AN ALUMINUM HAND.

An Artificial Member With Which a Man Can Do Every Kind of Labor. Some months ago Willard A. Lucas, son of Mr. Samuel Lucas, the wool manufacturer of Poquetanuck, Conn., had his right hand severed in his father's mill, and since Mr. Lucas, sr., who has inventive genius, has used every effort to replace the missing member with as useful a substitute as possible. After visiting or writing to the most prominent makers of artificial limbs in America, he learned that it was in vain to search, either in his country or Europe, for an artificial hand that could be used in doing work.

Thereupon Mr. Lucas determined to make a hand himself; but he toiled persistently day and night for four months before he was successful. He has produced an aluminum hand that is very much like an old time steel gauntlet, and that is almost as handy as is a natural hand. The fingers are all perfect in shape and appearance, and the joints bend like those of human fingers. It is smaller than the natural hand, but with it a man can do every kind of work. Mr. Willard Lucas has worn one of the artificial hands for several weeks, and with it can grasp and handily use all kinds of farm tools, pick up things from the ground, drive, handle a gun-in fact, use his metal hand quickly and skillfully at any work. Like the natural hand the artificial one consists of a palm that is provided with a fastening by which it is attached to the cork or wooden stump that all one-handed men wear in place of the missing member, and of fingers and a thumb, the joints of which are worked by a ratchet, so that they may be bent forward at any angle and held there. The hand may be either tightly closed or only partly shut, and only one finger or all the fingers may be closed at once and instantly by striking them against the body or other object. To release the fingers it is necessary only to touch a small spring on the back of the hand. The invention is a nearly perfect substitute for the natural hand and the only thing of the kind in the world. Willard Lucas avers he would not part with the device for a fortune if it were of salt. not possible to reproduce it. . By means

> What actually takes place is something as follows: We expose some part of the body to a draft; the surface becomes chilled, and the circulation, to some extent, is arrested; the blood and other fluids are sent in another direction. What should have been thrown out through the surface is turned in on the mucous membranes; and, as these parts become congested, sneezing takes place; there is an abnormal quantity of faces, and the system makes an effort to get rid of it.

This "taking cold" may be caused by sitting for a few moments in a strong current of cool air. It may be the back of the neck that is exposed, or it may be some other part of the body. Holding the hands in very cold water for a considerable length of time will often cause one to take cold. Or sitting with and effect between such diet and softening cold feet will do the same thing, es- arteries. Now Dr. Holbrook writes that pecially if the general circulation is feeble. Clothing one part of the body too much and another part too little will frequently give one a cold. thing that arrests the free circulation of the blood and sends it on the mucous surface may produce this effect.

The most frequent cause of all, peris 80 degrees or upward, and then going Cincinnati, arriving in Indianapolis at out into a colder atmosphere frequently produces this cold; this is particularly the case where the air is not only hot but impure. In fact, we think the impurity has more to do with it than the heat, and the two combined will rarely fail to cause an influenza or sore throat, sometimes a full-fledged pneumonia. By exposing one's self to hot, foul air the whole skin is for the time debilitated, and on reaching a cooler atmosphere the blood is driven from the surface, and congestion of the mucous membranes will almost certainly follow; either there is "cold on the lungs" or a sore throat, or there is an attack of acute

If You Had a Friend About to visit some section of country where malarial disease, either in the form of chills and fever or bilious remittent was particularly rife, what would be about the best advice you could give him? We will tell you-to carry along, or procure on arriving, that potent medicinal safeguard, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, known throughout malaris-plagued regions, here and in other countries, as the surest means of disarming the miasmatic scourge, and robbing it of its fell destructive influence. Not only does it fortify the system by increasing its stamins, but overcomes irregularity of diges-tion, the liver and the bowels, and counteracts the unfavorable effects of over-exertion, bodily and mental exposure in rough weather, or ec-cupation too sedentary or laborious loss of appetite, and excessive nervousnes. The func-tions of alimentation, bilious secretion, and sleep have in it a most powerful and reliable auxiliary. BIDDEFORD POOL. Me., has been invaded by a troop of snowy owls from the
