Give All an Equal Chance.

Lincoln and Fremont are having somewhat of a tilt with Omaha as to railroad freight rates. On this, of course, rests the success or failure of almost every manufacturing or wholesale enterprise-if the rates are fair and not discriminating in favor of competing establishments, then there is a show of success; otherwise, failure is assured from the start, and this one fact has heretofore been the most potent influence against the smaller towns of the country. It remains to be seen whether the Inter-State Commerce law or commission will effect such a change as to better the condition of things, but until something does, there is little use in the small fish trying to grow simply for food for the bigger ones. The laws of the country, if such a thing can be should be such as to give all communities, and all legitimate interests an equal chance to life and prosperity. The Union Pacific.

The Lincoln correspondent of the Chicago Times speaks of a well-defined rumor circulating that the Union Pacific is about to complete its branch lines in such shape that the system will be a good one with the main line left out, one of the remaining links to be constructed being that between Columbus and David City. The correspondent would fain have Lincoln as the headquarters of the new

In some regards it looks plausible enough, seeing that the government has such a lien on the main line. We give the principal paragraph of the sensation:

"There is a well defined rumor circulating certain quarters to the effect that the Union Pacific stockholders are playing a pretty deep game with Uncie Sam, and are quietly preparing to surrender the old Union Pacific main line for the government debt and abandon their Omaha and Council Bluffs termini, making the several branches of the Union Pacific which are owned by them independent of the government lien a new system of lines, with Lincoln as their eastern terminus. The main feature involved in this plan consists of, first, a through line from Lincoln to Denver, with a connection at Lincoln with all the old Iowa pool lines, and, second, a linking together of all the Union Pacific branches with their Lincoln and Denver line, making, with the Oregon Short Line and the Denver & Rio Grande, a new system, to be called the Lincoln, Denver & Pacific, this to be conducted under cover of the old St. Joseph & Grand Island road, which it is definitely known is owned by the old Union Pacific regime, who have never parted with the control of the Union Pacific

GEO. PULLMAN arrived in Boston Saturday with his vestibule train consisting of baggage, express, smoking, dinner and sleeping cars connected together with wooden and rubber partitions so as to be practically under one roof. It is intended to use this as a link for continuous travel between London and Canton. "The trans-Atlantic steamer will land travelers on the Jersey City wharf. within ten yards of the train which will take them in just 100 hours to the gang plank of the Pacific Mail steamship in San Francisco, and his journey will be continued to his destination. The stop in Jersey City and San Francisco will be as brief as the rapid handling of baggage and mail can make it. The trip from London to Yokohoma or Canton can be made inside of one month."

Ar Dubuque, Ia., the other day a suit was begun in the federal court against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad by the Dubuque Jobbers' and Manufacturers' association, under the long and short haul clause of the interstate law. The allegation made is that the railroad charged a 33 cents rate on certain commodities in hardware from Chicago to Adams, Minn., a distance of 334 miles, and a 35 cents rate from Dubuque to Adams, a distance of 150 miles. This is the first suit brought under the new law, and if left to be passed upon by the court may give a construction to it which is just now puzzling the heads of the inter-state commissioners, who, it would seem thus far, have been a law unto themselves.

Last fall a young man named Anderson, who was working on a ranch in Carson valley, suddenly disappeared, and although an exhaustive search was made for him no trace of his whereabouts could be discovered. When last seen he was working near a hav baler. He was first missed at the dinner table, but no special anxiety was felt, as it was supposed he had laid down through sickness. His disappearance was a nine days' talk, and it was finally surmised that he had left the country on account of a love affair. Day before vesterday. however, he turned up in Virginia City. William Mooney, the stable man, purchased a load of alfalfa hay in bales of the rancher on whose place Anderson had been missed. He went to open one of the bales, when he found inside the body of Anderson in a good state of preservation. It is now rumored that Anderson, who was working at the machine, fell in, and the helpers about the spot were too busy talking polities to notice him, and so he was tied up along with the balance of the hay. He evidently died of suffocation and made no sign. Mr. Mooney has carefully examined the rest of the hay but has found no more bodies. STEALING NEBRASKA HOGS. Throwing Hogs from Moving Trains-A Very Nice Fix. It seems as if rouges would never cease finding out some new way to steal. In a conversation with an Iowa sheriff today, I was very much interested in an account he gave me of a new way to steal hogs that is becoming very popular in Iowa and other western States. A western railroad company, he said, had lately paid $1,000 at one time for repeated losses of hogs which it had undertaken to transport to the east. Every lot it shipped from Nebraska would fall was made, and it was discovered that they were stolen while the train was in motion. My informant, the sheriff, had had several of these hog thieves in his iail, and had learned the process very Meyer's in the evening of Saturday last, thoroughly from them. To abstract hogs from a moving train, the thief hour. boards it in the night, just as it leaves one station for the next. When it is approaching the next station he creeps which are very necessary things on a along the side of the car removes the farm where poultry is kept. pin, pushes back the door and goes inside. He then proceeds to shove a dozen or two hogs out of the car. This done the train stops he walks back on the right of way, gathers up the hogs, and drives them to market. This transaction looks impossible for many reasons to people who do not understand it. It seems to them to be a difficult and dangerous thing to both the thief and the hogs. But the sheriff says that the thieves tell him that it is harmless to the hogs and no trick at all in a thief to steal them in this way. Of course it is ex-railroad men who practice this dodge. -Chicago Journal.

Inter-State Commerce. According to promise we give the first important action taken by the Commission. It is a synopsis, and will be interesting to all those of our readers who are studying the course of events, and management of one of the greatest roads hoping that the people's interests may some time be uppermost in this country: "A decision is rendered in the case of two petitions-that of the Order of Railway Conductors and that of the Traders and Traveler's unionwhich are of a kind that render the decision especially interesting on account of their being representatives of a very large number of applications made to the Commission. The latter petition deals with the manner in which the former system of allowing additional free baggage has been interfered with by the Inter-State Commerce laws. The petition of the Order of Railway Conductors asks fpr information as to the proper interpretation of the law as applying to the issuance of passes to railway employes and their families to those who make railway service their business while temporarily out of employment and in search of a situation, and transportation at reduced rates is provided for representatives of any one association, must the same be extended to all others which are composed exclusively of railway employes. In its reply the commission says: "A careful reading of the act to regulate commerce, under which St. Cincipuati, O. this commission is organized, will show to the petitioners and others who have made similar applications that no jurisdiction has been given as to answer questions like these under consideration. Two sections of the law confer the storm in Vernon County, Mo. power upon the commission to entertain and decide applications and petitions. Section carrier to authorize such common carrier in special cases to charge less for longer than for shorter distances over the same line; and also to prescribe the extent of relief from operation of the former part of same section which designated the common carrier may from time to time enjoy. It is obvious that applications like those of the Railway Conductors' and Traders' and neral of the late Judge A. J. Weaver took Travelers' union have no relation whatever to day in Chicago, it was plainly evident duties imposed upon us by section 4. And this is the only section of the law which the commisly attended. The services were conduct- sion has power to suspend or relax. Section 13 confers jurisdiction to entertain the same. But either railway conductors nor the Traders and carrier has violated the law. They present no complaint of anything done or omitted in con- ful cure by S. S. S., which she describes travention of the provisions of the law. If a railroad company should issue a pass to a conductor and his family to attend the approaching convention, or should transport 300 pounds of any sufferer her thrilling experience and baggage free for a commercial traveler under the registry and indemnity system, and some person, feeling aggrieved, should make complaint of unjust discrimination, it would then be proper for the commission to entertain the uestion of whether it was or was not within the exceptions as stated within section 22. Complaints may also be presented if charges made by arriers are not considered reasonable and just. But until questions of this kind come before us in the way clearly indicated by statute, it would be worse than useless for us to express our opinions or give advice. We should not only lay I began taking S. S. S., and two dozen ourselves justly open to the charge of assuming unwarranted authority but should also run a great risk of involving all concerned in what the courts might afterward hold to be breaches of poor health, and could hardly drag the law, by hasty and ill-considered conclusions, about. After I had finished the course based upon exparte statements and arguments. roads out of the hands of the railroad companies. It has simply established certain general principles under which inter-state commerce must be weak, delicate health. It is a household conducted. It has enacted in section 1 that all charges for inter-state transportation 'shall be reasonable and just.' It has prohibited in section 2 all manner of unjust discrimination; has forbidden in section 3 all undue and unreasons.

ble preferences and advantages; has required in the same section reasonable and equal facilities

They simply bring back the business of the common carriers to the well settled principles of common hw. Yet no one can deny that there was urgent need of their statutory formulation. Alleged difficulties in putting them in operation only disclose examples of the extent to which they have been violated in the past. Referring to the complaint that fines for the violation of the law, whether intentional or not, are exorbi tent, the commission says: 'Good faith, exhibited in an honest effort, to carry out the requirefair minded officials in no dangers of damages or fines. The elasticity of the statute in their favor is noticeable. Throughout the act as it now stands, in a confessedly experimental form, there is exhibited an obvious and generous purpose to allow corporations ample scope in the conduct of their business as common carriers for the people and a fair consideration of every reasona-ble claim while insisting upon just, impartial, open, and consistent rates of charge to which every citizen shall be subjected alike, whose situation is the same. Surely these people could not ask for less. The language and tenor of the act wholly failed to justify railroad managers, if any such there be, who refuse to accept the responsibilities, decline to offer rates, neglect to announce conditions of traffic, embarrass custo mary interchange of business and impose stagnation upon trade while they 'stick in the bark' of the phrases and expressions of the law in venting doubts and imagining dangers. As the law is practically applied, it is said to contain many elements of advantage to economical and profitable management of the business of carriers, which they have not been slow to apprehend and take the benefit of. The commission venture to express a hope that with this explanation respecting the mutual functions of carriers effect according to its true intent and meaning there will be no lack of good faith and active

Mrs. Wilson is the wife of R. W. Wilson, one of the best known citizens of Hopkinsville, Ky. She had a wonderin the accompanying letter. Mrs. Wilson would cheerfully give in detail to joyful cure. She is enthusiastic over S. S. S. as a tonic for delicate women:

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Feb. 24, 1887. "Seven years ago, a sore developed or my nose from a finger-nail scratch. tried a few simple remedies, but the sore would not yield. I grew worse every year for seven years. Many thought I had a cancer. Over a year ago, bottles entirely cured me. When I began with Swift's Specific I was in very of S. S. S. I was strong and buoyant, and had a good appetite. I regard it a most invaluable medicine for ladies in medicine with me.

Yours respectfully, MRS. R. W. WILSON. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases
