Back of the Trial.

Those who doubted the result in the case of the anarchists at Chicago will doubt no more. The miscreants have had a fair trial, been convicted, and they will doubtless be executed. Mercy will not likely step in now to relieve those who would have shown no mercy to innocent victims.

Back of the trial, there are several considerations not to be lost sight of, and the expense of the trial (all told, estimated at $300,000), may be sufficiently attractive, in a way, to deepen with Chicago tax-payers the impression that crime is exceedingly expensive.

It is always more or less difficult to apprehend the natural course of events, or the consequence of an act, but where officials, sworn to take care that the laws be executed, are derelict in their duty, thinking to curry favor with lawless men; profiting, as they think, politically or financially, by a pretense of enforcing the law; in other words, when the "hammer" element and is controlled by it, there is no telling where lawlessness may end and the enforcement of law begin. It is not only our opinion but a general belief that if the mayor of Chicago had done his duty or even measurably attempted it, much if not all the expense of this trial would have been saved, as the occasion for it would not have arisen.

Right principles are the foundation of all the good there is in civil communities, and the comprehension of these principles, in some good form or other, is necessary to peace and prosperity; education is far more effective and greatly less expensive in remedying all the evils we have, than any other method known, and this is essentially the American idea.

The gospel of dynamite will not have many disciples here.

Van Wyck's Challenge.

The statute for whose enforcement Senator Van Wyck appeals permits the voters of Nebraska to indicate their preference for United States Senator and makes the canvass and return to such votes mandatory upon all election officers. Its aim is to leave representatives no shadow of an excuse for overruling the wishes of their constituents. Its intent is to make the popular choice the legislative choice for Senator. Its object is to do away forever with the system which permits corrupt bargaining at Lincoln to set aside the honest preference of electors freely expressed at the polls.

Every trickster who has made a trade of corrupting our legislators, every monopoly tool whose hand has been busy in distributing bribes at legislative sessions, every corporation hiring editor whose efforts have been directed to pulling the wool over the eyes of voters and misrepresenting public sentiment, naturally shrieks with alarm over a proposal which will effectually destroy their occupation. It is "non-sensical," "utterly impotent," "worthless," and "under no circumstances would the [railroad] republican candidates for senator consent to have their name used in connection with so ludicrous a proceeding."

The public will look at the matter differently. They will applaud the manliness of a candidate who prefers to leave to the people the decision of his claims to the office rather than to follow the devious paths of the legislative still hunt. They will approve the moral bravery which incites the champion to throw down his gauntlet in the political arena and challenge his competitors to the gage of battle in the full sunlight of publicity.—Omaha Bee.

Benks and Farms.

Our correspondent, "J. L.," gives a bank statement as to dividends and then makes an appeal to farmers to know if they make one-twelfth as much, &c.

The probability is that this particular case is an exception with this bank and doubtless an exception to banks generally.

We know that in these hard times, most people talk of the banks and sneers as doing the best business and making the most money—not that the two businesses are allied in any respect, but because certain people must have money, and certain people will have the other articles of merchandise.

The JOURNAL is not the owner of a bank nor the possessor of any stock in one, and has no inside information in regard to the same, but we know, of course, that the same general principles apply to them as to any other business. They are not outside the pale of commercial law, or independent of the remainder of the universe. In the very nature of things, they have their assigned limitations; and the functions of their existence are fixed; their duties and responsibilities are not unknown to the rest of the world, and they take their risks in business the same as other business men.

At present we have no further space to write, but we will add that if our friend Jas. L. will tell us what he knows about the profits of banking, we will try to tell what we know about farming.

It Looks That Way.

The Lincoln correspondent of the Omaha Bee, says:

"The canvass for governor," said a prominent North Platte republican, "is just well inaugurated in our section of the state, and we are visited quite often by candidates themselves or their next friends. Since the practical doing away with Paul as a candidate there are several counties that had been conceded to Paul that will be for some other man when the time comes." To the question as to who the man would be, the North Platte man thought that General, of Columbus, would be very apt to catch a major part of them, and the idea further expressed that Mr. Gerard would have quite an extensive following in the canvass.

No LITTLE excitement was created in Omaha one day last week by the announcement of Superintendent Walker, of the Omaha National works, that the Burlington & Missouri railroad had held out inducements to his company to move their works to Lincoln; that in justice to the stockholders the proposition would undoubtedly be accepted.

Bulgaria's Prince Deposed.

A telegram from Berlin, Aug. 22 announced that Prince Alexander of Bulgaria had been deposed and made prisoner during an inspection of troops at Widdan.

The daily News of London (Gladstonian) concludes that the effect of Russia's action upon the peace of Europe may be extremely serious, and that Prince Alexander, being nominally a vassal to the sultan, if his deposition can be proved to have been effected by a foreign agency without the consent of the porte, a grave international issue will at once be raised.

The Chronicle: "But that the peace has been increasingly and gravely inspired by this insolent defiance of Europe by Alexander III must be apparent to the most careless observer."

An El Paso special of a recent date received at Denver says Cutting was taken from his prison the other day before Judge Castaneda's court. He was informed that no appeal had been taken in his case by the lawyer who had been appointed by him and he would be tried by the supreme court of the state of Chihuahua in a few days, and he was asked if he desired to have an attorney to take care of his interests before that court. He replied, as he had always done before, that he did not recognize the jurisdiction of any Chihuahua court, and that he left his case entirely in the hands of the American government. He was thereupon taken back to prison.

A FRIENDLY attempt was made to kill J. F. Tufts, of Atchison, Kan., who has recently been assisting the attorney general in prosecuting the violators of the prohibitory law, by exploding a can of powder at his residence, endangering the lives of his family. It appears that the person handling the infernal machine attempted to place it inside the house, but becoming frightened probably, they set it on the back porch, lighted the fuse and fled. There were two windows and a door opening on the porch, and the force of the explosion blew in the door and windows, shattered the floor, and lifted a portion of the roof. Six lives were placed in jeopardy.

The jury in the anarchist case rendered a verdict of guilty of murder against August Spies, Michael Schwab, Samuel Fielden, Albert P. Sarnow, Adolph Giesher, George Engle and Louis Lingg, guilty of murder as charged in the indictment and affixed the penalty of death. "We find Oscar W. Neebe guilty of murder in the manner and form as charged in the indictment and affix the penalty at fifteen years." The verdict appears to give general satisfaction to the public as being in strict conformity to justice.

GEN. SEDGWICK passed through St. Louis the other day to El Paso; he remained in his room and refused to receive callers. A RECENT report comes from Washington that the Chinese government is increasing its armament with great haste and has ordered 200,000 rifles from England. It is interpreted to mean that the Chinese government proposes to take advantage of the opportunity while the United States is upon the verge of a crisis with Mexico and force this government, through the American interests in China, to pay the Chinese government the $140,000 as proposed by the last congress in reward for the depredations inflicted upon the Chinese in the Rock Springs massacre in Wyoming.
