The Usual Occurrence—And the Question is What Next?

About nine o'clock Sunday evening shed used as a coal house, in the rear of G. The evidences of incendiarism are pretty clear in this case, and it is now generally believed that all the recent fires, that of the Freston building, then Condon and White, afterwards the Rink and warehouse, following still the Walter Phillips building and now this attempt, have been the work of some scoundrel or crank, who, it caught, will not, probably, be allowed to pollute the air for any very great length of time. In the other cases while the grounds for suspicion were strong there was no positive evidence, but in this, it is hardly possible to believe in anything but incendiarism. In clearing up the debris of the fire Monday straw was noticed, and Mr. Heitkemper's folks are very positive that they left no straw in the place; of school-youth's, boys and men's prepared to furnish, on short notice, the gate that was fastened was found all kinds of commercial work, such opened about a foot, by one of Mr. poorer, all the while. as letter heads, note heads, bill H's, boys at the first appearance of heads, statements, circulars, envel- the fire; a girl employe was out about and Frank, returned to the city Friopes, cards, dodgers, posters, &c.; five minutes before the blaze flashed day last from Vermont. "In case of a fire attach hose to the hydrants, and the pressure of the water will force a half dozen streams higher than any buildings that will ever be erected in Neligh. Wisner put in a similar system of water works last year at an expense of less than $5,000." The Advocate proceeds to say that it would be the best investment the town could make because it would make them almost entirely safe from fires and would greatly lower the rates of insurance. A like principle applies to every town in the state.
