A NAMELESS HERO.

This is the story of a nameless man. A man whose name is not known, but whose deed is famous. He was a simple, unassuming man, but his actions were heroic.

QUICKSILVER.

Further Perspective on an Important Element in the Arts and Sciences. This strange and curious mineral is becoming quite an important element in the arts and sciences, but its real value is realized fully in the process of extracting the noble metals from the baser sorts, and lower grade ores can be profitably worked with the quicksilver process that would hardly pay to work the old-fashioned way.

A Big Oyster Story.

"How's that for an inter?" said the skipper at a certain point, pointing to a enormous shell that lay on the deck. "It ain't not a big shell," he continued, "but it's got a powerful big yam that goes with it."

Abundant Orange Trees.

The Agricultural Department at Washington has a good deal of stock devoted entirely to the cultivation of orange and lemon trees. There is not much stock for any one species, but orange or lemon trees which do not live in the orange-growing States. This experimental nursery is maintained for the benefit of the growers of citrus fruits, most of whom are in California and Florida. If every person who wants an orange tree for a home ornament was to be gratified, the Florida nursery would have to grow a large quantity of trees for planting.

Cuckoo Clocks That Are Worthless.

In his report on clock-making in the Black Forest, Consul Ballow has the following in regard to the cuckoo clock makers, and how the travelers are sometimes fooled: "The cuckoo clock maker takes trumpeter and cuckoo with painted dials, also many regulators and musical clocks. The exportation of these clocks to the United States is steady, and will aggregate $50,000 per year. During the summer months the Schwarzwald clock region is visited by many Americans, and nearly every visitor purchases one of these clocks. They are very attractive and appear to be cheap, but in many cases they are made to be sold only, and an attractive exterior may induce many to purchase an almost worthless article. One cuckoo clock in particular when purchasing one of these clocks, for when the cuckoo will not coo any more and the trumpeter will not blow another blast, then in their value as curiosities gone, and will be of no value as time-keepers, then are very poor stock indeed. I have heard so many complaints from people who have purchased these clocks, that in regard to their general poor quality they seem to me to be worth the price. I have seen many of them, and also to inform would-be purchasers that if they wish to avoid disappointment, they should be very particular where and of whom they purchase, and in no case to purchase any cuckoo clock unless it is made by a reputable party. A few inquiries will generally disclose the required facts.—Baltimore American.
