Ir may be that the delay in Chili is due to circumstances that are but temporary, and that in due time the United States will be the recipient of full and voluntary apology and reparation by the conthern republic for the outrages at Valparaiso. This country can afford to wait. But it can not afford to do nothing while it is waiting. In time of peace it must prepare for war, and the better it is prepared the less probability will there be of war. We do not believe that the people of Chili desire war, but there are strong indications that ar andacions band of Chilian politicians and soldiers is foolish enough to believe that this country can be bullied into submission to a wanton insult to its sovereignty and a cruel outrage upon its citizens. There is danger that the opinion of this bold minority may infect the majority.—[Inter Ocean.
