They were to play the Platte Creek yesterday and from there go to North Platte for a game to-day and tomorrow return to Platte Creek for another game on Friday. No doubt the boys will come back covered with laurels.

WE WILL CELEBRATE.
Preparations for a Rousing Celebration in Columbus.
Arrangements have been completed in such a manner as to leave no doubt that the coming Fourth will be appropriately celebrated in this city. The fire department have the matter in charge and have selected Frankfort Square as the site for a large and well-seated arbor where the multitude may listen to the reading of the Declaration of Independence and the thrilling oratory of prominent speakers.
The various committees are working industriously on the different parts of the attractive program which they announce in a large poster. Music for the day will be furnished by the Columbus Cornet Band who will head the grand parade in their handsome new uniforms.
One of the amusing features of the day will be the "Calithumpians" and the business house representations in the parade, which we are assured is to be immense. This feature is under the special supervision of old hands at the business.
The Hastings base ball club promises to come to Columbus on the Fourth with an excursion of three coaches well filled with admirers of the National game.
In the evening there will be a grand display of fireworks which the committee announces will be the largest ever witnessed in Central Nebraska; the festive occasion to close with a ball at the Opera House, where all so disposed may trip the "light fantastic" to their heart's content.
Everybody, from all over the country are invited to come and celebrate with us.
Humphrey.
Very quiet in town.
Farmers are busy in corn.
G. W. Kibler talks of coming to town.
Our first paper will be issued Friday of this week.
Everything is being done to make the celebration a success on the 4th.
We have no less than three horse jockeys camping and trading near town.
At the meeting of the A. O. U. W. it was decided to hold the next regular meeting Monday eve, after the Fourth of July.
As announced, the presiding elder of the Methodist church held quarterly meeting here Saturday and Sunday, and we believe that our people will be profited by the eloquence and sound teaching of the presiding elder.
Base Ball at Central City.
PLUM CREEK, June 23, 1884.
EDITOR JOURNAL, Dear Sir:—The Columbus club played the first game of their trip at Central City on Monday, Martin and Hurst were the battery. The Columbus club only placed eight men in the field and in the fourth inning Hurst, the catcher, was disabled, having his thumb split by a foul tip. The game was played out by Columbus with seven men, resulting 18 to 6 in favor of Columbus. The features of the game were the heavy batting of the Columbus team and the playing of left base by Tommy Wake. Chas. Wake joined the boys at Plum Creek and will pitch the remainder of the games. The nine is greatly crippled by the loss of Hurst and Dougherty.
Truly yours,
J. C. MARTIN.

Opera House, One Night Only, Friday, June 27.
Mr. Charles A. Gardner, the German dialect comedian, with a very good company supporting him, appeared at the Grand Opera House last evening in a comedy-drama, entitled "Karl." Mr. Gardner played the part of Karl Stein with a good deal of humor, and his songs and dances were received with uproarious applause. He has a good dialect, is exceedingly funny when he acts out to be as funny as he can, and commands encores with surprising facility. He belongs to the Emmet school and is an excellent representative of it.—Evening Republic, Buffalo, N. Y.
—The B. & M. freight going south Monday afternoon met with an accident near the bridge which threw the engine and one car from the track. The accident delayed the regular passenger in the evening, the buses and teams bringing up the passengers to the city. A temporary track was laid around the wreck and the passenger train ran as usual Tuesday morning. No one injured.
—The Cornet Band appeared on the streets Friday evening in their new uniforms, drawing a throng of interested spectators around them to listen to the excellent music and admire the splendid appearance of the boys in their new clothes. We believe the general verdict is that the band has made a good selection and have just a little the "alickest" uniform of any band in the state.
—The Loup and Platte rivers should be shunned by boys—and even men—who are not experienced swimmers—as places to go bathing. The other day J. I. Slattery's son came near drowning while bathing with other youngsters in the Loup. He was saved by the presence of mind and prompt action of Ted Norvell, one of his companions, who with his clothes still on, sprang to his rescue.
—Chris. From, accompanied by his wife, started to Butler county Monday last in response to a telegram that his mother was dead. They took the B. & M. afternoon freight which was derailed near the bridge, and were obliged to walk across the bridge to Bellwood and go by team from that point.
—A party of about forty partook of dinner at Jos. Gardner's Sunday week in honor of his daughter's marriage with Wm. Ferguson.

Platte Center Items.
Republicans are happy and democrats are wondering why it is thusly. Platte Centre is booming and no mistake. Blaine and Logan above par.
O yes! Wm. F. Edwards will soon have his cozy residence done and then—and then—
Mr. Gus Williams is making preparations for building a residence and livery and sale stable.
Crops look fine and farmers are in good spirits and anticipate a pocket full of "rocks" this fall.
David Maylor looks like a major-general when on his charger. Dave says that he will vote for John A. Logan.
Well, well, the ice-cold lemonade days are here and you ought to see the boys taking the fair ones to the soda founts.
Republicans are all getting new hats and democrats are looking around for some one to slaughter. I wonder if Sammy J. will consent to run?
"Ted" says that the republicans should have nominated some man that had stability. "Ted" should have gone to the convention and put in his little speech. I feel sorry for "Ted," but it is thusly—it's Blaine all the same and he will "get there, Eli."
Our fellow townsman, Mr. J. A. Kehoe, has been on a visit to his friends in Canada, and I presume that John had something to say in getting Blaine nominated, because if Sammy J. had to be slaughtered he wanted it done by a respectable man and statesman like the "Plumed Knight," of Maine.
We want more insurance agents. I'll bet the cigars that Platte Centre can produce more insurance agents of any town in the state, but there is room for one more. But we do want a bank—a bank that won't "bust."
We also want three or four lawyers, same number of physicians of diversified schools, and we want a good restaurant and any one who will come now will do a good business.
Our Wm. Bloedorn is moving along lively and from the way wind-mills and machines for harvesting are going out would indicate that those chaps who are traveling through the country selling machinery are not damaging him in the way of trade. Everybody knows Billy and know that he is a good mechanic and will make his work good. I would say to farmers who are interested in their own welfare and the prosperity of Platte Centre, if you wish your land to increase in value and want a good market at home, patronize home first, for by your influence and trade you make the town. It is a fact the merchant and the mechanic depend upon the farmer and when you fall down goes all others; and if we expect to be prosperous and be happy in life we must build up our home trade. We have the best farming country in Platte county, or, in fact, in the state and why should we be behind in all undertakings of public good?
LOGAN THE CHIEF.
—The promptness with which the Seward papers chime in to the support of each other in matters pertaining to the general welfare of the community is good to witness, and indicates that the management of these journals is in the hands of men who appreciate what is due from them to their patrons. How much more sensible and proper this course than that of many editors who eternally parade—under the guise of journalism—their spiteful jealousy and the worst features of their nature, which leads them to oppose every movement of a contemporary, no matter what interests are at stake.
An Editor's Tribute.

Having been cured by it of every cough I have had for five years, I consider it the only reliable and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, etc." Call at Dowty & Chinn's Drug Store and get a Free Trial Bottle. Correspondence from Arkansas.
LITTLE ROCK, June 2nd, 1884.
EDITOR JOURNAL:—From Beebe to this place is a distance of thirty-three miles; we found the country somewhat similar to farther north but more sandy (but will be specific on this point in a future letter.) Little Rock, the state capitol, is built on the high hills on the west side of the Arkansas river, and claims a population white and colored, of some thirty thousand. It is a pretty city, and can truly claim the high honor of being called the city of roses; its manufacturing industries are still in their infancy, while its central location, its facilities for conveying the manufactured product to market, surrounded as it is, by its varied forest growth of superb timber, and the many minerals buried in the ground near her borders, will in the near future give the city a growth large and plentiful in a prosperous future: as the sturdy hand of toil and the magnetic power of capital, join hands on the high and healthy hills on which this city of roses and beautiful flowers stands. But, dear JOURNAL, enough of this city, of a probable magnificent future, with its gatherings of law-makers, fine and supreme, and with me (as in a dream) after gazing to satiety at the pure white blooms of a magnificent magnolia ascend to the second floor of a large brick building, whose outside walls from foundation to turret are covered with a magnificent growth of the evergreen English Ivy, and enter a room in the land department of the St. Louis I. M. & S. T. T. where are collected the varied products of a state little known to many of your readers, and for some moments we can but gaze in admiration at a collection so vast and grand, that for the time being we are almost lost in doubt as to what we think we have so often read of a state whose main resources were, chills and fever, and a peculiar kind of whisky, with all its peculiar results.
Of grasses, we examined one hundred and fifty varieties including the clovers and tame grasses, which do exceedingly well on all the elevated lands over which we have traveled; skeins of fine silk, and the cocoon in its crude state, side by side: cotton as gathered and by the new process manufactured into yarn, thereby saving the waste and expense of the spinning-mill. Wool as grown in this and many other counties, with its home manufactured products of yarns and other goods, by factories located in several counties, and shorn from the native and also the pure Cotswold, Shorthorn and other breeds of world wide fame. In minerals, ores, stone, kaolin, &c., the collection showed how vast was the crude products buried in the hills and mountains. The specimens of wheat, oats, rye, millet, corn, cane in stalk, ear, and grain were large in variety and fine in quality; and with ears in one variety almost eight inches in length. Stalks of corn and Sorghum sixteen feet in length, peas and pulses of varieties large in number, growth and quality. Of woods we carefully examined seventy-five varieties, including the different oaks, two varieties of pine, hickory, maple, walnut, beech, birch, gum, cherry, poplar, and a section of grapevine over fifteen inches in diameter. The national weed, from Cuba and Burley down to the more common varieties; were also fine in quality, color, and size of leaf. Nuts in large varieties, and berries from the wild, wild woods were side by side; with the largest, and most superb collection of fruits we have ever seen; only think, dear JOURNAL, of peaches weighing ten and one-half ounces, apples twenty-one ounces and measuring over fifteen inches in circumference, and pears of the Duchesse variety fully as large in size and weight.
No wonder that the growth of fruits is becoming of such magnitude in this state, when we see such a collection of apples, pears, plums, peaches, grapes, strawberries, &c., that would command the attention and respect of any horticulturist, no matter how high may be his attainments, or large his experience.
We are interrupted so much, looking around and inspecting nearly all the time, but will as often as possible forward to the JOURNAL what we see and learn.
JOHN BOANS.
Lost Creek Items.
"Hurrah for Ben Butler!" at least so Sam says.
Our folks are all going to Platte Center the Fourth, don't forget to come or you'll miss it.
Corn is looking exceedingly well and farmers feel certain of a crop this season, but small grain will not be a full crop unless we have rain soon.
It is reported that the three best fields of corn in Lost Creek are owned by J. R. Smith, Geo. Scheidel, and Fred. Jewell, each of them having from 40 to 50 acres which now averages over two feet high.
Crops looking well.
Mrs. F. H. Gerrard has gone to Fairmont, on a visit to her parents.
Mr. Murdoch has just completed a barn that looks as though it might stand both wind and weather.
We all miss the genial smile of Jas. Westerbe, who has gone to Kentucky, and hope that he has not forsaken us for good.
Farmers that have shelled corn in bulk should see that it is well aired. Mr. Webster lost considerable by heating in the granary, under a good roof.

Marl.
An unexpected large audience witnessed Charles A. Gardner's rendition of his new German character, Karl, at Music Hall to-night. The plot of the play is not only new to a Dayton audience, but is really good. Mr. Gardner is a comedian of excellent parts and is immense in German dialect, as good as "Fritz" Emmet or George Knight, if not better. His singing and dancing are good. The company throughout is a good one.—Dayton (O.) Democrat.
