of the President's administration and particularly his course in reference to the Congo river and Panama canal. The President expressed sympathy with their cause and added that it was nearly a settled fact that this country is to remain at peace with other nations.

A DISTINGUISHED party left Washington and visited Annapolis the other day. It included the president of the senate and speaker of the house, members of the senate and house, the commissioners on naval affairs and appropriations, Admiral Porter, Lieut.-General Sheridan, the ministers of England, Russia, Germany, France and the Maryland members of congress.

BENJ. JOHNSON, who was indicted at Cincinnati, O., with others, for the murder of the Taylor family at Avondale, was the other afternoon found guilty of murder in the first degree. This was the case where the bodies were sold to the Ohio medical college and $15 apiece paid for them to Ingalls and Johnson. Ingalls hung himself in the jail a short time ago.

Correspondence.

[In this department the people talk, and not the editor. Each writer must hold himself ready to defend his principles and his statements of facts. "In the multitude of counsel there is wisdom."—ED. JOURNAL.]

A Card Explanatory—An Amende Honorable.

In the Columbus correspondence to the Norfolk Journal of May 30th, appears the following:

"The principal of the North Side Grammar School chastised a young lady pupil with a leather strap last Thursday. This young pedagogue seems to have greatly missed his vocation, or, he accidentally inhabits a part of this mundane sphere entirely unsuited to one of his peculiarly active temperament. The dexterity with which he handled the strap, on the above occasion, suggests the artistic skill displayed, obtained only through long continued training, and reflects credit on his alma mater. We trust our Board of Education will kindly relieve him from his present irksome position, and permit him to find a more congenial one—say public castigator for the State of Delaware. Perhaps with a trifle more experience he might become "Chief Inspirator of the Knout" and "Keeper of the 'Privy Cat-o'-nine-tails'" under his Imperial Majesty's domain in Siberia land."

In a personal interview with Prof. Garlow, on Saturday last, he admits the chastisement as above charged, and in justification thereof, made the following counter charges, viz:

1st. That he could not keep order in school without resorting to corporal punishment.

2d. That another teacher whipped six pupils to his one, and the writer hereof made no fuss about it.

3d. That still another was cross, angular and harsh to her pupils, and the writer hereof remained silent.

4th. That it was not my child he chastised, hence none of my business.

5th. That I do not reside in that district, and therefore he is not subject to my criticism.

6th. That I do not send my children to that school.

7th. That in the use of the words "Alma Mater" I insulted his mother.

8th. That the communication, aside from the simple statement of facts, has injured him mentally, and greatly impaired his usefulness.

9th. That a card is due from me, with full publicity in COLUMBUS JOURNAL and Norfolk Journal.

We give Prof. Garlow, full benefit of his defense without comment, and leave the verdict to the people. And furthermore to do the agreeable, to save blood and heal all wounds, we hereby make the public announcement that Prof. Garlow is under no obligations whatever, either written or implied to obey the suggestions in the last half of the above communication, and if at any time he may have felt so impelled, he is hereby publicly assured that he is freely and fully absolved from the same. And upon mature deliberation, with an earnest, penitent spirit, and to remedy as far as lies in our power a grave indignity, we hereby publicly beg pardon of the State of Delaware, and each and every citizen thereof without regard to age, sex, creed or color.

To the Emperor of all the Russias, to the Imperial house-hold, to each and every inhabitant of that broad domain, we bow in humiliation to the very dust. WILL B. DALE,
Late "Special" of Norfolk Journal.

Humphrey.

Crops look favorably.

M. Postle has gone to Illinois and intends to bring back a car-load of horses.

We are, it is generally supposed to have a newspaper in Humphrey, Mr. Robinson, editor.

Court street was alive last week with parties seeking Justice for their several grievances.

Mr. and Mrs. Briggle are receiving a visit from his mother and brother and brother's wife.

Mr. Nichols is stopping at the Granville House. We understand he intends to build and do banking business.

F. M. Cookingham and Newell South have purchased the building and lot known as the Sherwood building in Humphrey.

In next week's issue we think without doubt we can name the next President of the United States and we are not much given to prophecy, either.

Humphrey has the fortune to hold a goodly number of the right material for a music band, and we should judge from the practice they are having they will be prepared to hail with music with the band the nomination of the next president this week, be it Blaine or Arthur.

A lodge of the A. O. U. W. was instituted under charter in this place on Monday evening, the 26th inst. Sixteen in number met at the office of F. M. Cookingham, and were kindly received in the order by T. A. Forman, Deputy Grand Master Workman. The following officers were elected: F. H. Baker, P. M. W.; G. W. Clark, M. W.; F. M. Cookingham, F.; C. H. Betts, O.; I. Briggle, R.; M. C. Bloedorn, Fin.; W. H. Selsor, Rec.; D. J. Drebert, Guide; F. J. Jones, I. W.; E. C. Rebar, O. W.; G. W. Kibbler, Ira B. Briggle and F. F. Clark, trustees. The lodge will hold its regular meetings on the first and third Fridays of each month.

N. South is selling his second car load of Twine Binders, now, for this season. He says after making an offer to put $1,600 in to build a town hall and the committee, consisting of Murphy, Clark, Bloedorn, Sherwood, Eschelbacker, Robinson from town could not meet the balance of $3,000, making less than what he offered to raise alone, he has put forth his efforts on better material for improvements and has taken orders for nearly two car loads of Twine binders. The hall has not been built yet but it is generally understood by the town committee with the exception of N. South and Jacob Steffis that what they want in the shape of a town hall is a building of very moderate size built on the street called by some Broadway, on outskirts of town where nobody would kick as it has been said (to the boys running it) and seeing the law will not allow the saloons to sell on Sunday, the boys will be able to buy their keg of beer and have what they call a good time. It is to be hoped that before such a step is taken that the party wishing to so operate will be converted to morality, if not to law-abiding citizens. C.
