MR. EDITOR:--Men are seldom satisfied with anything in the way of political partice or law. Men favorable to prohibition in Nebraska, with law in the state, which fully establishes the right of local option, and not being satisfied with such a law, must needs form themselves into a political party to secure, by party action either national or state prohibition; and its action appears to the writer with other and special motives, ultimately to defeat the republican party, and place the political power in the hands of democrats, which they claim they did by the election of President Cleveland, but hibition at the White House.

Under the circumstances, the writer considers it his duty as a citizen of Nebraska to abide by the present law of the state, and to use his influence for a fair and faithful execution of that law, and believes all republicans in the state should act in the same way. The people of Nebraska made the law, and it is a democratic principle to abide by it until it is changed or repealed. The writer believes it will be time enough to consider the question of prohibition when it shall be presented outside of any political party organization. We honestly believe that had the members of the present prohibition party in Nebraska gone to work and faithfully executed the law of the state that they would to-day have larger following and command higher respect among the citizens of the state than they ever can as a political party.

for the following reasons. Our present court house was built n 1869. Columbus's population then was 350, that of Platte county 3518. Now, the population of our county is 13,948. Our vault room is entirely inadequate to our wants, and should we be visited by a fire, the loss of records and deeds and books would be a very great loss to us. It would create delays and inconveniences, and produce law suits, that can not be computed in dollars and cents.

Should this proposition carry, our I, and I wish you to assure your board of supervisors would have the readers to that effect. bandling of the money, and the letting of the contracts.
