Fatal Accident. Saturday morning, word was received here that Walter Martin, a young man twenty years of age and a brakeman on the Albion train which runs out from here at 7 a. m., had been very seriously injured and would be brought down immediately. The Union Pacific local surgeons, Drs. Martyn & Schug were on hands promptly, and everything got in readiness to receive and care for the injured man. Soon the engine with the baggage car arrived at the depot, and the injured man taken into the baggage

His injuries proved fatal and death brought relief in the course of fifteen minutes. The body was taken to undertaker, Henry Gass's place, where we saw it. The toes of the right foot and the fingers of the left hand were mashed, and a gash Finding it not so, however, he was not cut in the left side of the abdomen. There seemed no injury about the head, over the weak span and had it drayed and the casual observer would be ininto town. The southside folks do their clined to believe that life had been lost through flow of blood.

We learn that young Hoffman who met with a somewhat similar fatality about six months ago at Fullerton, was a cousin of young Martin.

THE OMAHA WEEKLY BEE Magnificent Selection of Premiums to be Awarded to Subscribers.-How the Publishers of the Bee Distribute a Large Number of Valuable Premiums Among Their ing its patrons the largest and most valuable list of premiums that has ever been awarded by them. For the past seven years the Bee has annually listributed among its patrons a large number of valuable and useful articles, increasing the number and value each year as the number of sub scribers increased. This system was first inaugurated by the publishers about eight years ago as the means of collecting back pay, securing renewals and increasing the circulation of the Bee. In this it proved a success. Several thou and dollars back dues were collected which would otherwise have been almost entirely lost or expended in enforcing collections through gents or attorneys, and the subscription list was ncreased from 3,500 to over 35,000 in seven years

Each successive year a larger number of sub cribers was secured and the list of premium During the first year only a small portion of he articles distributed were procured in exchange for advertising. When the marked increase in the circulation became known to the nerchants and manufacturers, they willingly offered their goods and machinery in exchange for advertising. In this manner a very valuable selection of premiums was secured, with a comparative small outlay of cash. Almost all the nore valuable articles are obtained in this way Nearly the only outlay in cash made is for the minor premiums, such as books, cutlery, etc. These are purchased at the very lowest wholesale rates in very large quantities. In this way it is made possible to award such a magnificent lot of premiums to subscribers, and send each the paper for one year for the price of two dollars.

The following is a partial list of the articles to be awarded at the next distribution: 80 acres of fine land in Colfax Co., Ne-brasks, valued at One Omaha city lot One Aultman & Taylor threshing ma-One Heilman threshing machine

One celebrated Weber upright piano Four parlor organs valued at from $11 to One Registered Holstein bull One Jersey bull calf ...

And a large variety of valuable impl live stock, guns, watches, household goods, etc... etc., valued in all at over $48,500. The old patrons of the Bee need f the stability and reliability of the paper, nor o they need to be informed of the principles i advocates, the fearless defense it makes in behalf of the producers and uncompromising opposition to corporate monopolies.
