To give even an outline of Mr. Hudson's public career would more than fill all the columns of the JOURNAL. In the early days he was elected representative from Monroe, Platte, Dodge and Washington counties to the legislature, but was "whittled" out of the position in a contest; later along, in 1871-'2, he served a term in the legislature, and was unanimously selected by his fellow-members as one of the managers for the House in the impeachment trial of Gov. Butler. Mr. Hudson has been three times postnaster; Justice of the Peace eleven years consecutively, and afterwards six years, resigning the position; county clerk three times; county commissioner, three terms; as county supervisor, under township organization, he is now serving his second term, and is chairman of the board.

For the office of County Judge Mr Hudson is peculiarly well qualified a man of family and experience, he realizes the importance of faithfully guarding the interests of the widow and the children in the settlement of estates of decedents, and he would see to it that justice be done. For an intelligent discharge of the duties of the office, with great credit to himself and with honor to the county, no one questions Mr. Hudson's ability to far exceed his competitor.
