Rev. Hunt arrived in the city last week, and has entered upon his work as pastor of the Congregational society here.

Miss Minnie Con will teach a private school in one of the rooms of the third ward school building during vacation.

The Journal is on sale, each week, at the book and news stores of E. D. Fitzpatrick and J. Heitkemper at 5 cents a copy.

Schaffroth & Plath have the best of harvesting machinery and can furnish any kind of farm implements, at reasonable rates.

George Heitkemper has resigned his position as manager of the city circulation of the Telegram. Lloyd Sisson is his successor.

The sky was overcast Saturday morning as though it would rain, but the rain came not. It is certainly, thus far, a dry season.

The Globe clothing advertisement. Read it over, then when you want a better, finer suit of Sunday best, go and see them.

Frank Howard left this morning for Columbus, where he will doubtless arrange for the production of the "Spy of Shiloh."—Norfolk News.

The infant child of Mrs. John Heitkemper, ten months old, died Tuesday night and was buried from the Franciscan church Thursday morning.

A big blow Monday evening from the west brought a few drops of rain only, and it looks as though we are to have a dry season, sure enough.

The subject of Rev. Worley's sermon next Sabbath morning will be—The True Idealism; in the evening, The Worth of the Soul. All invited.

A pig was born near Monroe a few days ago, that had for its fore legs and feet perfect, human arms and hands, with fingers looking like a little baby's.

Miller Bros. are now permanently located in the Gluck building on Eleventh street, and have complete line of dry goods to display to their customers. For Harrison wagons and Courtland spring wagons and buggies, call on J. A. Gutzmer, opposite Dowdy's drug store. He is sure to satisfy you in prices and quality.

The oldest son of Fred Wolfe of Burravon township (aged about nineteen) was killed by a horse Friday evening last about 8 o'clock, and died within five minutes. The horse was named "Old Red" and was owned by J. L. Strangman.

A Dussel lost a horse recently—his team breaking loose and running through a barbed-wire fence and into a pond of water, the best horse died of the effects, and the other was badly cut.

P. W. Heurich is refitting the house lately bought by him on Fourteenth-st., putting in city water and otherwise improving. He will have a nice residence property of it when he gets through.

No farm machinery says a better percent on the investment than a good wind mill, and your home factory the Gilt Edge can furnish just what you want. At least, see them before buying.

W. B. Dale has five varieties of sugar-beet seed for distribution. Call on him soon, and get some. See what your soil is capable of doing for the industry that promises to do so much for our great state.

In the oil regions they now take the photograph of the bottom of an oil well—a recent illustration was of a well 1,700 feet down and after a torpedo explosion. It showed a cavity fourteen feet broad and seven feet deep.

Don't forget that Schaffroth & Plath can bore your pumps, wells, oil wells, put in the town and all kinds of machinery, also connect your dwelling in the first with the waterworks and do you a first class job.

The Norfolk News entered last Wednesday upon its fourth year as a daily paper. It has been a credit to the city in every way, and has continued to exist by being just as enterprising as its patronage would justify.

The ball given by the Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias last Thursday at the opera house, was enjoyed very much by all present. The Knights of Columbus are noted for their society balls, among the young folks here.

Samuel Weddell goes this week with his family to act as foreman for John Wisner's large ranch of four and a half sections near Clarkson, Colfax county. We believe that Weddell will be just the man for the place.

The Land and Investment company have purchased the forty acres of land belonging to Gerard & Whitmore for $7,000 and it will be immediately put on the market. It is very desirable for residence lots, and will no doubt go "like hot cakes."

Ulysses has another newspaper, the Argus. What they want with it, does not specially appear, unless it be to use as a "lever," so to speak, with which to starve the Dispatch, the plumb to death. But he can live on wind and buttermilk.

If you are about to purchase corn planters or other machinery, they may make a mistake if you do not call on the Heurich Bros. & Co. for their purpose. They deal in all kinds of machinery and have the best of it.

Superintendent Backus of the government school at Genoa was in town Thursday on his way north for two run-away Indians. The inclination to play "hokey" is not confined to the noble white boy, but is shared by the dusky tribes of the plains, as well.

L. E. Sowers has the contract for an addition to O. D. Butler's dwelling on Nebraska avenue, August Boettcher's dwelling house, on which he has been at work, was ready yesterday for the plastering. Mr. Sowers is at work on plans of a residence for J. G. Reeler, Esq.

The Tekamah High school will hoist the stars and stripes as soon as their flag staffs are finished. The sight of "old glory" is a reminder to the children of the patriotism of all former years, and thus the spirit of love of country is fostered, cherished and strengthened.

Huntmann Bros., the well-known carpenters, have rented the old packing house, which will be fixed up for their use as a planing mill, which they will begin to operate June 1st. These gentlemen are first class workmen and excellent business men, and all having dealings with them, will be pleased with their work, their charges and the treatment they will receive at their hands.

W. B. Albro is a believer in thoroughbred stock, and has lately invested in a full-blooded Jersey to reign over his herd. A three-quarter Jersey cow, formerly owned by Mr. Albro, now twenty-three pounds of milk one morning last week. The Jersey is, of course, a well-known breed valuable for milk and butter, and those who raise cattle for dairy purposes can find none better.

The Columbus Land and Investment Co. organized last week, with the following officers: President, Leander Gerrard; vice president, James Welch; secretary, Geo. P. Moore; treasurer, J. E. Roen; directors, Leander Gerrard, O. T. Roen, J. E. North, James Welch, J. R. Mosgher, Geo. P. Moore and G. W. Pearsall. This is a good solid organization for business, and Columbus will reap large benefits from the enterprise in which they are embarking.

The following new cases have been entered on the docket of the district court since our report a week ago: Edward J. Spencer v. Cora A. Spencer, petition for divorce; G. H. Brookhaus v. Jenovita Kleva and Joseph Kleva, petition prays judgment for $350 on promissory note; First National bank of Omaha v. Reinhold Brandt and Charles Brandt partners under the firm name of R. Brandt & Co., petition prays judgment for $323.55 on promissory note; in the matter of the estate of Evan Davis, deceased, sale of real estate.

The marriage of John F. Dineen and Miss Ella Quinn at the Franciscan church in this city last Wednesday morning was witnessed by one of the largest assemblages of the church ever held. The bride looked lovely in a cream sash suit. The socially society of over forty members attended the ceremony in a body, the bride being a member. After the services the guests accompanied the couple to the home of the bride's parents northeast of the city, where a hall had been erected for guests who cared to indulge in dancing.

President John S. Freeman presided at the Farmers' Union Saturday. A petition to the state board of transportation, prepared by a joint committee of the Board of Trade and the Farmers' Union and consisting of Messrs. Freeman, Wells, Swartzley, North, Barnum, Schupbach and Segele, was submitted and adopted and immediate action urged thereon. It calls for a reduction to a reasonable sum of the rate for shipping cattle from this station to South Omaha, it now being $29 a car. The Union adjourned to the first Saturday in September.

A good many people have the mistaken notion that about all of an assessor's duty is to write down the value of property as given him by the owner of the same. It is the owner's duty to list the property, but it is the special prerogative of the assessor to affix the value for tax purposes. Then you can look at the values afterwards, and if not just, as compared with those of your neighbors, you can make that showing before the board of equalization. Don't make the mistake of thinking the assessor does nothing but write the values as given by the owner.

A practical-minded Lincoln man has this in regard to a scheme that has been many times spoken of, but never seriously considered, as yet: "A canal can be dug from Columbus to Lincoln giving a fall of thirty-eight feet. The water can be used first for turning the wheels of factories. After that it will do to supply the city for domestic purposes, and what is left will form a fine lake. The whole thing can be done for $150,000, and it will be the biggest thing in Lincoln." We may add to that that water from the Loup will be a great improvement upon any in the region of Salt Creek. The short of it is, when you want anything good, come to Columbus or Platt county, after it.

It seems that the canning business is doing pretty well in the west, at least in Nebraska, when properly conducted. At Blair, at a public meeting $10,000 was subscribed, and the factory built in ninety days thereafter. This year, says the Pilot, over 1,000,000 cans (seventy-two car loads of canned goods, were packed by the Blair canning factory. This is a very good showing for a town not so large as Columbus, with citizens not nearly so wealthy as the Columbus aggregation, and it shows what can be done by concerted action. For the permanent upbuilding of a town there is nothing like factories which work up raw material raised in the neighborhood and by the sale of manufactured goods, bring money from afar.

L. C. Bean is nearly through making his rounds as assessor for Columbus township. The assessment is lower than last year, both land and personal property. The assessment on land has always been too high in comparison with other townships. At the meeting of the assessors, March 18, the value on land was fixed at $11 to $10 an acre. The average for Columbus township improved land, last year, was $3.60; unimproved $4.38. This is reckoned to be about one-fifth the real cash value. If all the assessors throughout the state would place the value as directed by law, our per cent of taxation would appear very low. But uniformity is equality in this respect, and unless all obey the law strictly, great injustice would be done to the faithful ones.

The alliance will make a very serious mistake by starting into the mercantile business. There is considerable available history of such attempts, even in this section of Nebraska. Some Butler county people had a specially interesting experience. The truth is that if members of the alliance will make up their orders for groceries, dry goods, farm implements, newspapers and what-not and place them in a body, with the home dealers who give them the best terms, they will find themselves better off financially than by either starting a store of their own, or by dealing with those who live at a distance. Take, for instance, your home grocer: he can afford to sell you a barrel of sugar of any grade, cheaper than you can get it by the other process. Take your money and try it.

PERSONAL. E. Pohl went to Fremont Monday. J. A. Snow spent Sunday in Schuyler. Fred Anson went up to Creston Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Worley go to Richland today. Rev. Worley was in Garrison one day last week. J. R. Mosgher goes to Omaha on business today.

Mrs. F. C. Green was down at Lincoln Wednesday. Hon. E. L. Merritt of Springfield, Ill., is visiting G. W. Hulst. Mrs. W. H. Bacon of Platte Center was in the city last week.

Mrs. J. E. Tasker visited friends in the city a few days last week. S. E. Crans and Will Eimers of Humphrey, were in the city Friday. Miss Alice Cowdery, of Lincoln, visited friends in the city last week.

J. P. Becker is expected home from California the last of this month. Miss Emma Keinke, teacher in Nebolia, visited in the city Saturday. Dr. and Mrs. Geer of Lincoln visited F. C. Green's family over Sunday.

Mr. Daniels, one of Platte county's best teachers, was in the city Saturday. David Carrig, Sr., and Patrick Hays of Platte Center were in town yesterday. Miss Minnie Kelley, of Orono, one of Platte county's teachers, was in the city Saturday.

Samuel Mahood of Postville was in the city last week, and made this office a pleasant call. M. H. Barber of the Journal and Brad Slaughter, U. S. marshal, came down from Fullerton, Monday.

Gerhard Leuschon and son were in town Saturday, and this office is indebted to them for special favors. Miss Madeline Condon, of Omaha, came up to witness the marriage of Mr. John Dineen and Miss Ella Quinn last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Meyer have returned from Lincoln, where they have been living several years, and will make this their home. Thomas Wilson, of Columbus, passed through Schuyler Monday on his return from Boston, where he had been to attend the funeral of his aged mother. [Schuyler Herald.]

We understand Miss Katie Hays of Platte Center has been down at David City to take part in an entertainment at that place. Miss Katie has made quite a reputation as an actress. Mr. Oskenden and his wife (nee Miss Belle Parsons) are expected on the train from the east this afternoon, on their way from Detroit, Mich., to California. There will be a reception at J. E. North's residence this evening for her many friends, to which they are all invited. As Miss Parsons, she will be glad to greet her.

J. W. Gregory of Garden City, Kansas, has been appointed division field agent of the artesian wells investigation, department of agriculture, the purpose of which is to "ascertain the proper locations for artesian wells for irrigating purposes between the 97th meridian and the foot-hills of the Rocky mountains." He wishes to have "information of the location (section, town and range, if possible) of every boring for deep water ever made in the district, whether water was obtained there or not, and of every important spring or deep pool fed from a subterranean source to be found within the limits defined. If those who have sunk such wells, or have an intimate knowledge of any such, or who can give full particulars of important springs will send name and address to me at once, it will aid materially in the work." This may be a matter of more than usual interest to this section of Nebraska. We are directly in line between the artesian wells in Dakota, and the one at Lincoln, and it is not only possible, but highly probable that by a little effort we may be successful here. A. W. Lawrence, years ago, in boring for a well on J. P. Becker's farm near this city, struck a vein that sent the water some forty feet, but lacking six feet of bringing it to the surface. Such facts as this may be of interest to Mr. Gregory, and further the matter entrusted to him.

At the meeting of Baker Post Saturday evening, Rev. W. M. Worley was selected to deliver the address on Devotion day. H. T. Sperry, W. W. Rice and M. K. Turner were appointed a committee on arrangements, with authority to call other comrades of the Post to their assistance. A special feature of the exercises is to be a relation of the experience of members of the Post, as prisoners of war during the Rebellion. This is something out of the usual course, and may prove very interesting. The committee have not yet arranged the details of the program; when they do, we will publish the same in THE JOURNAL. In the meantime, suggestions are in order, and it is hoped that the exercises may be such as will prove beneficial to all, reminding the soldier of the days when he offered his services, his health and strength of body and mind, his very life as a possible sacrifice for the good of his country; picturing to the rising generation some of the scenes of those times, and inciting them to deeds of patriotism, for "Peace hath her conquests no less renowned than war."

The bond suit instituted in the name of J. E. North, he being a taxpayer, has finally been decided by the supreme court, Judge Maxwell delivering the opinion. The injunction was asked for on the ground that the proposition which had been submitted to the people was in the alternative, that is, the county to be authorized to issue bonds "to one or the other of two railroad companies." The state held $35,000 of the bonds and applied to be made party defendant, to maintain the validity of the bonds. The state set up as a defense that if there was just ground for questioning the validity of the bonds, it should have been done before they were issued. The decision of the court is that the bonds were voidable, and if any proper party had applied for an injunction before the bonds had been certified to by the state officials and sold to bona fide holders, the issue would have been void. Platte county has been at no expense in conducting the trial, and the attorneys' fees were contingent upon success.

Assault and Battery. About twelve o'clock last Tuesday night, as C. W. McCune, local editor of the Telegram, was making his rounds gathering news for his paper, and just after coming out of J. B. Dolman's store, he was assailed by Walter Caffrey who called him a vile name and struck him twice with his fist. McCune started to run, but at Vogel's restaurant was overtaken by Caffrey and again assaulted, and doubtless knocked down and kicked. His cries for help were responded to by Wm. Elston, Tom Cassion, Joe Smith and Maynard Elston, who were near by and who, McCune thought, were all after him, and intended to murder him. Hugh Hughes heard the cries for help and came to the assistance of McCune, calling upon the crowd to help him, but none came except Will Elston, when the assault was ceased.

The whole crowd were arraigned the next day before Judge Hensley, Caffrey pleading guilty to the charge of assault and battery, which was preferred against the crowd. A jury was empaneled consisting of Theo. Friedhof, J. H. Galley, Mr. Krause, Mr. Leuschen, Paul Hugel and Henry Noertker, who returned a verdict, not guilty.

Caffrey was arraigned Monday before Police Judge Brindley, on a charge of disturbing the peace, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs. The fine inflicted by Judge Hensley was $25 and costs.

The alleged provocation of the assault was a paragraph which appeared in the Telegram of April 23d, referring to Caffrey as "a shorthand reporter in a lively stable who performs his clerical work with a pitchfork," and further detailing a saloon run in which the paragraph alleged Caffrey had taken a principal part.

Caffrey says that he, as a hack driver, was with a company of young men who had been drinking, that McCune had joined the party and drank with them, and that the others, when the saloon keeper threatened to put Caffrey out, said they would go, too, if Caffrey was put out—but Caffrey was singled out for newspaper mention by McCune, and this fact angered him.

Of course this is no justification for the assault, which McCune, at the time, considering all the circumstances, regarded as murderous. It only shows that while one was "smart," so to speak, with his pencil, and apt at calling nicknames, the other was likewise "smart" with his tongue and his fists.

But such affairs are to be deprecated and discouraged. The proper freedom of the press is of vital importance to a government by the people, and its representatives should be accorded the utmost limit consistent with the public welfare, and young men and old, too, for that matter, should be careful how they attack reporters, with murderous weapons or with murderous intent, as the assailed would be fully justified in defending himself to the utmost—a thing they generally do.

Meeting May 3d. Petition of Wm. Cornelius and others for leave to use city water for purpose of having east 11th street sprinkled during season of 1930, referred to committee on P. P. and W. W. Petition for sidewalk along east side of blocks 50 and 58 on N street filed. Police Judge Brindley reported fines collected $8.

City Council. City treasurer submitted his official bond for $15,000, for the ensuing year. Referred to committee on finance as to form and security. The treasurer's monthly statement was also referred. Ten resolutions ordering sidewalks were adopted and notices ordered served upon the parties interested. Committee on public property was authorized to have Frankfort and Buffalo square kept in a neat and thrifty condition, trees trimmed, grass cut and such other improvements as they present as necessary; the committee also directed to have the ground broken in the public park in Oida village addition and Hanover Square.

An ordinance introduced by Councilman Garlow to amend waterworks ordinance, was considered by council, in committee of the whole, and further time asked for consideration of same.

Henry Lienes has the contract for the creamery routes north of the river, now nine in number, and shortly to be increased to eleven or twelve. Besides the routes on routes at Bedford, two at Platte Center and three south of the Loup, and are now averaging 700 pounds of butter daily. They are excellent men to do business with, and those who are considering about furnishing cream should have no hesitation on this score.

"Enough Said." The first of May I sold my interest in the Nebraska Avenue grocery to James Naylor, who, with Albert Covert, will continue the business at the old stand, under the firm name of Covert & Naylor. Those knowing themselves indebted to the old firm will please call and pay up. J. S. MURDOCK.
