GEN. GARFIELD'S BODY.

SOME NEW AND REMARKABLE STATE-MENTS ABOUT IT.

To Avoid Desecration It Is faid to Have

Lain for Years in Obscurtiy-Soon to be Re-Entombed-Other News. The Garfield monument at Cleveland O., is completed and preparations are now making for the dedication, which is to take place early in the spring. At that time the remains of President Garfield will be placed in the permanent sepulchre beneath the monument. In view of the approaching transfer of these remains from Lake View cemetery it is now possible to relate an astounding Statement of Condition at the Close of story respecting the disposition which has been made of the late president's body for the last four years. When Garfield's remains were deposited in an elab-......... $ 195,811 75 erate vault in Lake View cemetery it was announced that they would be kept there until the time came to make permanent disposition of them. After the funeral the heavy casket was placed in the $ 267,628 07 sarcophagus within the vault, which could be viewed from the path outside through a massive iron grating. The suspicion which the robbery of the grave of Mr. Stewart had occasioned respecting the existence of an organized band of grave robbers induced the government to take special measares to prevent any such violation of this tomb. By direction of secretary Lincoln a special guard of United States troops was stationed at the tomb with instruc-

> the eyes of soldiers, night and day. About a year after Secretary Endicott succeeded Lincoln as secretary of war, he decided that it was unnecessary longer to maintain the guard there. He therefore caused orders to be issued returning the soldiers to their regimental headquarters. This caused the personal friends of the Garfield family in Cleveland serious apprehension, for to certain Chicago ghouls. The revelation of an attempt to steal the body of Abraham Liucoln in Springfield added to the anxiety of these friends, and after considerable consultation they decided they would do themselves what the government had declined longer to undertake. Four prominent citizens selected an obscure vault in a remote portion of the cemetery grounds and one night proceeded there and themselves removed the casket to its biding place. The task was a severe one and one of thelgentlemen'strained himself so badly that he has never since fully recovered The work of removal and obliterating all traces of what they had done, both at the old and new vaults, occupied the whole night. From that time until this the remains have lain in this remote nook of the cemetery, a tomb utterly neglected and never glanced at by the casual observer who happens to pass by. On the other hand, Mrs. Blaine a Terrible Sufferer. After a consultation of physicians it has been decided that the terrible operation of breaking the bones of one leg to prevent Mrs. James G. Blaine, jr., from being a cripple for life, as the result of inflammatery rheumatism, will not be necessary, and there is thus a hope that she may regain health and strength, but it will not be for a long time and not without great further suffering. For months this fear that the operation referred to would be necessary has been the darkest shadow in

Authority and as an Example-A Story That Makes the Blood Boil-Other News of Good and Ill. Sergius Stepniak, the well-known writer

upon Russian political and social condiions, when asked whether he could give any information in regard to the political outrage at Kara, in eastern Siberia, replied that the reports already published gave only a hint of the horrible tragedy enacted at Kara. Perfectly trustworthy information, he said, had been received in cipher letters that tell the story only in its main outlines. The full details of the dreadful story cannot be long now in reaching the western world. The facts so far received are as fol lows: Madame Sagida did not com mit suicide, as the earliest reports the cruel flogging to which she was subjected. The flogging took place Wednesday, Nov. 6. It was continued till ander the brutal blows the unhappy victim lost consciousness. of penal servitude. Shortly after the suicide of the three one of the most interesting residents of women a brother of Marie Kuluzhuaya, Kennett, and her home, in the quaint Swiss also a political prisoner, died suddeniy. Another exile named Kakokor committed suicide rather than submit to the cruel humiliation and suffering of flogging.

The flogging of Madame Sagida occurred under orders issued by Lieut.-Gen. Banon Korff, governor general of the province of Amour, in which Kara prison is situated. These orders directed that the secret edict of March, 1888, signed by Galkinevraski, director-general of prisons for the empire, should be unflinchingly enforced This edict was to the effect that political convicts should be treated by prison officials in precisely the same manner as criminals condemned for common law offenses. In what particular way Madame Sagida transgressed the prison rules is not clearly explained, but flogging a sensitive and cultured woman to death for any lack of conformity to prison regulations, Stepniak thought, would impress the western world with a profound horror. The political prisoners at Kara, Stepnial said, had in some way learned that political exiles imprisoned at Seghalied had also been subjected to cruel floggings. They were constantly in dread of similar torture to that inflicted upon Madame Sagida. Stepniak thought it not unlikely that the publication of the facts would force the superior officials of Russia to take some notice of the affair, but flogging and all other brutalities were entirely due to the direct orders of the central government at St. Petersburg.

La Grippe Getting in Its Work on the Aborigines. Appalling reports have been received of the mortality among the Indians in the country east and south of Oklahoma from influenza, or la grippe. Indian Agent Kane, from the Shawnee nation, estimates that nearly a hundred of that tribe have died within a week from the disease, about two-thirds of them being children. The Kickapoos, Creeks, Iowas, Pottawatomies and Arapahoes are all afflicted and their condition is said to be pitiable. The stricken tribes seem to have lost heart. When la grippe first appeared among them the medicine men administered their water and herb cures, but they seem only to have aggravated the disease. Across the end of the building over the entrance was fixed a balcony capable of holding sixty or seventy people. While the pastor was reading the lessons the gallery with scarcely any warning suddenly collapsed, precipitating its occupants into the body of the church. A cloud of dust obscured the view of the remainder of the congregation for a few minates, but when it cleared away it became obvious that a number of persons were buried beneath the ruins of the gallery. The fallen debris caused an obstruction at the entrance and prevented any assistance being rendered from the outside, but willing hands were soon at work clearing away the falling timbers and extricating the unfortupate occupants of the fallen gallery from their perilous position. The gallery was stated. She died from the effects of pretty well filled at the time and about twenty persons were burned.
