One Lie Nailed.

Somebody has been circulating re ports against Dan. Condon to the effect that he was a railroad man, that when engaged on the Oregon Short Line as contractor, he defrauded many of his employees of their hard-earned wages, &c., &c. Patrick Kashion, who worked with Mr. Condon on this contract, volunteers the following statement, and nails the lie to the counter:

OCTOBER 25th, 1884.

To whom it may concern: I hereby certify that I worked for Dan. Condon nearly four years, on the Oregon Short Line, and in all that time I never knew of a single man who was defrauded of one cent by Mr. Condon; on the contrary he was friendly and lent a friendly hand to all the men working for him, and to many others besides; the truth is he was generous to a fault, befriending all who came.

PATRICK KASHION. Pat. Lyons adds his testimony in the following:

OCTOBER 25th, 1884. I worked as foreman, under Dan. Condon on a B. & M. railroad contract in the summer of 1879, and hereby certify that I never heard a single complaint from any workman against Mr. Condon with reference to his not paying. Assertions to the contrary are entirely unfounded. PAT. LYONS.
