MINISTER FAVA RECALLED IN GREAT HASTE.

WASHINGTON, March 31.-Baron Fava has presented to the state department his recall by the Italian government and has demanded his passport. The de-partment is greatly surprised, because it was wholly unsuspected, and be-cause investigation into the New Orleans matter is not yet completed. The reason of the recall is that the "King of Italy is dissatisfied with the progress of the adjustment between the two countries with regard to the New Orleans matter." This action can be construedin no other way than as an act of open hostility on the part of the Italian government to the United States, with which it has heretofore been on friendly

WASHINGTON, April 1.- The engrossing topic in all circles here is the recall of Baron Fava by the Italian government. It was a plain act of discourtesy to this government pending the action of the civil authorities of Louisiana relative to the New Orleans affair, and has developed three theories as to the cause. One is dissatisfation with the action of this government; the second is a desire to get rid of Fava, against whom grave charges have been made from time to time, and the third is a desire on the part of the new Italian government to stem the popular outcry in Italy. The massacre occurred on the 14th inst., eighteen days ago. Secretary Blaine immediately issued an appeal to the governor of Louisana, deploring the occurence as a "massacre," and express-ing the condolence of the president. When Gov. Nichols' letter arrived here ten days later it was d'plomatic to the verge of aggravation. It guaranteed nothing. This was cabled to Italy by Fava as the answer of Louisiana. Blaine in the meantime, may have explained to him the utter inability of the federal government to give assurances of the punishment of the offenders, because Louisiana, as a sovereign state, has final and complete jurisdiction over its own people, and that the matter was now being dealt with in the courts. He probably also explained that redress in the way of indemnity could only be made by congress, and congress did not meet until next December. Even then it was likely to be made a political question, and the passage of an indemnity bill belonged to the indefinite future. This was doubtless unsatisfactory to Italy and may have precipitated action taken. Raron Fava Called Down, The second theory, that it was a slap at Fava and not at this government, is regarded as the more plausible of the three. Fava has been charged with many grave offenses, the chief of which are that he and Consul Riva, of New York, swindled the Italian government out of several million francs upon a contract for tobacco; that he was hand and glove with the padrons or slave system, and that he had even trafficked in the decoration of the "cross of Italy," which he had procured for individuals for a consideration. All these things have made him exceedingly unpopular with swer to a popular outcry in Italy is also very plausible. As stated above, Italian politics are in an exceedingly chaotic condition, the fall of M. Crispi and the elevation of Marquis Rudini has created to express the sincere regret with which the government of the United States receives the intelligence of Baron Fava's speedy departure from this capital. Though he has more than once intimated this purpose, the government of the United States has been with a total of 275 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 243.

Not Likely That Italy Means War. A demand for passports is the last step in diplomacy and is usually followed by a declaration of war. Such is hardly the case, however. It is simply the recall of the Italian minister. His successor was not announced as is usual. This complicates matters and indicates that something is being suppressed.

All talk of war is deemed absurd, from the very fact that Italy is in a chaotic political condition and is bankrupt financially. It is doubtful whether Italy could raise the money to equip properly the great war vessels which have been liplomats do not hesitate to pronounce action of Italy injudicious, unwise Scrofulous affections, as fever - sores, hip - joint disease, swellings and tumors yield to its superior alterative properties.

The substance of them is that Italy asked that fair legal process should be instituted against the culprits, regarding them as common assassins. Italy likewise asked for indemnity for the families of the men killed in New Orleans by the mob which invaded the iail there. the mob which invaded the jail there.
The answer from Washington is regarded as unsatisfactory. Italy instructed Baron Fava, March 27, to press these two original demands upon the United States government and in the event of his failing to obtain satisfaction to leave Washington after consigning the care of the legation at Washington to the first secretary. This action on the part of Raron Fava and his government is not regarded as a diplomatic rupture. It is regarded as a diplomatic rupture. It is merely the first step towards such rup-

Political circles here fully endorse the action of the Italian government. The newspapers of this city pronounce themselves very strongly against the action of the United States government. In-fluential Italians advise the Italian govrnment to send a circular note to friendly powers denouncing the United States as being confessedly unable to in-sure justice in the United States and as impotent to fulfill the duties of a civil

A Novel Proposition. Other prominent Italians suggest that the Italian government should break off all negotiations with the government at Washington, and that it should in future, so far as the New Orleans lynching is concerned, deal directly with the state of Louisians, and that the latter's government should be palled to account for the killing of the Italian prisoqers in the New Orleans jail.

The Premier's Views. In the course of an interview to-day with the Associated Press reporter, Marquis DeRudini said he was personally most kindly disposed towards the United States government, and expressed the hope that the civil authorities of the United States would not fail in their duties towards society in justice, morality and law. Public opinion, however, demanded a more energetic course of action. "If the United States government," he continued, "does not perceive that it is in the wrong, a diplomatic rupture is servitable." ture is inevitable."

The Mostages Flaces. Continuing the premier said: The report that Americans have sulted and arrested in Italy, as an outcome of the present negotiations, is ridiculous and false. Americans have always received here the best and kindest of hospitality, both upon the part of the Italian government and of the Italian people, both knowing perfectly the duties of a civilized

The Official Correspondent WASHINGTON, April 2.—The following correspondence between Secretary Blaine and Baron Fava was made public by the department of state last night: ROYAL LEGATION OF ITALY, WASHINGTON March 31, 1891.—Mr. Secretary of State: By my two notes of the 15th and 18th inst. I had the honor to call your excellency's serious attention to the occurrences of exceptional gravity which took place at New Orleans on the lith, whereby four subjects of the king of Italy, who were confined in a prison of that city, were massacred by a crowd under the leadership of two American citizens. After having formally protested against the unjustifiable conduct of the local authorities, who were evidently recreant to all of their duties on that occasion, I reserved to the government of his majesty the right to demand such satisfaction as it might think proper, since the occurrences in question constituted a patent violation of the stipulations of the treaty in force between our two countries which secures to Italian subjects residing in the United States the same protection enjoyed by American citizens, and which has always been extended to them in Italian

The reparation demanded by the government of the king, as I have had the honor to inform you in our interviews held during the last few days, were to consist of the fol-lowing points: 1. Official assurance by the lowing points: 1. Official assurance by the federal government that the guilty parties should be brought to justice. 2. Recognition, in principle, that indemnity is due to the relatives of the victims.

Your excellency was pleased to declare to me, that as the federal government did not think it could take this view of the case it feelings to take the stress it demands into

Under these circumstances, the government of his majesty considering that the legitimate action of the king's minister at Washington becomes ineffica-cious, has ordered me to take my leave. unable to see any adequate reasons for such step. The baron's service here for the past ten years has been distinguished at all times by the most agreeable relations with times by the most agreeable relations with the executive department of this govern-ment. Regret at his leaving is enhanced when, as the president believes, he has been recalled under a misapprehension of the facts by the government of Italy. The cause of his asundering his diplomatic re-lations with this government is thus given in his note:

"The reparation demanded by the government of the king, as I have had the honor to inform you in our interviews held honor to inform you in our interviews held during the last few days, were to consist of the following points: 1. Official assurance by the federal government that the guilty parties should be brought to justice. 2. Recognition, in principle, that indemnity is due to the relatives of the victims."

The first demand thus stated by Baron Fava is slightly changed in phrase from that employed by him in his many verbal requests based on the telegram from Mar-quis Rudini, which he left with me. Marquis Rudini declared that "Italy's right to demand and obtain the punishment of the murderers and indemnity for the victims is unquestionable." It is inferred that Baron the action of Italy injudicious, unwise and petulant. One gentleman who has been in the service for twenty years said to your correspondent last night:

Had the incident occurred in any European government every one would have expected preparations for hostilities to follow. The next step is a declaration of war. But here all is different; no one looks for war. We shall have another if it were in any sense or to any degree bound before the trial of the accused, by an assurance which the president of the United States had ventured to give a foreign power. No More Cutting Prices Upon the Country's Patent Cure-Alls. NEW YORK, March 28 .- The manufacturers of patent medicines are of the opinion that the public who buy the stuff are not paying enough money for it, and they are combining for the purpose of putting up the retail price. The last big combine of the manufacturers and drug men was in 1884, and was known as the Campion combine. It lasted just one year. It was finally broken by the Hegeman corporation and Wm. B. Riker & Sons, of this city, and other large drug concerns in other cities.

The present agitation to boom the price was begun by the retail druggists last rember, and was quickly taken up by manufacturers. An associa-was formed in January known as the National Whole sale Druggists, with L. M. Kling a Philadelphia druggist, as chairman. The plan is to charge retailers the full retail price for all medicines. To each bottle of medicine a coupon is to be at-tached, which is to be torn off and pre-served by the druggist when the bottle is sold. Clearing houses are to be es-tablished in the big cities, and these coupons are to be presented there at the end of every month, or every three months, with the affidavits of the druggists that the bottles that hold the medcines to which they were attached were sold at the full retail price. The cou-pons will be purchased then for 20, 33 or per cent of the retail price of the medicine, and that will be the druggist's profit on his sales. Detectives are to be emploped to ferret out the men who cut rates and to report to the clearing house officials. Their testimony will destroy the value of the coupon. The other day he came into my office and made a cold-blooded bluff about taking me out to lunch, at the same time flashing a $100 bill before my astonished eyes. I took him up, right then and there, of course. We went to the Richelieu and ordered in the neighborhood of $16 worth of food and drink, and pitched into it as if we hadn't had anything before for twenty years. It was a safe bet that this remarkable exhibition of generosity meant that I was to be called upon to give up something, and, sure enough, I was. "That's so," I answered. "Go ahead, I'll do anything I can for you."
"Well, you see," he went on, "it's like this. I am—no," he broke off suddenly. "I can't bear to ask it of you." There was real tears in his eyes. "Don't let yourself be disturbed, old fellow," I cried, very much affected

Old School Discipline in Germany. A queer case of school discipline has lately attracted attention in Germany. The teacher of a village school, who carried on the business of extracting teeth to incrense his paltry income, utilized his dentist skill for the discipline of recalcitrant pupils. Eight boys were by him deprived of teeth, which he thought they could get along better without than with, as a punishment for gross disobedience. The parents of the pupils caused this odd disciplarian to be prosecuted for doing bodily injury to their offspring, but the charge was dismissed because the teacher proved by expert medical testimony that instead of harming his pupils he had actually benefited them. This style of discipline, however, has been prohibited.
