FOUND DEAD. John Knapp Meets Death in the Dark by the Kicks of a Horse. From Coroner Heintz we learn the following particulars concerning John Knapp, who recently died about twelve miles north of this city, in Sherman township.

Saturday last he spoke to his wife about coming to Columbus, and she told him he had better not, it was so late. He insisted, however, and, hitching up his pony, took his wife and children to her father's, Joseph Kopetsky's, the understanding being that he was to call for them on his way home.

Not coming during the night, she became anxious about him, and Sunday morning, Mr. Kopetsky went to the premises, found the buggy in its usual place, went to the stable, and found that Knapp had put his pony away; looking around, he found something was wrong behind the horse, the pig being gathered around it. He drove them off, and there lay John Knapp's body, with the eyes, nose and mouth out and on the ears out, off, presenting a sickening sight.

It seems evident from the circling mark of a horse's hoof on the forehead and from the position in which the body lay, that Knapp had been kicked by the two year old colt tied along side of the pony he had driven from town, and although the bone was not fractured, death had resulted.

He was seen in the city after four p. m. Deceased was about 40 years old, and leaves a widow and three children. The coroner's jury, Peter Zarnum, Julius Heintz, E. and S. Gmushick, A. O. and Matt. Rumburn, rendered a verdict in accord with the facts as above stated.

Noticeable fact on the farms in this vicinity is the attention given to fruit the last few years. Between here and Genoa several new orchards of large extent have been set out, and the trees are doing well.

Notwithstanding the large shipments of corn this fall the country is yet full of it, and a "reduction of rates" would be worth thousands to our people.

There is but little faith in our hearts in the pretentious utterances of those high in authority in regard to regulating freights. It is an old and seely gag and stands in the same category with death-bed repentance.
