SEARGEANT DENN'S WARNING.

Lower Mississippi Must Prepare for a Fearful Flood.

Sergeant Denn, of the signal service, in an address at the afternoon says that one of the greatest calamities the country has ever known is imminent and that it is the duty of the press to warn the people of lower Mississippi to prepare for the worst.

The damage will be greater below Memphis. The height of the river at Vicksburg and Cairo has remained almost stationary at the top of the flood limit. When the water crest from this new storm comes down the river things are bound to be carried away and the surrounding country covered.

This will probably arrive at Cairo in two or three days, but it may be three weeks before it reaches Orleans.

Sergeant Denn cannot speak with any authority except upon New York weather.

EDDIE AT THE HELM.

Young Edwin Gould in Control of Affairs in the Old Man's Absence.

Wall street is interested in a report that Mr. Jay Gould is to return to his yacht to commission early this spring and go sailing on the coast.

Several members of his family will accompany him, while his two older sons, George and Edwin, will remain at home to look out for the family's millioaire.

Mr. Gould's business which Mr. Gould feels the business capacity and judgment of his sons is shown by the fact that during his present extended trip through the southwest and Mexico, his 22-year-old son Edwin has been in full charge of the family's business.

This means more than the transaction of mere routine business. Such important interests were probably never before committed so fully to one of Edwin Gould's years.

He reached the shore in a exhausted condition. Kinney and McGinnis were too drunk to swim and were as helpless as the little boy. All of the bodies were recovered. Neither of the men were married.

A VERY LIVELY CORPSE.

Mike McManus, who has been reported to have been killed by wolves in the pines south of Lake of the Woods, has turned up in Duluth alive and well. He was exploring in the woods during the winter and was captured by a pack of wolves.

He was captured by a pack of wolves and was taken to a cabin at Portage. Instead of the trapped 200 mile overland to Winnipeg and went direct to Marquette, coming back to Duluth. It is only by the skin of his teeth that he escaped.

AN AWFUL CALAMITY.

THE STORM AT LOUISVILLE, KY., A DEMASTROUS CYCLONE.

It leveled everything in its track. Killing Hundreds and Destroying Thousands - An Unprecedented Fatality in the Cyclone History of the Country - A Few Details.

The tornado which struck Louisville, Ky., entered the southeast portion of the city, between the street and a path of five blocks diagonally, reaching in a ragged line to Seventh street and leveling every building in its path - probably 2,500 houses at a rough estimate. The number killed is placed at 500, with thousands injured.

One Hundred Bodies have been recovered. The buildings on Main street from Eighth to Fourteenth streets are in ruins, not one of the hundreds of houses being left, and all the tobacco warehouses were swept away on Market street.

It is believed that the cyclone struck Louisville, Ky., at 8 o'clock. It was very distinctly heard two miles in the country, where the people wondered what it meant. Fortunately there was not a person killed in Jeffersonville, although some were badly hurt.

Scores of business houses and residences were more or less damaged, some stores being nearly demolished. Dozens of people had marvellous escapes from instant death.

According to the latest reports this event is the most awful of those which have occurred in the history of the city. The damage to steamers on the river front was considerable. It is believed to-night that the loss and damage to property in Jeffersonville will aggregate fully $500,000.

THE STORM ELSEWHERE.

A Town in Illinois Struck by a Water-Spout.

Metropolis, Ill., was visited by a fearful storm, resulting in the wounding and death of a portion of its citizens and such wholesale destruction of property as was never known before. Suddenly there came from the south west a rolling mass of white clouds, which met in mid air and in a moment swooped down into the Ohio river and on lifting were followed by a column of water extending all the way from 30 to 200 feet in height.

Every other house on Market, Jefferson and Walnut streets from Eleventh to Fifteenth street, is in ruins. Parkland, a suburb, is swept away. At the Union depot at the foot of Seventh street a Chesapeake and Ohio train for Washington was just starting out with its passengers. The building was prostrated, crushing in on the train. All the passengers were rescued.

Every building, tree and telegraph pole in the district struck was leveled. The district had low was an area three miles long and nearly a half mile wide.

The streets are thronged with multitudes of sorrowing people. They stand upon the corners with tear dimmed eyes, solemnly discussing the dreadful catastrophe or more from one point of the wrecked district to another, gazing at the scenes of ruin. There are at least 100 families homeless in the streets that were happy yesterday in the possession of their homes. One poor woman, between her half-stuffed shoes and her very soiled dress, had a husband had paid to a building association the last dollar he owned upon their house, and now all that remains is a confused mass of brick and mortar. There are many other cases of this kind.

The houses and barns of many farmers are gone. A quarter of a million is perhaps not an exaggerated estimate of the loss.

Water-spout Desolation. A conductor of Louisville & Nashville train says the whole country from Louisville to Cincinnati for many miles is a mass of wrecked trees, houses and other debris.

At LaGrange great damage was done to property. At Eminence many houses were wrecked and many lives were lost. The train report the storm an awful one. The lightning was almost incessant and by its light could be seen living timbers and wrecked houses. Men, women and children were running here and there at Eminence, panic-stricken. Port Royal, Henry county, is reported demolished, and serious damage was done at Paducah, thirty-five miles from Louisville.

On Lake Michigan. At Chicago during the terrible storm the intermediate crib of the new water tunnel, three miles out in the lake, was partly wrecked by wind and waves. The men to the number of twenty-five working there were sheltered on the roof of the house, where they remained for several hours, the waves dashing over and freezing on them, and in momentary expectation of being carried away. Fortunately a tug went out early in the forenoon with provisions and discovered their plight. The tug was sent to the crib, but returned to the city, got the life-saving crew and boat and went back. After a couple hours hard work all the men were taken off and brought to the city. Some of them were nearly frozen, but it is thought all are now out of danger.

In Indiana. A Princeton, Ind., special says: The tornado swept over the country east and west of this city, doing an immense amount of damage to farms, houses, and valuable timber. It is estimated that at least fifty buildings in this county have been wrecked, together with a large amount of valuable property. The loss of human life was great. No person is reported killed, though several received severe bruises.

Jeff White left his wife and baby in his house near the river above Evansville while he went to town for provisions. He could not get back on account of the storm. Next morning he returned and found his house swept into the river and his wife and child drowned. He is now confined in jail a raving maniac.

Canadian Vessels Wrecked. The storm which created such havoc in the United States reached Ontario. High gales prevailed and snow and hail fell. There are bad drifts everywhere and travel is much obstructed. Several schooners are reported considerably damaged by the storm and there are one or two total wrecks.

In Tennessee. The storm did considerable damage to rail buildings in Nashville. At Fayetteville the principal stores were wrecked; a negro woman killed and several people injured. Many of the poorer classes are homeless. At Trezzant an child was killed, several persons severely injured and many houses wrecked. Other towns in the state report some damage, but nothing serious.

White Cross Nurses for Louisville. Clara Barton, president of the White Cross association, called on President Harrison and informed him that she was going to Louisville with a large corps of assistants to render all the aid possible. The president is much affected by the tidings from the storm-stricken districts and wished her good speed.

Was It Von Romanyer? Suicide of the Man That Died in California.

The unknown man who committed suicide near San Jose, Cal., was doubtless Ludwig Von Romanyer, the Austrian adventurer, who created such a stir a few months ago by advertising to procure California brides for German and Austrian nobles whose titles could be vouched for. Recently an Austrian girl, who lived as a servant on Romanyer's ranch near San Jose, brought suit against him for ruinous debts. This worried Romanyer greatly, as he was engaged to a young woman of good family in San Jose. He became depressed, and his friends feared that he contemplated suicide. He disappeared from his home last week.
