Well-grated streets, good sidewalks and crossings add wonderfully to the appearance of a town, and Columbus is doing very well in this regard. The bad place on Fourteenth street, which we called the attention of the street commissioner last week, has been filled up and is now in good trim.

Harry Lawrence, aged 8 years, and Theo. Hamann, of Mrs. H. E. Ballou's room of the public house, were examined for promotion and found ineligible to promote to the rank of sergeant, skipping an entire grade, or one year. That is the way to do; promote on merit, any time during the year.

One can now drive straight north to the bluffs from the Monastery without going through a single mud-hole, thanks to the work of road crew chief Fred Blase and his assistants. Early in the season while it was dry, they were reported bad in Merrick and Fox counties, but after the long series of cold rains we heard little of the chinch bugs. They are a very hard pest, however, and it is not at all probable that they will be entirely exterminated, but if we give over to them, either, should they make their appearance, without at least an effort to thwart their destructive work. It is only thus that man has conquered his greatest enemies and his most formidable foes in the subjugation of nature by a dose of morphine. Such a brief record that could be made of the death of one who might have been a good and true wife, mother and member of society, and who in this world might have been one of usefulness.

In Memoriam. John W. Early, whose death which occurred Tuesday June 19th, was announced in last week's JOURNAL, was born in Columbiana county, Ohio, Dec. 29th, 1844. He resided in Pittsburg, Pa., and in that vicinity until he moved to Nebraska in 1867. He was married in East Palestine, Ohio, in 1865 to Mary A. Routsom. He enlisted in company B, 10th regiment of Kansas volunteers in September '61 and was in the battles of Shiloh, Perryville and Franklin, and many other skirmishes. He was mustered out of the service in 1864.

He located on Shell Creek in this county in '67 and engaged in farming. In '73 he was appointed deputy county assessor and served six years. He was elected treasurer, and re-elected in '81. Since the close of his last term as assessor, he has been attending to the duties of his private business.

Mr. Early was a very generous-hearted, sympathetic man, and his personal friends were, everybody who knew him. He had friends because he showed himself self-friendly. Even his political contests and the public generally, but after a while if any man ever came out of a severe struggle of the sort and yet with hearty good-will toward his opponent, that man was Mr. Early.

Peace to his memory. Nebraska. A fine rain throughout this part of the county Tuesday night. Corn seems to be fairly jumping during this warm weather, but the weeds are not crawling either, and everybody is busy cutting down the weeds. Mr. H. Rowe has changed his lodgings and approaches the school house from the south again.

Theophilus Brugger is home again and farming as brisk as ever. M. W. Westbrook, who lost four colts about three weeks ago, has found them near North Bend. John Brugger and H. Johnson each had a colt pretty badly cut up in the wire fence lately.

Ed. Newman wears a perpetual smile on his face — we wonder — Mr. Jacob Reiss and family of Leigh were here last Sunday to celebrate his birthday. It is not likely that he is a neighbor; of course Mr. R. did not come empty handed — the old gentleman looks as hale and hearty as ever, and that he may enjoy many more such days is the wish of all who know him.

Mr. James Frazier of Columbus was through here last week, buying up fat hogs. He says that Jim could carry a fat hog equal as far as 12 to 15 miles. Bismarck Township. Everything is prospering. Corn is growing finely since the rain. Otto Mueller has been having his well repaired and new pipes put in. Williams (Gardner) had forty head of fat hogs to Columbus, Monday last. Mrs. L. Heiden left for Sioux City, Ia., on the 17th, to visit her daughter, Mrs. E. Miller.

Mrs. F. Karline started for Cambridge, Neb., on the 22d to visit her daughter, Mrs. Andrew Albrecht, who is quite ill at present though her condition is improving. The summer term of the Academy closed on the 22d; the exercises were conducted in a creditable manner and were highly interesting to the visitors, among whom were the following: Andrew Mathis, Frederick Miller, T. M. Wilson, Mrs. J. Conley and mother, Mrs. Ann, Emma Schaad and Joseph Van Wee. CHARLES.

Platte Center. (From the News.) James Lynch and Theo. Gleason are about to start a grocery store in this burg. Miss May Breneham and Benj. Benson were married June 19th, at St. Joseph's church. Miss May Brady of Columbus has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. L. Bessler, this week. Dr. Wm. Edwards is now getting along nicely as could be expected. Hugh Hughs was in the Center, Wednesday.

Ed. Newman was a Platte Center visitor Monday. The Annual County Teachers' Institute will be held this year at the High School building on 19th street, on the day of August, and continuing two weeks. Experienced conductors will be present during the session, and all subjects relating to our district schools will receive special attention. The new course of study for the country schools and the manner of operating the same will be explained, so that all teachers may know what is expected of them. An examination for certificates will be held at the close of the institute. Evening entertainments of an educational character will be held during the session. All teachers of the county are expected to be present. L. J. CHAMBER.

Public Sale. I will offer for sale at my farm, ten miles north of Columbus, Thursday, June 28, 1888, 20 milk cows, 80 steers and one yearling, and about 200 head of hogs. Terms: $10 and under, cash; above that sum one year's time, bankable paper, 10 per cent. interest, 10 per cent off for cash. Free lunch on attendance. L. J. CHAMBER.

I will pay 2 per cent commission to agents. Send description to W. A. Gould, box 151, Kearney, Neb. JOHN HUBER, AUC., NICK ADAM.

High School. The exercises of the graduating class took place Friday evening at the Opera House, to an overcrowded house. The hall was decorated with blooming plants and vines.

Promptly on time, Miss Stella Morrison played a march and the graduates, sixteen in number, took seats on the stage, with the school board, Co. Supt. Cramer and Prof. Backus.

The invocation by Rev. Griswold was short and appropriate. The song "Hail to the Queen" by the Juniors, was well rendered.

The salutatory was by Geo. H. Whaley, who showed he had a strong voice, clear enunciation and good delivery. He gave all a hearty welcome and related a short anecdote with which he closed and all were sorry to see him sit down.

"The Bad and Bloom of Life," by Miss Nettie Anderson, compared the flower of life with the showers and dew with weeping, quoting Longfellow's "Into each life some rain must fall." Walter Henry gave a very good biography of Julius Caesar, the world's great warrior.

Earle S. Pearsall delivered his oration in a pleasing manner, and reminded us how much better is an educational legacy than one of money, as we might hold it in all circumstances.

The salutatory gave the society, "fastidious" lovers of neatness, that the fit of the clothes or style of bonnet are not the only things to be wished for in the dress of a woman.

"The Dawn of History" by Albert J. Galley, showed a great deal of preparation and thorough work. "Words" was the subject of Jesse Beecher's essay. He explained in a plain manner of the use of words, their abuse and effectiveness.

Wilk Speick showed by his delivery that he was well versed in the life of Napoleon Bonaparte. "Sentiment and Feeling," was well delivered by Miss Minnie Meagher, who explained in a plain manner of the use of words, their abuse and effectiveness.

"Writing" was the subject of an oration delivered by James E. Ballou. Among other ideas was this: Long ago Archimedes said show me a point on which to rest my lever and I will move the world. Now writing proves to be the full cream of thought and the lever is moved by its power. Unlimited in its way, fast flies the message from nation to nation, being news of peace or disaster of war and death, and all the nations of the earth may sympathize in grief or joy.

Miss Jennie A. Sacerder then read an oration in memory of one thought in this: "His mind is best disciplined whose brain can be brought into the most vigorous and powerful action, the strong and sound mind is the mind that can embrace equally great and small things."

"Boswell Conking" had been well studied by Albert G. Parker and his oration was well delivered. Ernest A. Gerrard showed his taste for good literature when he said "To me there is no more interesting subject than the history of our own country;" he delivered his oration with firmness and decision.

Then came the valedictory, a farewell, to schoolmates, teachers, school board and parents; it was very well rendered, the speaker was graceful, and the tone was that which is to be heard in a farewell; more than one person's eyes filled at this parting by William E. Coolidge. Prof. Backus awarded two gold medals to the best orator, the one to Albert G. Parker, the other to William E. Coolidge.

President Schlupbach made an appropriate speech then awarded the diplomas. The class motto was "Not for school life, but for life's school." A number of floral offerings were received by each pupil. Some books were also given. The exercises were interspersed with music by the Juniors, the Columbus Orchestra and by Misses Morrison, and added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

As usual, the school board for their efficient aid in all material ways are to be highly commended for what they have done for pupils and teachers. Thanks are due to Supt. W. B. Backus, who is also to be commended for his interest for the lively interest he has taken in the welfare of those under his charge.
