The British steamer Egyptian Monarch from New York to London, reports that early on the morning of January 16 it sighted a wooden vessel, apparently an American, on fire. Judging from the smoke and odor Capt. Irwin thinks it was laden with oil. As the steamer approached the burning craft it was seen that the masts were gone. The men were clinging to the howsprit. A lifeboat on the steamer hastily cleared away, but before it could be lowered the bowsprit fell and the two men were not
