Notice of our exchanges are attempting to poke fun at Columbus, on account of the proposed street car line. The trouble comes in this: Columbus possesses just a little enterprise that these cities whose sole business it is to hurt their slugs at her. Misery is a great lover of company.

The Leigh Advocate is very correct. Columbus was never in better shape than she is at present. Her business and public interests are being looked after with a unanimity of sentiment that is making everything in the way of public enterprise, there is not one possessed by any city in Nebraska, (outside of Omaha and Lincoln), that Columbus does not have, and now is to be added the street car line. Articles of incorporation for this enterprise were filed some time since, the right of way granted by our citizens, giving until September 1st, 1888 to operate one mile of the road. Only a few days have elapsed, and all the stock has been subscribed, the books closed, and the stockholders declare that the road will be constructed and operated at once. The difference between Columbus and some of these towns that trace her is that Columbus acts in earnest of talks, while her traducers, instead of good method and talk instead of acting, and many of them are content to let it be talked for themselves and talk against other places. Whenever a man or a community is continually belittling another, speaking slightly of every good thing done or attempted, to the unprejudiced observer it is proof positive of envy. Columbus is satisfied to go along on the road she marked out long ago, one step at a time and that step sure; envious of no other community's welfare, glad of her own; in readiness to adopt any measure that the needs of the times demand or that will add to the business, to the comfort or to the safety of the city. The Advocate is correct, and the enterprise that does the work, without boasting, and emulates the worthy deed, wherever or by whomsoever done.

On John Craig's farm in Colfax precinct is a large prairie dog town, that has rapidly been growing in size for a number of years, and has resulted in nearly destroying a goodly number of acres of some of Mr. Craig's best pasture lands. Mr. Craig now proposes to exterminate the town, and has hired a man to shoot the dogs, agreeing to pay him a hundred and twenty-five dollars when the last dog shall have been killed. The man who is to do the shooting commenced his work last week, and has thus far killed something over a thousand, and it is thought that there are as many more. -Schuyler Herald.

Death to Prairie Dogs!

EDITOR JOURNAL, Columbus, Neb. Dear Sir:—It was my fortune in purchasing land here in Platte county to have a few prairie dogs thrown in, as a nuisance, and it has ever since been my wish to get rid of them. I tried various kinds of poison, shooting, drowning, etc., but all failed until quite recently I learned that Bi Sulphide of Carbon would destroy them. It is a liquid, can be purchased at the drug stores at a cost of from 10 to 15 cents a pound by the quantity. I bought from three different parties; the best and cheapest I got from Edward R. Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio. It is sure death to prairie dogs, gophers, squirrels, etc. Mode of applying: it takes a piece of cotton the size of a hen egg, saturate it with about 1/2 an ounce of the Bi Sulphide of Carbon, throw it into the hole of the animal, cover the top of hole with ground, so that the cotton is loose in the hole. A gas is formed, and the dogs are killed. I have destroyed my dogs on about 80 acres at a cost of $50.00, and increased the value of the land $500.00. One pound will do for 25 holes.

This medicine is quickly applied and is sure death. No hunting about it. Very respectfully, your friend,

EDWARD R. TAYLOR, Cleveland, Ohio.
