It is reported that Indiana are jumping claims at Gordon, and purpose fighting it molested. We don't believe there is any truth in the report. Capt. Woodson with two companies of the 5th cavalry are ordered west of Gordon, presumably to watch, and not because of present trouble.

LAST WEEK a report was circulated from Plum Creek, Neb., that a home-steader in Custer county had been murdered. The murder grew out of trouble over a quarter section of land inside the wire fences of the Brighton Ranch Company. Long is the name of the man who committed the murder.

Enforce the Laws.

On Friday, April 10th, Joseph Y. Provenca was murdered in Custer county, while plowing on his home-stead, by one Stephen D. Long, an employe of the Brighton Ranch Co.

Recently a man and his wife were murdered and their bodies burned near North Platte.

The Nance county horror is fresh in the minds of our readers.

The tragic taking off of Nellie Quackenbush at this place last fall, the fiendish assault upon a little girl and the murderous attack upon two unoffending travelers the other day here will occur to our readers as samples of crime in Nebraska, in these years '84 and '85 that ought to deepen in the minds of our people a just determination to enforce the laws and all the laws of the land.

No man can be called a good citizen and worthy of all respect who willfully, repeatedly and maliciously violates any of the laws of the land, because, in so far as he does, he lowers the respect for all law and invites its violation in particulars where it may interfere with any criminal's notions of right.

Civil society ought to be in fact, what the phrase signifies, and just so soon as a man shows qualities that unfit him for living with civilized men, in peace and harmony, respecting the rights of others and doing his duty as a member of a law-abiding community, just so soon as the law can clutch him and place him where he will be powerless for harm, that soon should this be done.

Smith, who murdered his wife in Polk county, will never murder another after July next.

The tramp painter who assaulted the little girl and who might have killed her had the time and surroundings been a little different, will have time for reflection during his long term of hard work in the penitentiary, and if he ever comes forth from there will probably think twice before committing so serious a crime again.

The young man who thought, perhaps, that he could kill the boys who generously gave him a ride, and then steal their outfit of teams, etc., will doubtless picture that scene of freedom, and so engrave it in his memory during the weary days and cheerless nights of his incarceration that if he regains his freedom, he will be very slow to commit such a deed again.

Crime should be "nipped in the bud," and when it is known that punishment will swiftly and certainly follow any transgression of law, civilized communities will be the better by a large per cent, because crime will decrease, taxes will decrease, capabilities of individual improvement will be developed, and families become prosperous and cultured.

Every consideration that can be named points to the vital importance of enforcing the laws.

Arbor Day.

Gov. Dawes has issued his proclamation, reciting the history of Arbor Day, as instituted in 1874, by the recommendation of the State Board of Agriculture and made a legal holiday by enactment of the legislature this year, and further says:

Now, therefore, I, James W. Dawes, Governor of the State of Nebraska, contemplating the day in all its importance, and with the earnest desire that it be observed faithfully and well by the people of the State, do hereby issue my proclamation, and, as prescribed by legislative enactment, designate Wednesday, the 22d day of April, A. D. 1885, to be observed as "Arbor Day." The result of these annual periods of tree planting for the past eleven years can be seen on every hand. The once treeless prairie is dotted with young forests, and there is scarcely a village, or a homestead, or a habitation, however lowly, in the State, that has not its complement of tree, shrub or vine, the result of honest toil on the day set apart as Arbor Day. This is well. There should be no decrease in the number of trees planted each year, no discontinuance in the work of beautifying the home, no suspension of the observance of Arbor Day, which is now the legal holiday of the Nebraska husbandman.

At London there is no confirmation of the reported advance of the Russian troops. Under date of the 14th England was still preparing for war with increased vigor. A force of 100,000 men was engaged at the Chatham dock yard. Seven thousand animals for the transport service of the Indian army are proceeding to Foshin. The harbor of Bombay has been lined with torpedoes, so as to prevent the Russian fleet from entering in the event of war. Four million cartridges have been landed at Bombay. The cabinet has been summoned to an immediate council in consequence of the receipt by the government of further important dispatches in regard to the Afghan trouble.

The latest news from Broken Bow, Neb., states that settlers who have taken up land within the Brighton Ranch company limits where they have fenced several thousand acres of land contrary to law, have been driven off by armed men in the employ of the company. Last week some cow-boy shot one of the settlers named Provenca. The settlers are now arming for a determined resistance, and it is expected that more bloodshed will be the result. The fence of the stock company is being torn down and it is put up again there will doubtless be trouble.

The editor of the Atlantic Constitution has declined the Manchester Consulship with thanks, having more important and lucrative business at home. When the people want to put an editor in office let them offer him something of his size—the Presidency, for example.—Norfolk News.

WILLIAM CLARK, living near Nodaway station, about thirteen miles from St. Joseph, Mo., committed the other night a horrible triple murder and then killed himself.

The trouble arose out of the seduction of Anna, the young daughter of Mrs. Josephine Harden, a widow lady, by Clark. He was making an effort to settle the matter for money and having failed to effect it for $300, and being under the influence of liquor, became angry, drew a revolver and shot Mrs. Harden in the head over the left eye, which caused instant death. His next victim was Anna, whom he shot through the temple. Her wound is pronounced fatal. Then he fired a shot at John, the young son, the ball taking effect in the right cheek, making a terrible wound, which is pronounced not fatal. Clark left immediately for his home, a few hundred yards distant, told his wife he was going to feed the stock, and he was afterwards found about 100 yards from his home, behind a straw stack with a large bullet hole in his forehead, over the right eye. Clark has a wife and three children.

News from London on the 15th was that a cabinet counsel was being held. Nothing known of the object, but it was believed to be with reference to the Anglo-Russian difficulty.

Later—in the cabinet council to-day the Anglo-Russian difficulty it is said, was represented to be as follows: England and Russia have agreed upon a basis for the delimitation of the Afghan frontier, subject to satisfactory explanation by Russia of the recent attack on the Afghans. According to this scheme, it is said Penjdeh will be ceded to Russia provided the ameer consents.

Louisa Hittmann, a faithful and trustworthy domestic at Lincoln, Neb., was pronounced insane the other day by a commission and sent to the asylum. Such cases are always unfortunate and sad. This victim imagines that she is married, and talks a great deal about her husband. She is also unbalanced on the subject of religion, and when left alone goes down on her knees frequently in prayer.

MAXWELL, who is supposed to have murdered Preller in a St. Louis hotel, is believed to have sailed the other day from San Francisco for Sydney. It is known that Maxwell was in need of money, and also that Preller, the victim, sympathized somewhat with the dynamites, while Maxwell was his bitter opponent. The stomach of Preller was found to contain poison.

The courts of Ohio have decided that no boundary fence can be made of barbed-wire without the consent of adjacent property owners and that the man who puts up such a fence along the public highway renders himself liable for all injuries resulting therefrom. We presume that the statutes of Ohio do not make barbed-wire a legal fence.

JOHN D. MCKEE, an oil broker of Pittsburg, Pa., the other day committed suicide by blowing his brains out with a shot from a revolver. Infamously rheumatism and unfortunate speculations are believed to have prompted him to the deed.

WALLACE WALLACE attempted to board the other day a Union Pacific passenger train as it was approaching Beatrice, Neb., missed his foothold, fell under the cars and was instantly killed.

Mrs. KOCH of Minden died recently of that dreadful disease, trichinosis, caused by eating raw pork.
