THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR.
ACRUISE ABOUT SAN FRANCISCO BAY.
He is accompanied on the Trip by Great Numbers of Gayly Decorated Craft—The Presidential Home on Wheels in Which the President and his Family are Accommodated. The morning of President Harrison's marine excursion from San Francisco opened with a fog enveloping the shores of the bay, but as the forenoon wore on the fog lifted and left the harbor sparkling in sunlight.

Notwithstanding the announcement that the invitations to accompany the President were limited to five hundred in number, the committee having charge of the excursion were besieged with applications from fully 5,000 patriotic citizens crowded the steamers Ukiah and Golden City and numerous smaller craft which dotted the bay, so that at the hour of the President's embarkation over 10,000 persons had left the shore to accompany him on the trip.

At 10:30 o'clock the Pacific steamed out into the bay from Broadway wharf and was soon followed by the warship Charleston, the Government steamers Rush and Maroon carrying Federal officials, and the cutter Cutters Rush and Corwin with the Custom House officials. As the President passed these vessels, which had formed a line about 200 yards astern, a salute was fired, and the band, which had been stationed on the Pueblo, played a patriotic air.

After the Government vessels had swung into the line other steamers and craft conveying unofficial excursionists made haste to follow, and the white sails of the yachts skimming the sea, the President's train was soon seen, the fragrant, from a marine point of view, had never been excelled on the Bay of San Francisco.

During the whole time that the Pueblo was steaming down the bay the President stood on the bridge with a pair of marine glasses through which he scanned the various objects of interest. On the various points of view he was constantly surrounded by a group of army and navy officers, and apparently found great enjoyment in the view. He responded to the salutes of different vessels he passed by removing his hat and bowing.

About 2 o'clock the Pueblo headed for the Union Iron Works. The vessels which had been lying in the stream waiting for her got under way and followed in her wake, making a marine procession several miles in length.

At the Union Iron Works the Pueblo was received with the blowing of whistles at the factory and on all steam vessels lying there. The cruiser Charleston, which had followed the President's steamer all day, anchored at the Union Iron Works. The President was taken off in a tug and paid an official visit to the Charleston, being received with a national salute when he boarded the vessel and also when he took his departure. By this time the bay for a mile in every direction from the Union Iron Works was filled with the vessels of every description, upon the decks of which there were fully 20,000 people, who had come there to witness the launching of the armored coast defense vessel Monterey.

In addition to those on vessels there were probably forty thousand people who witnessed the launching of the vessel. Every house-top and street and every hillside overlooking the iron works yard as well as the yard itself was literally covered with people. Never was there such interest taken or such enthusiasm displayed at any similar event in the history of the country. On the bay there was a perfect sea of flags and bunting, and for some time before the launching occurred there was a continuous scattering of shells and bullets, to which was added the music of a score of bands on excursion steamers.

A small platform had been built upon the pier in front of the factory, and this was the Presidential party and other distinguished guests, and also a band from the navy. At 4:30 Mr. Harrison crossed an electric trolley which sent the vessel down the ways. The navy yard band played a national air as she glided into the water and immediately there burst forth the greatest noise from steam whistles, to which was added the thundering sound of the Charleston's guns as the first shot was fired. Cheers for cheer also arose from shore and from the vessels.

The launch was entirely successful. The President and party then returned to the Palace Hotel.

When the Presidential party arrived at San Jose a national salute was fired and a large crowd gathered. The train cheered lustily. The visitors were escorted to the Hotel Vendome, where they were welcomed by the Mayor, Mayor Rucker, and responded to by the President as follows:

My Mayor and fellow-citizens, I am again gratified by this large outpouring of friends, and by the respectful interest which they evince. I can not find words to express the delight which I feel, and which you journey with me have felt, as we have observed the beautiful harbor from the bay and the prospect for the future of our country. I greet you as the great army that subdued the rebellion brought home the flag in triumph. I hope that you have found in this harbor and the prospect for the future of our country. I greet you as the great army that subdued the rebellion brought home the flag in triumph.

JUSTIFIABLE LYNCHING.
REPORT OF THE NEW ORLEANS GRAND JURY.
O'Malley and Five Others Indicted for Corrupting the Jury—The Mob Leaders Escaped—O'Malley's Unswerving Record—He Was a Prison Bird.

After six weeks' investigation the New Orleans Grand Jury completed its labors in the Hennessy case and the killing of Italians at the parish prison by presenting indictments against the mob leaders. The report first recalls the murder of Chief Hennessy and the trial of the accused Italians. It says:

The morning of President Harrison's marine excursion from San Francisco opened with a fog enveloping the shores of the bay, but as the forenoon wore on the fog lifted and left the harbor sparkling in sunlight.

"By the third day all trace of blood had disappeared and I had recovered much strength. "The fourth day I sat up in bed and my dinner, the first solid food for two months. Since that time I have gradually gotten better and am now able to move about the house. My death was daily expected and my recovery has been a great surprise to my friends and the doctor.
