-The sermon of Rev. H. L. Powers last Sunday evening was specially intended for young men, the text being from Zechariah 2-4, "Run-speak to this the season opens. Good enough. young man." The subjects dwelt upon were the greatness of the power of young men,-physically, mentally and in influence; the high honor shown to them. -angels are earnestly concerned for them. Christ died to save them to the uttermost, ministers of the gospel labor in their behalf and parents follow them with their unending love; the living message is to tell them of their once happy home, of the counsel and example of their parents, that life is very precious but uncertain, and that there is a better world beyond; the dignity of Christ ian character, which brings joy to the home cercle, gives dignity to society -Invitations have been received here and honor to the church.-A large congregation was present.

-The thoughtful husbandman busily engaged now, on occasions, in his seeders, cultivators and harness, so that when spring-time comes for sure and all, he will be abundantly ready for the work which will then fall to his lot all in a heap. "A stitch in time," applies to the farmer's work as well as it does to that of the good house-wife, as likewise the fact that "delays are dangerous" or at least, sometimes, expensive. -Some people have a notion that the way to advance the business interests of a town is to create an exaggerated idea of its importance; magnifying a thousand fold (less or more) its actualities-in short, lie about it,-in the newspapers, play the world as "suckers." There is such a thing as "putting the best foot forward," which, of course, is all right. Reasonable people expect this, but to represent things away beyond what they are, is a wrong theory to act upon, and produces disgust. Take your town just as it is and make the most of it, by honest, hard licks in its favor. Build up all the interests you have here; encourage others to come that will find an unoccupied field of work and will themselves prosper; talk, work for the town and the whole town. When prosperity is general, all have a share in it.

-The towns of Nebraska are all pretty much in the same condition-they need manufacturing industries to make better home markets. The local trade of the larger towns, owing to the increase of railroads, is being cut off by smaller towns springing up, and nothing but manufacturing and jobbing interests which will bring money from the outside, will answer as a substitute. The way to do anything is to, at least, begin considering what ought to be done, determine on what can be done, then go to work at the doing of it. All talk will not accomplish much. "Go ahead, boys," is never so strong a phrase as "Come along, boys." A little factory right on the ground is much better than a big castle in the air. -We are pleased to hear that most of Col. and Mrs. John Hammond of interest in preparing matter for the state exhibit at Fremont on the 29th of March. Work of this kind should be general in our schools as a regular exercise. We are of the opinion that the directors could not expend the small sum which the paper costs, for a better purpose. Written work in our schools will give to the exercises a conciseness and definiteness of exercises greatly needed. Indeed the solution of the great "language problem," which has troubled teachers so long, seems to lie in this direction. We hope soon to see these written exercises become a part of the daily program of every school in our
