Mr. W. H. Carnahan goes to Hastings to take charge of the business of the McKinley-Lanning Loan and Trust Co. of that place. The JOURNAL expresses the regret of the many friends of Mr. Carnahan and family at their departure from this city.

G. W. Kibler of Leigh arrived in the city yesterday on business. He returned from a short trip to Ohio, about two weeks ago—his first visit to his old home in sixteen years. He says the people of Findlay are not at all frightened over the predictions of the blow-up of the place.

D. A. Lord of Colorado was in the city Friday and Saturday. His brothers, Dr. M. L. and J. H. of Rochester, N. Y., were with him, and had been on a month's trip to Colorado. They were in this part of Nebraska eight years ago, and think the country has greatly improved since then, especially the farming portion.

Some of the JOURNAL readers are afflicted with hay fever. We find the following remedy going the rounds. We give it, that you may investigate its merits: Mix sulphate of quinine and water in proportions of one grain of the powder to one ounce of the fluid, and sniff this mixture up the nostrils freely, from the hollow of the hand, several times a day, or as often as convenient. Don't despise this remedy because of its simplicity, but use it persistently—as if you wanted to be cured—and if not cured, you will experience great relief.

Mr. Fitzpatrick hands us a copy of the Findlay Sunday Gas containing in full the particulars of the prophecies of a certain Dr. Weissenbauer that the great gas reservoir under Findlay will some day explode and cause great destruction. The editor in an article endeavors to show that the "Dr." is a myth, and the basis of the theories advanced untenable. It is probable that the fiction was written and published at the instigation of some rival manufacturing interest, to deter manufacturers from locating at Findlay.

Eastern people who have not been in the west at all, or have not visited it for years, cannot understand what progress is being made in Nebraska, for instance. It did look a few years ago as though there was land enough lying around unoccupied, for all the land of the civilized world, but things have changed. Cultivation of the soil, the planting of groves of timber, etc., have wrought a wonderful change on the face of nature; farmers have been very prosperous, and being also enterprising, their improvements show to good advantage.

The provident farmer has his potatoes all sold or properly stored, his grain threshed and secured, excepting the corn which he is now husking; his fall plowing will soon be completed, if the ground don't freeze; his manure hauled out upon the poor spots on the field; his corns, sheds, shelters and stables fixed up for winter; the house repairs have all been looked after, broken lights replaced, storm doors placed where needed and double windows always fitted up neatly, and everything in shape for cold weather—when it shall come, as come it may any day.

J. S. Moore of Boone county, an old-time friend of the JOURNAL, called at our sanctum Wednesday last. He was returning home from a visit to Noble county, Ohio, and was accompanied by his wife and daughter and niece, Miss Nellie Moore. While in Ohio, it rained about four days out of seven. Mr. Moore used to come to Columbus with all his farm produce, and buy here all his supplies, the trip occupying three days. Afterwards, on the completion of the railroad, Albion became his market town; the building of the road to Fullerton made Albion seem a long way off; Cedar Rapids discouraged that, and now a depot at Belgrade will soon make the railroad a convenience for sure, and Columbus as a market is unthought of.

The Grand Lodge of the state of Nebraska of the I. O. O. F. was in session at Omaha Wednesday to Friday of last week. Judge H. J. Hudson was representative from this city. A good deal of business was done, and it was said in favor of the canning establishment will apply here.

Tomatoes, corn and peas are the staple crops of the vegetable line, and strawberries, peaches, plums, etc., in the fruit line.

Next in importance would be a box factory, which could be secured at a similar cost and most of what has been said in favor of the canning establishment will apply here.

From the Independent.

POLITICAL DEBATE!

Hon. G. W. E. DORSEY.

The republican nominee for congress, and

E. P. WEATHERBY, Esq.

The democratic nominee for the same office, at

OPERA HOUSE.

Saturday, Oct. 27.

There will doubtless be a rush for seats, and everybody should go early.

A Rousing Republican Meeting at Platte Center.

Train No. 4 on the U. P. R. R. brought to this city on Friday, Oct. 19th, the Hon. George W. E. Dorsey, Hon. George B. Meiklejohn and Mr. John Macken of St. Paul, Neb.

These distinguished citizens were billed for a grand republican rally at Platte Center for the same afternoon, so accompanied by Mr. Henry Bagatz, Carl Kramer and others they immediately took carriages for their destination.

On approaching the "Center" they saw the flags and hunting tyns in every direction the whole town was in holiday array.

The meeting was opened at 4 o'clock, every seat in the nice new hall being occupied, and hundreds standing. As a compliment to the visitors Carl Kramer was asked to preside. The stage was neatly decorated. The Hon. George W. E. Dorsey spoke for an hour on tariff mostly, and the audience listened very closely and attentively, applauding intelligently.

He was followed by John Macken who spoke to his countrymen, appealing to them to stand by the party that gave them the homestead law, asking them to beware. That which English free trade had done for Ireland, democratic English free trade, if introduced, would do for their adopted land. Mr. Macken showed himself to be a well-read, thoroughly-informed gentleman and made many friends and converts.

At 6 o'clock the meeting adjourned and was convened again at 8. If such a thing was possible, the hall was even more crowded in the evening than it had been in the afternoon, many ladies being in attendance. George B. Meiklejohn made a fine speech, followed by Mr. Dorsey. At half-past 10 the chairman, after thanking the audience for the perfect order and good feeling which prevailed, wanted to dismiss them, but gentlemen out with a beautiful tribute to the republican party, etc.

Mr. Sam Alexander, a veteran of 1840 and one of our respected citizens of Platte county, gave his experience of that campaign.

Thanks are due to Ed. Hoare, Mr. Stephenson and in fact all the citizens of Platte Center including the Band with their good music for the complete success of the meeting. If there is any virtue in any public gathering, that of republicanism in Platte county. Arrangements have been made to hold another large republican meeting at Platte Center, Thursday, Nov. 1st, which will be addressed by Senator Manderson and others.

Canning Factory.

Columbus has a territory of about two hundred square miles in her immediate vicinity that she can utilize to her own great advantage, and so that it will inure to her benefit always. After a city ceases to increase by immigration, her march forward depends mainly upon manufacturing and wholesale or jobbing houses. In this respect, the first institutions count heavily, because every one successfully under headway, helps to ward the establishment and well being of another.

There is no denying the fact that factories and small farms, well-tilled are good to accompany each other, and right here we have as good land as the sun shines on for the purpose of raising vegetables, small fruits, etc.

Give us a good canning factory, well provided and rightly conducted and it will add immensely to the business interests of this city.

In the first place, more men, women and children will find employment, and much spend the money they earn, at home, with our merchants, mechanics and dealers, and spend the most of it every week.

The following, from the Nebraska Farmer, shows some of the advantages to be derived:

A canning factory is a more important adjunct in connection with truck farming than can be seen at first glance. In any town where the business is conducted to any extent, it becomes a paying investment in a few short months. A good deal of the produce of the summer which would otherwise be lost, can be preserved in such a manner, and it is safe to say that the bulk of the earnings of this 100 go right into the hands, or business, of the twenty merchants who invested in the project, and even if they lost the principal, the increased income, business and population resulting from the erection of the cannery would be largely beneficial to all concerned.

It should be added that the new man casting about for a new location to establish in the business cannot regard this factory as a promising and encouraging auxiliary, since he is assured about first cost for that portion of his products that he may not pay for at all.

Now more might in justice be said in favor of the project.

Tomatoes, corn and peas are the staple crops of the vegetable line, and strawberries, peaches, plums, etc., in the fruit line.

Next in importance would be a box factory, which could be secured at a similar cost and most of what has been said in favor of the canning establishment will apply here.

From the Independent.

Mrs. W. A. McAllister accompanied her husband to Humphrey Wednesday, and was the guest of Mrs. O. T. Fenner.

Mrs. John Early and Mrs. Davis, of Columbus, passed through Humphrey, Saturday, on their way to Newman Grove.

Dr. Webster of St. Edward, will arrive the first of the week with his family and locate with us for the practice of medicine.

Martha Hanchett will commence teaching in district No. 35 in the new school-house which has just been built in place of the one burned by lightning in June last.

Mr. Christensen is repairing our roads, which have been needing mending for a long time.

J. F. Abrahamson is building a house for Mr. J. W. Wilson of Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. Henry Gulies has a brother visiting him, whom he had not seen for 20 years. His home is in Missouri. He brought a car load of apples with which he will supply the needs of the people.

Mr. Robert Irwin, a brother of "Uncle Billy," is visiting him for 30 days—from Illinois.

Father Berlin was very ill last week from dropsy; is a little more comfortable now.

Mr. Harrison Oury of Omaha, brother of Rev. T. A., visited him last Tuesday. He had just returned from Virginia, where he had been to attend his father in his last illness. He remained until after the funeral.

A valuable farm horse, owned by M. C. Hanchett, who is in Wisconsin, died Tuesday, of colic.

Our John thinks people in America build the most queer crops as lightest, as new houses, barns, corn cribs, granaries and fences are being built all up and down the Lookingglass and amongst others Mr. Peter Walsen is fencing 160 acres, Mr. Bolt 80, and J. M. Anderson the same; Mr. Hedlund is building a barn, 20x25, with sheds on each side, and W. F. Hanchett is building one the same size with one shed; Mr. Stevens has moved his house onto his new farm.

An uncle of John Wistrom, who has just arrived from Sweden, is very sick of typhoid fever at the hotel in St. Edward, and John has gone to attend him.

Newville.

Jack Frost has put in appearance and is calling on us nearly every morning; this and the falling leaves remind us that summer is not eternal in this latitude. Mittens, gloves and overcoats are in demand, and the felt-lined and wool-lined shoes of your townsmen Messrs. Siegenthaler & Co., will find ready sale.

Threshing is mostly all done in this vicinity; large straw-stacks and poorly-filled granaries is the result of this year's small grain crop. Corn, although a little damaged by the early frost, will be a large yield. As there are a great many hogs and pigs fed in this vicinity very little of it will be marketed.

The Loske Creek literary society held their first meeting at the Brugger school house last Saturday evening; it was quite largely attended. L. H. Leavy was elected president, Miss Mary Ericson, secretary. The society will meet every Saturday alternately at the Brugger and Loske school-houses.

Theophile Brugger came up from Lincoln last Saturday to see his father who has returned from his three months' visit to Germany and Switzerland.

Mr. Kaspar Jenni, who was very ill lately, is around again.

W. J. Westbrook is building a large cattle barn for John Wias, Esq.

Messrs. Herman and Gerhard Loske are also each building large barns.

Mr. Henry Kersh, who will remove his family to Humphrey soon, will have an auction sale of horses, cattle and hogs Oct. 31.

The above letter should have appeared in last week's JOURNAL, but got sidetracked somewhere.—[Ed. JOURNAL.

District 44 and Vicinity.

Miss Anna Hamer of the Senior room, high school, went into the country Friday evening and spent the Sabbath with her schoolmate Eliza Drinnin.

At the late union caucus held in Columbus twp. and immediately after the announcement of the result of the first ballot, Mr. Griffin took occasion to score the late supervisor for his management of the town funds in a spirited speech which made the chair tremble and the new hall ring.

Mechanics in the city should not complain. They are having a splendid opportunity to provide for the coming winter. Much work in the country is going undone because carpenters cannot be had, while in the city can be seen daily, loads of potatoes, some being nearly a foot long, offering for 50 to 75c a bushel, and winter apples to be had at 75c. Really this is no off year for the mechanic.

Doc. Tanner, the tom turkey that was buried last winter for 30 days in a drift of snow, now hobbles around on his club feet (having lost his toes); he is as fat as an eel and only awaits the announcement of the president's annual proclamation.

Shell Creek Items.

Mr. David Thomas has returned from Wales. Had a pleasant time. Crossed the little pond between America and Europe in 6 1/2 days.

Mr. Lorenz Ensmenger is building a new house in the city can be seen daily, loads of potatoes, some being nearly a foot long, offering for 50 to 75c a bushel, and winter apples to be had at 75c. Really this is no off year for the mechanic.

Some are husking corn, but will be sorry for it as it is not fit to crib, splendid for immediate feeding.

A Henrich is threshing, the neighbors are helping to work and haul off grain.

The corn crop is very good and corn will bring a good price. Men for husking in great demand. Hay is plenty and stock sales give good chances for obtaining good stock.

Small grain does not turn out well excepting barley, which is of good yield, quality and price.

Potatoes are also rather scarce but enough for home consumption.
