question of the adoption or rejection of Town Organization, at the next general election, and the law requires a petition of one-third of the legal voters of the county to submit the question.

The friends of organization say that we have adopted organization and worked under its laws nearly two years, and where the laws are defective, to have them amended; that town organization is the best form of government, and should be adopted.

The other party says that its adoption was not a true and understood vote of the people; that many did not know or understand the nature or workings of the proposition, therefore remained silent and did not vote, pro or con, on the proposition, but allowed it to go by default, and are therefore compelled to pay nearly double tax and have fewer benefits for the money; that the law seems inoperative and defective, and the legislators seem indisposed to remedy or mature the laws from the apparent reason that but few counties in the state have adopted Town Organization, therefore that there is not now or will be sufficient pressure brought to bear to warrant any future help.

Therefore say, let us drop it. Now if these are the facts, there can be no harm in submitting the question again as it will cost nothing, and the question decided either way, will be by a majority of the voters and will be the will of the people.

Mr. Editor:—In answer to one of the board in your issue of week before last, I would say that I find on examination that I was not quite high enough. The 1884 levy amounted to a little over $2,600, all of which was expended and a little over $800 in indebtedness left to be paid out of '85 levy, making a little over $3,400 expended all told. As for the present town clerk showing where the money went, I think it is a little out of place, for the new board to do the business of the last, viz: making a report in full, showing where the money went. The law, I believe, requires the supervisor to keep an account of all moneys expended and orders drawn, but our ex-supervisor handed his books over to Mr. Rossiter just as he received them from the county clerk's office, without a scratch in them, showing on what road the people's money went glimmering.

In answer to "Looker on," I would say the people, seeing the way in which their money was being spent, turned out in full at the last annual meeting, almost every taxpayer in the township being present, except ex-supervisor and town clerk. Those gentlemen did not think it necessary to grace the meeting with their presence, or to even make a report showing what they had done and why they had done it, or on what road the people's money went glimmering. It is not too late yet, gentlemen; show up, give us an itemized report and oblige many a
