THE news reached Omaha Saturday that Warren S. Yates, who has been attending college in the east, had been drowned in Long Island Sound was a fearful shock to his parents and hosts of friends in Omaha.

RUFUS MONTGOMERY a short time ago stole a horse in Lincoln and was pursued and captured at Hastings, Neb. He was on the road only about a week and during that time had stolen four horses between Lincoln and Hastings.

THE Blair Republican calls Hilton of the Pilot "a notorious dead-beat and philanous black-guard." Brothers should dwell together in unity—at least, as much unity as is possible in this world of "sin and strife."

GEORGE HOGE has mysteriously wandered away from his home at Kearney, Neb. His friends are very anxious concerning his whereabouts, and say word sent to John Hoge at that place concerning his brother George will be thankfully received.

THE body of King Alfonso was received on the 27th ult., in Madrid, with great pomp. The Queen and her daughters occupied a carriage which followed immediately after the funeral car. There were 2,000 carriages in the cortege. The Queen was deeply veiled.

At Washington City on the 26th ult., the draping of the White House interior and state, war and navy department buildings was nearly completed in the morning. Flags all day on the city floated at half mast all day as emblems of mourning for the dead Vice President, T. A. Hendricks.

The official vote of Nebraska shows that for Judge of the Supreme Court Amasa Cobb received 72,904, Frank Martin 49,489 and O. B. Hewitt 4,454. For regents of University C. H. Gere, 71,423, Leavitt Burnham 72,860, R. R. Burnham 72,860, R. R. Livingston 49,929, Zeolin 49,300, E. B. Graham 4,681 and Taylor 4,631.

The court at Cincinnati has decided the election mandamus cases brought by the republican candidates for senator from Hamilton county to compel the canvassing board to issue their certificates of election to them. A majority of the court grants the prayer and directs the clerk to issue certificates of election to the four republican candidates.

ROBERT L. KEAM, a special field examiner in the general land office, died at Washington City on the 21st ult. He was a pioneer in the settlement of the west, and his log cabin was the first building erected where Madison, Wis., now stands. He was active in the early settlement of Kansas and Nebraska. He left a wife and three children. One of the children is Mrs. Winnie R. Hoxie, wife of Lieut. Hoxie of the engineers.

The nation this week mourns the loss of the Vice President. The death of such a man, as a private citizen, would be an irreparable loss to his friends, his state, his political associates. In his departure from the high office to which he had been called, all are made to feel the mutation of human affairs, and to consider that in the grave there is rest for all. Mr. Hendricks will be mourned as a man of strong qualities, and a prominent citizen of Indiana. Peace to his memory.

The state senate committee are making investigation into the affairs of the New York City government; two stenographers of the civil district courts testified to paying money liberally out of their salary towards election expenses and for other purposes. George Strasser, attached to Judge McCarthy's court, said he paid in this way $1,200 a year out of his salary of $2,000. When he stopped these payments, he was discharged. Maurice J. O'Connor, stenographer in Judge William Kelly's court, testified to almost exactly similar expenditures.

The Mormon Elders in Utah are turning the tables and arresting gentiles for illegal cohabitation, which has created a great sensation at Salt Lake. Among the arrests recently made by the Mormon police is that of S. B. Lewis, United States district attorney. The police claim to have 300 names on the list, many of them leaders in gentile society, and active in the enforcement of law against Mormon polygamists. Marshal Vandercook was the first man arrested. It is claimed evidence exists that agents of the Mormon church have been employing for months past spies to entrap the gentiles, and from $700 to $1,000 to be paid disreputable characters for every prominent gentile or official entrapped.

Hendricks' Death. THE VICE PRESIDENT PASSES AWAY AFTER A FEW HOURS ILLNESS. INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 25.—Hon. Thos. A. Hendricks, vice president of the United States, died very suddenly at his residence at 4:45 o'clock this evening, under circumstances that were particularly distressing to his family and friends, in so much as they had not anticipated the fatal termination of his brief illness, and nobody was with him when death came. He returned from Chicago last Saturday and since then has been complaining somewhat of pain in his head and breast, but nothing serious was thought of it. Dr. Thompson, the family physician, says that in his opinion Hendricks died of paralysis of the brain, and there will probably be a post mortem examination to establish what the disease was. Thomas Andrews Hendricks was born in Muskingum county, Ohio, Sept. 7, 1819. In 1832 his father settled in Shelby county, Indiana. Thomas graduated at South Hanover college in 1841; studied law at Chambersburg, Pa.; was admitted to the bar there in 1843, and returned to Indiana to practice. In 1848 he was a member of the legislature, and in 1850 a delegate to the state constitutional convention. From 1851 to 1855 he represented the Indianapolis district in congress; from 1855 to 1859 was commissioner of general land office, and from 1863 to 1869 was a member of the United States senate, in which he was regarded as the democratic leader. In the democratic national convention of 1868 in New York, he was strongly supported for the nomination to the presidency. As candidate for governor of Indiana he was defeated in 1860 and in 1868, but was elected in 1872 for the term ending Jan. 1, 1877. In 1876 he was nominated for vice-president at St. Louis by the democrats on the ticket with Samuel J. Tilden. In 1880 he was a candidate for the nomination of president in the convention of his party at Cincinnati, but was defeated. In 1884 the democrats again nominated him for vice-president, this time on the ticket with Cleveland, and both were elected.

Its Mission Not Ended. As long as the Democratic party chops open ballot-boxes in the North and prevents men from voting in the South on account of color, the mission of the Republican party is not ended. As long as three-fourths of the foreign appointments are filled by ex-soldiers, and there are deserving Union soldiers, the mission of the Republican party is not ended. As long as the Democratic party endangers American labor by agitating free-trade measures, the mission of the Republican party is not ended. As long as the Democratic leaders in Northern cities corrupt the ballot-boxes and change tally sheets, the mission of the Republican party is not ended. As long as one vote in the South has the power in the Electoral College of three times as many of the North, the mission of the Republican party is not ended. As long as Union soldiers are removed from office and men are appointed because of the part they took in the hanging of "old John Brown," the mission of the Republican party is not ended. As long as legislatures gerrymander States so as to give Democrats two representatives for the same number of votes that the Republicans get one, the mission of the Republican party is not ended. As long as a Southern paper prints in its editorial column that it proposes "to have the blood of any white bound who will dare to vote the radical ticket," the mission of the Republican party is not ended.—Bloomington Telephone.

European Railroads. THE Prussian government owns five-sixths of all railroads in Prussia, and successfully attends to the administration of the same. In most all the other German states of some importance, nearly all railroads are in the same way owned and run by their state governments. The good results of this system cause Austria and Italy to imitate the same. In Prussia they, at present, are trying an extension of this system to the running of sleeping cars by the government railroad officials. So far the sleeping cars were furnished and run by an international sleeping car company. On the Berlin-Hamburg R. R. the first trial will be made, with sleeping cars run by the state. This system does away with all the terrible abuses, to which in our country the uncontrolled ownership and administration of railroads by greedy corporations, lead. What those states for the benefit of their people can do, certainly our states and the United States can do for the American people. R. R. commissions of the Nebraska stamp are nothing but railroad delusions, honest commissions with sufficient power may do some good, good legislation may do more, state ownership will be the only sufficient guarantee for the protection of the people's interest.—Grand Island Independent.

The Democrat of this city, in referring to the newspaper talk in regard to Hon. Leader Gerrard as the next republican candidate for governor, says: "He is a Nebraska man from 'away back,' possesses superior executive abilities, is filled up to the neck with sagacity and shrewdness, and thoroughly understands the wants and needs of our people. Taken altogether, Mr. Gerrard would be a vast improvement on the average Nebraska governors of the last sixteen years."

The new postmistress in a town in Indiana writes her official name, Mrs. J. Smith, P. Mrs. This method we think is eminently correct.

THE Union Pacific officials have filed articles of incorporation for a new road to the northwest. The incorporators are S. A. Callaway, A. J. Poppleton, Erasmus Young, F. D. Brown and T. L. Kimball. The name of the company as set forth in the articles of incorporation shall be the Omaha and Eikhorn Valley Railroad Company and its place of business at Omaha. It is to have the right to construct, maintain and operate roads in Nebraska or such other states and territories as it may acquire the corporate right to enter. Its capital is fixed at $1,000,000 in shares of $100 each and authority is given to increase the stock as provided in the by-laws. It takes its existence from the 25th of November, '85. The counties mentioned through which the proposed road may pass are Douglas, Dodge, Colfax, Cass, Stanton, Madison, Wayne, Pierce, Antelope, Wheeler, Garfield, Buffalo, Loup, Blaine, Cherry, Sheridan, Dawes and Sioux.

A RECENT statement comes from Denver, Col., that Colorow, with fourteen lodges and five hundred ponies, is camped on the Yampa river, twenty-five miles above Cross mountains. They burn cattle ranges along the trail, leaving seventy-five thousand cattle without feed. The Indians are slaughtering thousands of elk, deer and antelope for hides, leaving the carcasses to rot. The settlers are wild over the destruction of game, and the rangers have assembled and will order Colorow to leave. In case of his refusal a general extermination is expected. The Indians are well supplied with rifles and ammunition.

Six hundred delegates from all parts of the United States were present at St. Louis on the 23d ult. in attendance upon the second annual convention of the National Cattle and Horse Growers' Association. Prof. E. H. Moore, read a very elaborate paper upon the "Cattle Industry of the United States," from which we make a few brief quotations. He took strong ground in favor of national quarantine laws. He condemned the practice of erecting illegal fences on the public lands, both of which propositions appeared to meet the hearty approval of the Association.

Two five-story tenement houses in New York burned the other morning. Three persons were smothered in the fire. No less than one hundred and fifty persons were sleeping in the houses, and how they escaped with their lives is a mystery, as the stairways had been saturated with kerosene oil and set on fire. About $100,000 damage was done to the buildings and the property of the tenants. Henry Kohli, a Bohemian, who was strongly suspected for setting out the fire, was arrested and held for arson.

A WOMAN living near Toledo, Ohio, has just given birth to five healthy infants, and inquiry reveals the fact that the father and mother in the ten years of their married life have become the parents of twenty-three children. It is to be hoped that the people of Hastings will get this family inside their corporate limits before the next census is taken, for it will save a good deal of census lying and leave the enumerators of that place in better shape to enter the next world.—Plattsmouth Herald.

Mrs. WM. DUNLAP, Delaware, Ohio, the step-mother of two children, a boy and a girl, was convicted the other day of cruelty to the children, and sent to jail for sixty days to be fed on bread and water, and fined $100. She had covered one of the children, a little girl, with soft soap, pumped cold water on the little one and scrubbed her with a broom. The other child, a boy, had been suspended in a deep well by a rope.

A COLD blooded murder was committed in Chicago the other evening at 310 West Monroe street, by Samuel Smith, who shot his wife Emma with a double-barreled shot-gun, the charge blowing the top of her head off, killing her instantly. Jealousy on the part of the husband was supposed to be the cause which prompted the shooting. Smith fled.

Two Germans named Kepenstein and August, were out in a boat the other afternoon on the Niagara river and the boat and men were carried over the falls. It is reported that when the boat got well into the rapids it broke in two. One of the men disappeared instantly, and the other went down after clinging for a moment to a piece of the wreck.

The steamer "Ivanhoe" arrived the other day at Galveston from Jamaica with yellow fever on board and was quarantined. Subsequently she went into port. Another case was developed. There were many vessels in port and some uneasiness existed on account of the "Ivanhoe" having been permitted to enter and her crew to come ashore.

MANY local points in Pennsylvania were visited last week by a heavy snow storm which lasted over twenty-four hours. On the hills around Lackawanna it was from two to three feet deep and at the time of the report it was still snowing.

THE East St. Louis Mystery. ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23.—The theory that J. B. Bowman, ex-mayor of East St. Louis, was killed by George Clark, alias Coleman, a burglar, who had been released several days ago after a ten months' incarceration for connection with the burglary of a safe in the treasury of East St. Louis, has been exploded. Clark was easily found in St. Louis today, and it is evident he had no connection with the affair. The funeral of the murdered man took place this afternoon and was the largest ever seen in East St. Louis. The coroner adjourned the inquest until Wednesday, and says he will keep it open for six months, if necessary, to get evidence.

Tennessee Election Judges. NASHVILLE, Nov. 27.—At the last presidential election two democratic judges of the Fourth precinct of Fayette county, named Jackson and Mosby, allowed the ballot-box to be carried off while the count was in progress. They were indicted in the United States court and to-day the trial was concluded at Memphis. They were found guilty of allowing the ballot-box to be tampered with and each fined $100.

A Sovereign Balm. On the 19th of February, 1891, I fell from a railroad train in motion, and was badly injured. By the mistreatment of physicians who used calomel to remove the bruised blood from my system instead of bleeding me, I became the victim of blood-poison. A few years after my misfortune the poison in my blood made its appearance on my person, and I had sixty-five sores on my left side, from my neck to my toes, of various sizes, from that of dime to a silver dollar. I was reduced in weight from 165 to 103 lbs. I suffered during all the time from the inaction of my liver and the constipation of my bowels. During all these years past I have been treated by doctors of the different systems of medicine, with varied success, alternating between hope and fear as to final results. Among them all I found no permanent relief. Early in January, 1895, I was advised to try the "Cure for Blood-poison," and almost immediately I determined to take a course of Swift's Specific, which, much to my surprise and to the astonishment of my friends, has given me more relief than the medicine of all kinds which I have taken in the past twenty-four years. The mercury treatment left me covered with sores as black as my shoe. Swift's Specific caused them to scale off, and my flesh became white and clear, its natural color, and the only mark is a little brownish line around the edges where these sores and scars were. My liver is now in fine condition, my bowels acting like clock work, and I regularly every day. My complexion is better, my blood clearer, and my whole system is in a better condition than it has been since I was hurt. I am now a healthy man, and this part of Mississippi for forty-five years past, and any citizen or public officer of this county will confirm the statements I have made in reference to my case. Robert Burns on "Youth." A poem just found in one of Burns' manuscripts. Youth is the vision of a morn That flies the coming day; 'Tis the dawn of the life of care, Which will wings sweep away; 'Tis the image of the sky That gleams and glows afar, When not a cloud appears to fly Across the blue serene; 'Tis the dawn of the life of care, And lift their foaming head, The morning stars appear no more And all the heaven is dead. 'Tis fleeting as the passing rays Of bright electric fire That flash about with sudden blaze And in that blaze expire. It is the morning's gentle gale That sweeps the gathering storm, Scarce seems to sigh across the vale Or bend the blushing rose. 'Tis the dawn of the life of care, And all the sky deform; The gale becomes the whirlwind's roar, The flash an angry storm. For care, and sorrow's morbid gloom, And heart's corroding strife, And weeping to the tomb, Await the noon of life.
