The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints during the week ending June 13th was $11,500. The issue for the corresponding period last year was $34,998.

An old lady 70 years of age wandered away from her home near Hanover, Neb., the other day and was found a few hours afterwards in a slough.

Mrs. HOFF, living near Hastings, Neb., died the other afternoon from the effects of poisoned corn-beef. Her husband is still in a precarious condition, with fair hopes of recovery.

The comptroller of the currency at Washington has appointed Benj. S. Werick and Samuel H. Taylor to be National Bank examiners. He has assigned the former to duty in New York, the latter, in Indiana.

A FIRE in A. G. Barne's pump warehouse at Lincoln, Neb., the other afternoon, completely destroyed the building and about $2,500 worth of pumps and lightning rods. The fire was caused by children playing with matches.

The Sioux City Journal (Iowa) devotes nearly two pages to the casualties of the terrible storm of Friday week at that place and other points. It was the worst experience that Sioux City ever met with in all her history.

A CALL has been issued for a state conference of prohibitionists of Nebraska "regardless of former party affiliation, who believe that the liquor traffic must be destroyed through separate political party action," to be held at Lincoln, July 23d, 2 p. m.

A BLIND tramp named Winters was struck and killed by a locomotive on the Missouri Pacific near Weeping Water the other day. The man was being led by a boy across a high trestling, when he was thrown to the bottom of the ravine sixty feet below.

The Omaha Republican brings suit against James Creighton claiming $10,000 as damages, because Creighton had said that the Republican is the paid organ of the Union Pacific Railway. The Republican's editor seems very confident that no such charge can be proven.

The Talnage Tribune says: "It is a wise man who seeds his pasture in tame grass. It doesn't pay to pasture four months of the year and feed during the other eight, as many farmers are doing. With tame grass pastures this order would be reversed and money and labor saved."

The Tecumseh Chief says that Joseph Kames, a thrifty German settler, who lives on Turkey creek, and owns 320 acres of land, farms 75 acres of corn, 16 of wheat and 16 of oats this year, and does the work himself. This shows what one man can do when he sets out to get rich.

GEN. GRANT safely arrived at Mt. McGregor, bearing the weary journey patiently, suffering little from the dust and jolting, and is now occupying Joe Drexel's cottage, surrounded by his family Mrs. Grant, Fred Grant and family. Mrs. Sartoris, Mrs. Jesse Grant, Dr. Douglas, and the two nuns.

It was reported from Red Oak, Ia., the other day that the special train conveying the Nebraska delegation to Portland, Me., stopped there for supper. Seven sleepers and four coaches are loaded. Nebraska has done well and sent out 400 on this excursion. Brig. Gen. Morrow was aboard, and is also the department commander of Montana.

The Lincoln Journal commends Grand Island for getting rid of tramps by giving them a bread and water diet, and the Grand Island Independent rejoins by saying that Lincoln ought, like Grand Island, to starve all of its railroad editors instead of giving them $2,000 salaries, and that the genus railroad editor is more dangerous to the community than the genus tramp.

COMMISSIONER MANN at Washington summoned to his office the other morning the entire force of the statistical bureau of the agricultural department, numbering twenty-one persons, of both sexes, and announced that there would remain no money to pay their salaries after the 30th inst. They were all furloughed without pay from the 30th of June until the 1st of July.

The Topics man of the Lincoln Journal can always see the side of the railroads in any contest of theirs against the people. When a law, passed in good faith, to restrict rates to certain bounds, is under discussion, the law is a farce, don't amount to anything, can't be enforced, is the laughing-stock of the country, &c. When it is found ineffective, because not self-enforcing, and a better method is suggested, the Topics man yells out that the people had better play with the doll they have until the point is worn off, before they cry for reform. What is wanted is effective means of enforcing well-known legal rights of individuals as against corporations, who now have literally the power, if not always the disposition, to wreak vengeance upon those who fight for their rights. There is no moneyed interest in this state which begins to equal in importance that of the reduction to a proper notch of the railroad rates on freight, shipped in and shipped out, and the facile pens of the city editors will not be able to belittle the issue with thinking people by slurs and stupid epithets. "Do no injustice nor allow none," is a good enough motto for the people, and it ought to be good enough for the railroads.

The senior member of the JOURNAL firm recognizes the following description of the old-time country newspaper press, having been a participant: "The form was made up and laid on the press. The ink had two large balls as large as a man's head with handles fixed to them. These balls were made of sheep-skin and stuffed with wool. Near by was a large board on which the ink lay. He would dip one of the balls in the ink and roll the same round and round against each other till he got the ink properly distributed over the surface of the balls and then he would, like a drummer play Yankee Doodle over the types till they were properly inked. In the meantime the printer had his paper lying on the inclined rack and throwing it over on the form and taking hold of a long horizontal lever with two or three joints to give it the greater power, would bring the press down on the types and take the impression on one side of the paper. By this method an edition of six hundred copies could be put through in half a day."

The following is descriptive of the modern method in cities, he knows by proxy: "At one end of the press is a roll of paper seven miles long. It feeds itself into the press and when it gets to the other end of the press, there it is coming out, each paper by itself, printed on both sides, cut, pasted and folded ready for the reader; a newspaper in the aggregate seven miles long."

DR. MILLER and Mayor Boyd are now at Washington. It is believed that the new administration has requested the presence of these gentlemen at headquarters for advice touching the disposition and distribution of the public offices in this state. We hope that the party prejudices of these gentlemen will not so govern their action as to induce them to recommend any person for office from Nebraska to the president or other heads of appointing departments who may be unfit or incompetent to fill the office. Men from other states have so persistently recommended incompetent persons that the new administration has nearly lost all its popularity and force in this direction. Democrats or republicans from Nebraska should not have any hands in playing off tricks on the new administration by false and deceitful representations of the qualifications of men recommended for appointment to office.

THEY have skillful surgeons and doctors in Denver. The News gives in detail a case conducted by Dr. Armistead and J. L. Finch in which they bled a dog to death and he lay dead for three hours, being in that time very stiff and cold. The dead dog was then put into a warm bath, afterward warm water was injected into his stomach, then blood taken from a living dog was injected into the dead dog. A compress was now placed on the artery, and in twenty-two minutes after the first blood was injected he sat up, after being dead three hours and twenty minutes. After two days' attention in a warm room he was turned out to run in the streets.

RAILROAD companies that want state legislators and senators, congressmen and U. S. senators under their thumb and at their dictation have no use for newspapers of an independent spirit, for editors who do their own thinking and cannot be bought to keep their mouths shut. This JOURNAL raises now a warning voice to the people of Nebraska that the light is on for Van Wyck's successor in the United States senate; the railroads have let slip their dogs of war, the mud mills have begun their work, and the pitch will be kept at boiling heat.

W. W. WILSON, of Tecumseh, Neb., feeling aggrieved at some remarks made by C. W. Pool, editor of the Johnson County Journal, went over to Sterling the other day fifteen miles to whip the editor. Wilson met Pool on the street, assaulted him, attempted to draw a pistol. The editor reached for him with his left hand, hit him in the mouth, and he went to grass and concluded that a retraction was not necessary. The press should be free but never at liberty to publish libels.

The last news from Ft. Pitt states that Gen. Middleton returned the other night from an unsuccessful chase after Big Bear. The other afternoon orders were issued for all the mounted force and Gatling guns to hold themselves in readiness to proceed to Big river at once. Gen. Middleton expects to intercept Big Bear. The latter is now going almost due north. The country to which he has retreated is unknown ground to the white men and there are no trails.

Let us see. The election of U. S. Senator is the next great event political on the Nebraska boards, and the railroad companies are already moving for his defeat. We venture to say that there will be more newspaper ventures made with railroad backing and "encouragement" than in any five years of Nebraska's previous history. "The old man" is to be squelched, if railroad influence can succeed in doing so, and one of the most effective instruments is a subsidized press, with blatant professions of loyalty to the people's interests.

The latest news from Whipple Barracks, New Mexico, states that a courier had just come in from Lawton's camp and reports that while Wood and Field were scouting in the vicinity of Guadalupe canyon the camp was attacked by Indians and five men and two mules killed and five stores burned. The camp was in charge of a non-commissioned officer and seven men. Indian scouts say there were twenty-five or thirty Indians in the party. Lawton and Wood have gone on their trail.

It is claimed that President Cleveland and Postmaster-General Vilas are doing a neat thing in the interest of the people by refusing to use the money voted by the last congress for steamship subsidies. It was supposed at the time to be grab intended to be distributed among favorites under pretense of carrying the mails. Similar to the grab that sought under the guise of a river and harbor bill, which Gen. Grant defeated by refusing to take the steps necessary to make the money available.

The latest report from Madrid states that the cholera is spreading westward along the Mediterranean. There are several cases in Feris, Alicante and Cartagena. Twelve thousand persons left Madrid during the past week in consequence of the cholera scare, and the exodus is increasing. At Castellon, the other day 114 new cases and 36 deaths were reported, and at Cartagena 214 cases and sixty deaths. The people have become very much alarmed.

It is stated in an exchange that Mrs. E. A. Connor, long connected with the Cincinnati Commercial, has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the New York World. Mrs. Connor's qualities as a writer have for years been well known, and the charm and intellectual brightness of her articles, over the signature "E. A.," have gained for her a large public recognition.

The Women's Journal says "Mrs. Napier Higgins is writing in England a history of women in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, to show that the decay of chivalry, the rise of the new learning, and the progress of the reformation, marked an age in which women were more influential in politics, society and thought than they had been before or have been since."

ALVIN McGUIRE, one of the men who attempted to rob the State Treasury last February, was acquitted the other day by the jury in the district court at Lincoln. The evidence of the defense was to the effect that he was inveigled into the scheme by Daly, the decoy detective, who supplied him with whiskey and got him full before the raid.

A PRELIMINARY British company has just been formed with a capital of $100,000 to make geological investigations, engineering plans and estimates for a railway tunnel between Great Britain and Ireland. It seems to be assumed that the cost of the tunnel would be $30,000,000.

ED. JOURNAL:—In regard to J. J. Maughan's uncalled advice I would have treated his scurrility with silence, as the whole of the counterfeits are well known in this region, had he not tried to convey an impression on the readers of the JOURNAL that I would be capable of destroying my own property in the shape of a five hundred dollar bridge that I had erected to connect two of my farms. No doubt the structure was fired twice and he, Maughan, seems now to know more about the despicable act than the people around here ever imagined. He says if I want to know who did the despicable deed, I can consult public opinion, or he will give me what there is in his hands gratis. Now let me say to this man who performs the night watch, and with his two choice indicators the north star and the dog star when he takes the bearings of an orchard, or locates a molen patch, that verily he does know something of the night's doings when honest folks are asleep. He has just gone far enough now, that the people here say he ought to turn state's evidence and bring the guilty party to justice. Readers of the JOURNAL, do you think he did it? Not a bit of it. He knows too well the names of the party up here whom Justice had arrested for attempted arson. He is well aware that some of those beautiful names are spelt with a big M. Judge, stand up and explain. Your honor, where did you stay and how far off what you call your home on the last night the bridge was fired and for what oration did he stay away from home on that night and leave his wife alone on the bluff? Was it to keep house while you were out? Please stand up and explain! Did you help his mules to do some audible graining in the stable, or did you oversee the gang as to how the kerosene should be scattered before the torch was set. Judge, stand up and inform the readers of the JOURNAL how you came to have so much knowledge of this dastardly act? If you don't know anything about what you have hinted at you are a full-blown fool to say what you did. If you do know anything of the malicious crime and don't come out before the public and tell it, you ought to be jealously watched and set down as a grand rascal. Are some of your friends not accused of seeing the lighter torch applied? Now, Judge, don't be always trying to fill the ends of justice. You tried that game at the district court and when district attorney Roberts squeezed the dirt out of you in the presence of Judge Wakely and hung your character out to dry so as it could be inspected by all the law-abiding citizens of Platte county, Maughan, those who live in glass houses ought to be careful where they throw stones. Good bye, chief justice, notary public, conveyancer, surveyor, land agent, and what else, J. J. Maughan.

F. S.—Will attend to your official career and sterling honesty in due time. Your adherent.

(From the Stromsburg Republican.)

Geo. Mickey, one of the old settlers of this county, died very suddenly at the residence of his brother, John H. Mickey, in Osceola, last Friday morning.

E. Weinshek, of North Platte, of the well known mercantile firm of Kramer & Co., has rented the Berg & Castle building and will put in a stock of goods.

Pags, the ex-bartender, the man who has enticed two women away (mention of which was made last week) was arrested at Schuyler and brought back by Sheriff Hamilton. He took a change of venue from Justice Cutting and was tried before Justice Mitchell, of Osceola, yesterday. On account of lack of evidence and the absence of the principal witness, he was discharged.

COLFAX COUNTY.

(From the Sun.)

Now we have got an item: From the Medford (Oregon) Monitor we learn of an old Schuylerite, the first barber of Schuyler and who graduated into a Justice of the Peace. Read the following: "B. W. Powell who had an office in the Central Hotel has just been elected Judge of the Supreme Court, and he with his family, have moved to Salem."

The father and mother of our Rev. Mr. Hood, celebrated the 65th anniversary of their wedded life, at Linfield, Mass., on June 1st, 1885. He is also the Rev. Mr. Hood, and is 93 years old, his wife is 88. They passed their golden wedding 15 years ago. Think of that, you yearlings of ten or twenty summers—married life. God bless the brave old couple in the Bay State, and may every pang be spared them now, that an all wise Providence can ordain on their journey to the great eternal rest.

MADISON COUNTY.

(From the Chronicle.)

A half column tells the story of casualties of the storms of Friday and Sunday week.

Two men, one named Donohoe and the other Smith, the former of Norfolk and the latter of Burnett, are in jail at this place on the charge of adultery.

Last Tuesday evening when the freight train, consisting chiefly of flat cars loaded with gravel, stopped at Burnett, several boys were standing on the depot platform. As the train started to pull out they began to dare each other to jump on. Fred Reeves made a jump, struck on the gravel, slipped and fell off the rear end of the car. Seven cars passed over his body in a horrible manner. His uncle, Bob, revived, lifted him up, but life was extinct, and the body was borne tenderly to the home. A telegram was sent to his parents, who were in Canada visiting.
