Great improvements have been made in the designing of iron bridges and in the modes of manufacture. That the King Co. not only has kept pace with these, but has been and is in the lead is shown by the large number of important structures manufactured and erected by them every year. Among those now under contract by them are two large bridges across the Mississippi river at Minneapolis, Minnesota; one of 200 ft. span and iron piers at Beatrice, being the heaviest structure so far built in this state; another bridge in Republic Co., Kansas, 475 ft, in three spans and iron piers, and many others of equal importance. Sensible Views from a Creston Correspo

ED. JOURNAL: - Allow me to through the JOURNAL a few words reference to the contemplated move in regard to the building of bridges across the Loup and Platte rivers. It seems to me, in the light of past experience, that to undertake to build bridges for the amount of money that the people of Columbus have provided, is, to say the least, perfect folly, and it does appear to me that if the people of Platte county would look at the matter in the proper light, without prejudice and selfishne they would be ready to come forward a fire on such a windy day. It seems and say that they were willing to vote an additional $40,000 for the construction of those bridges, and with the combined sum build structures that would be an honor and a credit to the county. 17. The vote for Becher and Kavanaugh | With this sum of money there can be built bridges that would stand for years. What enterprise would advertise the county so well, when there is not a crossing that is reliable on these rivers Bismark: 27 Shell Creek: 28 Humphrey; from their mouths to their sources, except the railroad bridges?

The traveling public have been made badly cut up. to suffer at various times on account of these bad crossings, and the inconvenience and expense that they have been put to has caused them to curse the fields; consequently the corn will be the lowest depths of destruction. Would it not be far better to have good, safe heralded all over the state and adjointravel quicker than these good roads and cattle, place of business to be at and bridges? But, I hear some modern | Leigh, Neb. Quite a large number of that if building up Columbus so as to ly prove a good thing for our farmers. make it a live, progressive, prosperous and wealthy city would be any detriment to the county and its inhabitants, then don't vote for such improvements but move out. How much does it hurt Platte county, or any other county in Nebraska, to build up Omaha and make it the center of trade, and make it wealthy and populous? Will it pay us to encourage them and help them every way that we can? I think it will and I think that it will pay us big to help Columbus. It does not appear to me to be possible for a reasonable man to object to a move of this kind, if he will just stop to think and reason for a moment. "In peace prepare for war;" in summer, pre-pare for winter, and among your preparations don't forget that if you can save one-third to one-half on your expense for fuel, by an ap-pliance of little cost, it will pay you to take a little trouble to provide yourself with one. Francis Marak, jr.. of Everest, Kan., the in-ventor of the appliance referred to, is here dis-posing of territory, and has made some sales of counties.

A fire, on the ground, under the open canopy of heaven; two posts, a cross stick and the pot of victuals hanging over the fire. Second, the same, only a rude wall around, and a cone-shaped roof, with a hole in the middle for the smoke to curi out at.

Third, the open grate, in the open fire-place, a great portion of the heat escaping up the chim-great portion of the heat escaping up the chimney into the outer air.

Fourth, the stove.

Fifth, the stove and drum, increasing the amount of surface heated by the same fuel.

Sixth, the greatly improved drum, or RADIATOR, with a more intense and therefore more penetrating heat from the same amount of fuel; forming a reservoir for heat event as it escapes.

COLUMBUS, NEBR., June 14, 1887. 5

I have tried Francis Marak's patent radiator on my cook stove and found it to do all that he claims. It caused the kettle to boil and the oven to heat, quick, with one-half the fuel we had been using without the Radiator. We got breakfast with 19 corn cobs, and the oven was bot enough to hake hissenits. not enough to bake biscuit counties.

The appliance is an ordinary drum except that it is divided into apartments running the length of the drum; one of these is virtually a continuation of the pipe, when the damper is not turned, and makes a direct draft when desired for starting a fire; when the damper is turned, the partitions are so arranged that the heated air and smoke go alternately upward and downward through all the apartments (usually five in number, owing to the relative size of pipe and drum) and finally up the chimney. The principle is precisely the same as that of the famous Mennonite heating furnaces, and applied to cook or heating stoves, utilizes a great deal more of the heat evolved from the fuel than is done by the ordinary drum. The pictures of progress are these:

penetrating heat from the same amount of ruel; forming a reservoir for heat except as it escapes through the metallic enclosure, and what little gets out through the chimney.

Abundant certificates can be given from those who have used the RADIATOR that it does all that is claimed for it, but the following are suf-ficient:
