Rickly Bros' meat wagon, behind a pair of horses, took a run Friday out to Martin Beagan's. The wagon was loaded with beef, but there was not any of it thrown out, or any injury done to the wagon—a pretty good record for a runaway.

Bring your job work to the JOURNAL office. We are thoroughly equipped to furnish cards, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, circulars, sale bills, bill heads, briefs, pamphlets—in short, everything in this line of work, on short notice, at reasonable prices. Give us a call. 28-17

Will Schroeder's two-story business house on 12th st., is enclosed, and work proceeding rapidly; Will will have, for the money that it costs him, one of the best houses in town—a good, strong frame, with corrugated iron for sides and rear end, and pressed-brick veneer for front.

Now is the time (any day) to subscribe for the JOURNAL, a local weekly paper and the Nebraska Family Journal, a state weekly paper, containing every week thirty-two columns of choice reading matter, both for $2 a year, when paid in advance. We are receiving numbers of new subscribers—still there is room for more.

The Nebraska Family Journal, published by M. K. Turner & Co., is a thirty-two column paper, filled with news and miscellaneous reading matter. The price is $1.00 a year. It is furnished free to every subscriber of the COLUMBUS JOURNAL who pays all arrears and one year in advance—both papers thus, for $2. Subscription may begin any time.

Saturday Night, Nov. 17th, in Fitzpatrick's Hall, an illuminated lecture is announced. The subject matter is New York City and its surroundings, while the price of admission is 10 and 15 cents, bringing it within the reach of the youngest. A trip to that great metropolis is not possible for all while a general panorama of it can be had for such a trifling sum. We predict a crowded house.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company has a very commendable way of keeping and promoting its good men—a principle that works well wherever it is applied. Among the later instances is that of Louis Herold, who for several years has had a position in the freight department here, he has been promoted to Denver, where he will be chief accountant for the company. Sorry to see you go, Louis.

The case of James O'Donnell of this city against the Omaha, Niobrara & Black Hills R. R. Co., for damages incurred Feb. 29, 1885, in which O'Donnell was lamed for life and his team killed, was finally disposed of in the supreme court last week. At the first jury trial, the verdict was $5,500 for O'Donnell, the second $5,000. The case has been twice to the supreme court, and we learn that his is the end of it.

Some Adopted Americans' is the title of an article in the November number of the American Magazine. This article was prepared by the editor of the Journalist, Mr. Allen Forman, who has made a careful study of the lower-class immigrants and tenement-house dwellers of New York city. Mr. Forman has not been a mere casual observer, but has lived in these densely-populated tenements, and is, therefore, competent to give strong and graphic pictures of the mode of life of these poor people without any aid from his imagination.

Now that the election is over the Nebraska press gang can give more time and attention to little items showing the beauties of coming west and growing up with the country. The following from the Humphrey Independent is a very good one, for this fall: "While distributing packages of tickets the first of the week, we stopped at the farm of R. E. Jones of St. Bernard, and was pleased to see the work of a successful farmer. Mr. Jones, when he came to Platte county, worked out by the month. He now has 190 acres of land; has 2,000 bushels of corn in the crib, husked by himself and wife, not being able to find help, and is about half done. He has money out at interest, and will, this year sell thirteen hundred dollars worth of hogs. Everything about his place speaks of thrift, economy and a progressive farmer."

Murdoch & Son have completed the Rusche dwelling-house, and have made an excellent job of it. We understand that Henry will move this week.

We are told that there is a democrat of this city who boasts of having "rotted" a man who had no right to cast a ballot in this city; also that there are numbers of democrats who are so opposed to this man's way of "running" things that they have declared they will hereafter vote against every man he strives to elect. We think that Chairman Quay of the national republican committee made the master stroke of the campaign when he offered $25,000 reward for conviction of the various crimes against the election laws in the city of New York, and republicans everywhere will do the proper thing if they will let it be understood and known that every case will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. It is not a partisan matter; it concerns every good citizen, whatever his party predilections may be—his honest vote may at any time, be nullified by one of these chaps, and his right of ballot go for naught. Every voter owes it to his own sense of right to discountenance and help to punish according to law any scoundrel of either political party who commits or attempts to commit a fraud upon the election.—The crime referred to in the first of this paragraph, if committed, is punishable by a fine of $50 to $500 and imprisonment in the county jail not more than six months.

But a short time ago the little son of M. E. Ciother, was taken ill, it wasn't considered very bad at first, but it grew worse from day to day; Dr. O'Key and also Dr. Martyn of Columbus were called, and everything was done that was possible to cure the little fellow, but all of no avail. He grew worse with the start, and lingered until Sunday evening when he breathed his last. It was a sad blow to the bereaved parents, but they were not alone in their sorrow, the whole community joined them. The remains were interred Tuesday.—[Platte Center News.]

BIRTHS. HOAG—November 10th, to Mrs. L. M. Hoag, a daughter.

DEED. BURBURY—Nov. 10th, Rachel Burrows, wife of James Burrows.

The deceased was highly respected and much beloved by all who knew her. She had resided in Platte county eighteen years.

LUCER—November 10th, after a few days' illness, at his residence on Shell Creek, Henry Lucer, aged 65 years, 3 months and 7 days.

The remains were interred at the cemetery near the Lutheran church, Nov. 9th, Rev. Chris. Moesmer preaching the funeral sermon.

Mr. Lucer was born at Suez, Oldenburg, Germany, the nature of the land was very rich, and he came to Nebraska in 1854, and was one of the first settlers of Platte county. How highly the deceased was respected by all who knew him was shown by the large number of friends who followed his remains to their final resting place; the funeral train was probably the largest ever witnessed in this vicinity. The deceased was of good circumstances owing one of the largest

To rejoice over success is one of the privileges of the human family that it seldom foregoes, and republicans have been no exception during the past week.

Monday afternoon the republican ladies of the city, with the party emblem, the red, white and blue, abundantly displayed on hat and carriage and wheels and harness and horses, formed a very nice procession driving through the principal streets of the city. It was a unique, brilliant, splendid display.

In the evening, at dusk, the arville began to roar, the bonfires to blaze and the procession to gather, the air resounding with music from the two brass bands, the drum corps band and with all other kinds of noises that could be thought of, old men in the procession adding in the clamor by blowing loud, tin horns, and in all pleasant, harmless ways becoming boys again, in their gladness.

The first line of march was in conducting Dr. Stillman (a democrat) at the tail end of a toy wheeler, wheeling a pound of cheese to E. D. Fitzpatrick's house, in answer to a wager. The Doctor's political friends along Nebraska Ave. had all illuminated their dwellings to facilitate the Doctor's journey. The procession, with their music and noise, their lights and their transparencies, meandered through the principal streets, bringing up at Fitzpatrick's Hall, where the speaking was done. Among the de-votees on the transparencies were: Good-by, free trade. Good-by, Mills bill. Cleveland carried Platte county, Utah, Texas and England. The people vetoed Grover. Soldiers' widows and orphans will now have a friend in the White House. Turn the rascals out and count the money. McShane's boodle campaign busted. North and South Dakota will now come in. Henaley and Grover can now go fishing to Canada. How much for the bony pony? "Dan", there is a terrible surplus of republican votes."

[Grover. No more use for confederate brigadiers. 239. Morton—the friend of the poor man. Private Tip—"New York will go 40,000 for Cleveland."—[Brice.] Honest John M. Thayer got there. Our laborers eat meat. The Harrison means protection. Victory! Democracy, victory! Democracy and England are busted. Democracy and Mills bill scraped out. Ask McTaggart what time it is. When Johnny (Higgins) comes marching home again! Gueck and Grover, they couldn't lose, no, no, no. Baker let his grip by taking advice from private tip. Hurrah for the Irish republicans.

At the hall, which was crowded to overflowing, several gentlemen were called upon by the chairman, G. W. Barnhart, for short speeches, and responded briefly, each heartily congratulating the party upon the grand success of the campaign and contributing a sentiment or an incident to the interest of the occasion: L. Gerrard said that a day or so after election he met J. E. North who said "this suspense is terrible"; Gerrard said it might be to democrats, but republicans took it very easy. Col. M. Whitmoyer said he had studied over the matter a good deal, but could not see how it is that the people would vote for the democratic party which had tried to destroy the nation. C. J. Gardner told how his little state had gone republican the first time since its birth; West Virginia, rocked in the cradle of democracy, nourished by the confederacy, had broken the chain which bound it to the solid south. J. M. McFarland followed in the same strain. Carl Kramer made some jocular allusions to the democratic campaign in this county and E. D. Fitzpatrick declared he had always voted for the president elect.

Altogether the jubilation was one long to be remembered.

Miss Metz's Concert. The entertainment given by E. Metz was well attended and did the young lady great credit. We hope she will give us another such treat in the near future. The programme was commenced by a piano duet by Misses E. Metz and S. Fitzpatrick. The piece was an imitation of sleigh bells and showed that the young ladies had good training as well as natural talent. The Arion Quartette sang two selections, the last one cut short by the disturbance of some small boys. Just as the gentlemen made their appearance one of the small boys gave a long low whistle of astonishment; we cannot say what were the boys thoughts, but they so disgraced the faces of the singers that several attempts at singing the audience were convulsed with laughter. We give the quartette credit for singing the verse through before leaving the stage, though a trio played by three girls was something new and was very well received. Grace Geo recited a selection from Lord Macaulay; Miss Geo is naturally graceful on the stage and always pleases her hearers. The song of Bert Coolidge, joined by the chorus of girls and boys, was a pretty sight. The Mannerchor sang well, as they always do. The little "fisher maidens" sang very nice together. Misses Geo and North recited a medley, their voices blending admirably. Mazerk (Anartelle) by Will Spioce and Elsie Morse at one piano and Mary Bremer and Nettie Anderson at another, was the first of the kind we have had here and was very well received.

Congregational S. S. Convention. The S. S. convention of the Columbus Association of Congregational churches will meet in this city, Nov. 20th and 21st. The programme, as prepared and printed, is very interesting, and promises to be more than usually instructive. Among the topics are: A model programme; How to keep the young men; S. S. conventions; Pastor's and parent's relations to S. S. Primary teaching; Training teachers; Preparation essential to successful teaching; Individual faithfulness; Results and how to secure them; Benevolence. We notice that Mrs. D. D. Pickett, Mrs. O. V. Rice, Mrs. C. G. Hickok and Mrs. A. C. Ballou of this city have prominent places on the programme.
