THE ex-soldiers and sailors, residents of Washington, serenaded Gen. over 3,000 had already assembled. by the U.S. Marshal of the territory. Gen. G. B. Raum made a brief speech introducing Gen. Logan who adand most heartily applauded. Speech making was continued to a late hour in which the ex-soldiers participated, among whom were Senators Plumb and Harrison, Gen. Cutcheon, of Michigan; Gen. N. Goff, of West Virginia; Hou. Pettibone, of Tenn., and Gen. T. M. Bayne, of Pennsylvania.

An old street car driver in the West Division had been listening to two men who were ridiculing Logan's lack of scholarship until he boiled over something like this:

"Prob'ly John Logan can't talk in er grammarly manner. Prob'ly he can't, but let me tell yer of one time when he did talk and it sounded good to every one that heerd him. whether grammarly or not I dunno. We'd been pelting the rebs afore At-lanta and they'd pelted us until I guess we both got tired—I know we had. Strength in Union.

Our Humphrey contemporary, the Independent, affects to think that "If there is a political party existing today with a higher principle and a nobler purpose than to get, or hold, the offices, and divide the stealings, it is only in the minds and political thunder of politicians, who have an 'ax to grind' or are paid for influencing public opinion." Political parties are made up by honest, fair-minded, useful, munly voters uniting to accomplish a purpose or institute a policy of government which they deem for the good of the country. and they and their adherents are much to be preferred to that nondescript creature who has no political principles, works with nobody, has no fellow-citizens and thinks all men mercenary. In the times of rebellion it was not an uncommon saying with this class that our loyal soldiers were lates that the world will not be large in the service of their country merely enough to hold the population in a for the $13 a month that they got, and this assertion of the Independent that present political parties exist only "to get or hold the offices and divide the stealings," is as unfounded as the other, and is an insult to the intelligence of every honest greenbacker. anti-monopolist, democrat or republican who chooses to be a factor in the management of affairs, rather than be a political dude.

IT was expected at the time it occured that that "compromise" between the Senate Judiciary Comhas "no doubt of his nomination and mittee and the Union Pacific Railway Company would lead to scandalous comment, but it was hardly looked for in the Senate itself. Yet Mr. Van Wyck, who is a very outspoken Senator, has called it up in open the Judiciary Committee could make such a bargain and clinch it by a side his narrow den, and come to holz, east of town. BLAINE is very unpopular among the more Van Wyck's action would interested in having the rates of compromises with recalcitrant corporations, without once consulting the full body?
