

ABOUT MARRIAGE.

Some marry for the fun of the thing and never see where it comes in. This is discouraging.

Some marry for the sake of a good companion and never discover their mistake. This is lucky.

Some marry to get married and to know how much trouble to get married as to know when you want to get married in a hurry because he fears marriageable females will be scarce next year, and lives to wonder how the supply holds out.

Marriage resulting from love at first sight is not generally wedded bliss on a par with our milk.

Many a man has married for love, only to learn that he has married for a purchase for twenty-five cents at all druggists.

The most affectionate people before marriage seldom hold out in the same proportion after they are married.

From the matrimonial market the saints of both sexes were culled out long ago. Don't expect to marry one you must guess at some things and take chances for the future on this basis.

Woman is sometimes the real cause of unhappiness in the married relations of life, but in the majority of instances the boot is on the other foot and she is really the true comfort there is in it.

Don't marry a woman for her taper fingers and long hair. She may be married and her rugged experiences call for a wife that knows how to make a pot boil and can spank babies systematically.

A few people marry for pure love, and they in after years suspicion that what were at the time promptings of the tender passion were, in all probability but the first symptoms of cholera morbus.

The man who marries a woman simply because she is a handy arrangement to have about the house does so from a purely business standpoint, and in the end, if he is not supported by her, she has done better than many women I know of.

Many a man who has married for money has never realized a dividend upon the investment, and many women who have done the same thing have left word for their posterity that, although a fair transaction upon the face of it, yet it is just as liable to be a put-up job.—Tolcic Blade.

HE WAS DISCOURAGED. How a Patriot Suffered for the Sake of Freedom's Noble Bird.

A young man with his coat ripped down the back and his hair dreadfully mussed up called to see the Captain at police headquarters yesterday and lodged a complaint.

STUDYING POLITICS.

Up to the present time we seem to have gone upon the principle that politicians, like poets, are born, not made; any man has a wit and any woman an interest in affairs pertaining not only to present interests, but to the world's future history.

That a man should vote has been deemed a matter worthy of being secured at the cost of the uprooting of States and the overturning of civilizations; how he shall vote has been deemed to be a matter of concern only to the candidates for election.

Yet the study of politics is a study not only important, but very interesting. To judge by the amount of talk bestowed upon every political question, even the most trivial, there are few minds that do not keep keenly interested in the subject.

There are two kinds of women in the world: those who hate the very mention of politics and those who are deeply interested in the subject. With a few notable exceptions, both are about equally ignorant; both have a strong influence on the present voting population.

It is especially important that women who are already interested in large questions, charitable workers, religious teachers, temperance reformers, should be thoroughly well founded in the science of politics.

NOBLE TREADDORES. How Bull-Fights Were Conducted in Spain in the Year 1605.

In 1605, los toreros, we learn from the Gayangos Diary, were nobles and gentlemen of the court, who encountered the bull in hand and mounted on high-mottled steeds.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

Eighteen thousand foreign students are in attendance upon the colleges of this country.—Chicago Herald.

The Christian Dakota Indian young men have formed eleven "Kosha Okokadokai," which is the way they call their Y. M. C. A.

The maximum of daily school work in Prussia is ten hours for children eleven years of age up to nine hours for those sixteen years and upward.

The following statistics of the Welsh churches are taken from the most trustworthy sources. In the year 1881, the population of Wales was 1,718,887.

The "Official Year Book of the Church of England" has published statistics of the amount contributed by churchmen during the last twenty-five years to the various funds.

Some wide-awake observation children, ready at the end of six to look at anything but books, will catch the idea of spelling by sound, while their eyes wander.

A wealthy girl never has freckles. Those specks on her face are merely brown-eyed daisies slumbering in a field of roses.

A teacher says: "We never could understand why so much should be wasted in killing birds while so many young men part their hair in the same way."—Texas Shiftings.

—Aged Sult—"I shall love you as long as I live." Young Lady—"I shall love you as long as I live."—Fie-gendo Blatter.

—Teacher: "Why, how stupid you are, to be sure! Can't multiply eighty-eight times twenty-five?" "I'll wager it's not so hard as that, less than that time." Pupil: "I shouldn't be surprised. They say fools multiply very rapidly."—Fratric Farmer.

—The Chinese answer. "You shoot me and I hang you, you hang me and I shoot you. No do work, get me boodie, Gie, they will be able to improve them selves as they go through life. What they need first is a solid foundation to build upon."—Salem Gazette.

When the teacher is easily provoked and fond of scolding to remedy existing evils, it may be set down at once that she knows little of the doctrine of discipline. It is the delight of a certain class of boys to tease the very life out of a teacher, and we don't say their disposition is very perverse, either.

—The remedy is worse than the disease—as the young lady remarked who was expecting a male friend to pass the Sabbath evening, and so was seized with the cholera. Her husband, however, could not go to church with her family; when her mother put her feet in hot water, gave her a dose of castor oil, and sent her to bed at seven.—Boston Post.

—"Fine horse you've got there," said Jonas to a Kentuckian riding a beautiful bay saddle. "Pretty fair horse," responded the Kentuckian, with affected indifference. "Thoroughly good horse," said the other, looking at the animal with a keen eye. "Knows all the motions," he does." "What do you call him?" "Thebes." "Thebes! That's odd. I never heard such a name for a horse before. What do you mean by that?" "Because he has a hundred gates, of course. Don't you know ancient history?"—Merchant Traveler.

Permanent Tenure of Office for Teachers.—Current Public Opinion on Educational Topics.

THE MOST IMPORTANT REFORM in school administration that is now demanded is the permanent tenure of office for teachers.

In building up her splendid public school system, as a fundamental principle. There the tenure for life, provided efficient service is rendered.

Now I submit that the facts just stated make it highly probable that we are wrong in this country. Where the public school system has been studied longer and with better results than with us, it is likely that the treatment of teachers in this respect is preferable to our own.
