The Blair Pilot says that the defunct First National bank of that place will pay the last penny of all its obligations, and that the trouble grew out of a row amongst the stockholders over who should dictate its management, draw the salaries and say who should be allowed to borrow money - their particular friends or the other fellow's.

Of course, the proposition in full will be presented to electors; one of its chief provisions is that at least one mile of said railway is to be constructed and in operation by the first day of September, 1888.

DECORATION DAY!

Programme of Exercises Under the Auspices of Baker Post No. 8, G. A. R.

The little church of the Letter Day Saints is being enlarged and repaired. Services will be held on Sundays at 2 o'clock p. m. at the house of James Warner one block east of the First Ward school house. Services next Sunday, May 29 will be conducted by Elder G. W. Galley. This building was erected in '79, and was the first school house in the county. Col. G. W. Stevens being the teacher; afterwards it was used as a hospital by the 7th Iowa cavalry; then a court-room and city hall, Dale being mayor, and was then, in 1871, purchased by the present owners, and moved to its present site.

A fire occurred last Friday in the rear of O. L. Baker's large barn, that, without the waterworks, might have burned a large sized hole in the business portion of the city. As it was, the damage was about $17 to James Ducey's stable, and when the hose was attached, it was an absolute pleasure to see the way in which the life of the fire was pounded out, and so easy, too. Three times three for the waterworks! The fire was set out by two little boys, sons of B. McTaggart and O. L. Baker, who thought a fire in the building would be much nicer than in the street.

A Narrow Escape.

Bartholomew Gurst's team ran off with him Monday evening, getting up quite a speedy gait before they struck the telephone post east of the Congregational church, where they were brought up standing, the singletrees breaking in two, and Mr. Gurst being hauled bodily out of the wagon, by the lines, striking the ground flat on his back. He was restored to consciousness in a few moments by Dr. Schug, who said the man was not seriously injured, only "shaken up."

Buy your supplies of home dealers, men who are interested in the welfare of your town and who spend the money they make with the people of whom they get it. We venture to say, for instance, that farm implements, hardware, dry-goods, clothing, boots and shoes and even groceries can be bought, retail or wholesale, just as cheap all things considered, of your honest home dealer as of a house in Omaha, Lincoln, Chicago or St. Louis. We have no doubt this is true of all other businesses, and we know it is true of printing.

R. B. Kummer gave the JOURNAL a very pleasant business call Saturday. He reports affairs on the south side as very prosperous, and says that word got abroad some way that the Platte bridge was ready for crossing Thursday, and there must have been a hundred and eighty teams turned back that day - it was like a celebration - a big procession. Now that the bridge is done, it is to be hoped that the procession will come and keep coming.

The JOURNAL job department is prepared to furnish, on short notice, all kinds of commercial work such as letter heads, note heads, bill heads, statements, circulars, envelopes, cards, stationers, posters, etc.; visiting cards; lawyers' briefs; pamphlets; catalogues; sale bills, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Orders by mail promptly attended to. Address, M. K. Turner & Co., Columbus, Neb.

Ralph Turner fell out of a hay loft Thursday evening, a post-stage following, striking him on the top of the head, cutting the flesh to the skull and making a gash about two inches in length. Dr. Martyn was called in, and in ten minutes Ralph had his wound all fixed up and good shape. It was a very close call, and Ralph will probably be more careful the next time he chases chickens.

It will be well enough for travelers over the Platte bridge to remember not to trot their teams, or undertake to drive more than eight or ten head of cattle at a time. A herd is apt sometimes to turn back on itself on a bridge and when there are many in the herd, it makes it pretty trying to the span on which they bunch together. A word to the wise is sufficient.

The Tale of a Fish.
When a man doth wish to angle,
A hook like this he loves to string:
He has like this so good and strong;
And catches a fish about so long:
Before he gets home the fish doth grow?
And he tells his friends that it stretched out so:
But his friends who have a-fishing been,
Know that the man has lied like sin,
And they simply sit and smile and grin.

Accidentally Drowned.
A son of Don Benson, aged eighteen months, was drowned in a tub of water last Wednesday evening at Frank Figard's residence.
