Washington Letter. [From our regular correspondent.]

Mr. Powell, the democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, was in Washington last week importuning the admin istration to come to his relief. Mr Powell has the blues. His visit was like a wet blanket to the Ohio portion of the democracy who held office here. He says frankly there is no hope in this fall's election unless the administration will do something. Powell's positiveness is worthy of charitable consideration. He says, too, if Ohio goes Republican this year, it will work serious damage to Mr. Cleveland's prospects for next year. This prediction proves Powell's foresight. Next Friday the President starts on his swing through portions of the West and South. The program is well arranged and quite elaborate, and there is no reason why he should not have a good time, fully enjoy himself, and return a wiser man. Never having traveled much, this trip may enlarge his ideas of the magnitude and majesty of the country and give him a more exalted conception of the duties and responsibilities of his high position. If that purpose is accomplished the country can well afford the time and expense of his absence from duty, though the ulterior Late in the afternoon the other day a object be one of the most selfish and partisan. That heart is a cold one that would envy the administration a little dress parade just at this time. It needs something, and certainly this is thin enough. True, half the invitations were worked up in Washington, but what matters that? The President has accepted and is going, and there will be the local boom and excitement, the great display, the crowd and rush, and let us hope no great disappointment or feelings of disgust, when the fever is party is the only right one. Mr. and over and second thought has fair play.

THE LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK

"In peace prepare for war;" in summer, prepare for winter, and among your preparations don't forget that if you can save one-third to one-half on your expense for fuel, by an appliance of little cost, it will pay you to take a little trouble to provide yourself with one.

Francis Marak, jr., of Everest, Kan., the inventor of the appliance referred to, is here disposing of territory and has made an expense of the country represented. by anybody. Come and see

COLUMBUS, NKBR.,

June 14, 1887.

I have tried Francis Marak's patent radiator on my cook stove and found it to do all that he claims. It caused the kettle to boil and the oven to heat, quick, with one-half the fuel we had been using without the Radiator. We got breakfast with 19 corn cobs, and the oven was bet enough to bake bisemits.
