Republican District Convention.

The Republicans of the Third congressional district of Nebraska, will meet in delegate convention at the opera house in Norfolk, Madison county, Neb., on Thursday, April 29, 1892, at 7:30 p. m.

The basis of representation is one delegate at large for each county and one for each 150 voters or major fraction thereof.

It is recommended by the committee that no proxies be admitted to the convention, and that each county elect alternate delegates or alternates present only be allowed to cast the vote of their respective counties.

A large sash and blind factory was burned in Brooklyn, N. Y., Saturday. All the fire departments of the city were called out.

Hon. J. W. Love, U. S. consul at San Salvador, C. A., started last week from his home in Fremont for his post. He expects to return in October.

One of the delegates at the Minneapolis convention will be a full-blooded Indian from Oklahoma, the first of his race to secure a seat in such a convention.

Speaking of his son, rich by inheritance, the late Simon Cameron, said suggestively: "Yes, Don has many advantages, but I had one which overbalanced them all—poverty."

The largest congregation in America is St. Stanislaus Kostka in Chicago which has thirty thousand communicants. The number of attendants at the several masses every Sunday frequently exceeds 15,000.

There are more than 500,000 almond trees actually bearing in the United States, and there are hundreds of thousands of bearing cocconut trees, so say the census takers. What will not this country do in productions!

The Germans have seemingly accomplished the feat of successfully navigating the air and taking observations of Russian fortifications, at a safe distance above, whence they could throw an electric light from their balloons and make their examination at their leisure.

A disastrous cyclone visited the vicinity of Petersburg, Va., Friday night. Barns and fences were leveled to the ground and large trees torn up by the roots and twisted into all conceivable shapes. A number of people were killed, and the damage to property and vegetation will be enormous.

The will of the late Walt Whitman shows the entire estate, exclusive of royalties from writings, amounts to about $3,500. An effort is to be made to raise by popular subscription a sufficient sum to preserve Whitman's residence intact, so that the home will be always open to his admirers who visit the city.

The state executive committee of the Georgia state alliance Thursday adopted, unanimously, a resolution demanding that all alliances which have entered the people's party movement must rescind their action promptly or surrender their charters. This means that in the south the alliance organization must not hurt the democrats.

The war in Wyoming between the stockmen and the settlers has resulted in the death of Dr. Watkins, Champion and Day at the hands of the stockmen and the capture by federal troops of forty-five men, with rifles, etc., of the stockmen. Twenty-five of these men were Texas cowboys.

The NAST, the great cartoonist, is at work on the Chicago Inter Ocean. One of his most striking pictures represents Cleveland and Hill as prize-fighters, Hill landing a blood-bringer on Cleveland's cheek, while the democratic party represented a donkey, is plunging down the falls—that party prize fight about the shadow while the substance vanishes.

The Sisseton reservation in the northeastern corner of South Dakota was opened to settlers last Friday. The rush was something wonderful. A thousand men had place in the line of first place. Three thousand dollars was paid for the first place in line, the party holding it having remained at the door of the land office since the previous Saturday. The 12th place sold for $300. It is estimated that 3,000 located Friday.

A letter from one of the flood sufferers in the Tom Bigbee river district, told in simple negro dialect, is most pathetic. The cattle, says he, took to the high places, and for sustenance began to devour the branches of trees. Chickens flew to the tree tops and remained there for three days, until, weak from starvation, they fell into the waters. He says that no estimate can be made of the number of lives lost, but makes a rough guess that from Saturday until Tuesday night 200 negroes have perished.

SENATOR PADDOCK'S good judgment was again demonstrated in his opposition to the appropriation of $100,000 by the general government toward the entertainment of visitors to the G. A. R. encampment at Washington next fall. The committee promised to raise $75,000, and it should come from Washington or the District of Columbia, and not from Uncle Samuel's treasury.

The reciprocity clauses of the McKinley bill have been encouraging to shipbuilding, for the postal subsidy act was not yet in operation when the last record was made.

JACK McCALL is again talked of as a republican candidate for governor. The republican party of Nebraska must be very careful this year in the selection of candidates. If the very best men of the party in the state are selected, men, true and tried in the interests of the people, men who have the nerve to enforce the will of the people, the republican party will have an excellent show for success.

THE Seattle Press Times of April 6th gives a tabular statement of the registered letter business of thirty of the largest cities of the United States for the year 1891, and the increase over the previous year. This table shows: Seattle, total amount of registry fees collected, $2,877.10; increase over 1890, 30.43 per cent. Omaha, same, $2,448.50; increase, 24.17 per cent. St. Paul, Minn., same, $2,680.00; increase, 84 per cent.

CAPT. AMON D. YOCUM of Hastings, was on Friday last, sentenced to the penitentiary for one year, for killing Myron Van Fleet, and on Saturday a telegram addressed to Mrs. Yocum, announced the fact that Governor Boyd had pardoned him.

It is rumored that several new houses of prostitution are being opened in Schuyler. This is entirely wrong. Instead of their increasing, they should decrease in numbers and the city's officials should see to it that the evil is taken from our midst. They can only be wiped out by vigorous action.

element of the party to name a candidate for whom we can all vote with enthusiasm, a man devoted heart and soul to the building up of the interests of this district and state, and not unmindful of what is demanded of the congressman by the well-informed artisans, the intelligent farmers, and the patriotic professional men the country over, when they turn their attention to public affairs. Do let us look around a little and find a man who knows and who will do the right thing. Too many nifty-lammers are sent to congress. It is the man who has been doing some good thinking that is intended to with attention down at Washington.

Democratic Delegates. Gov. Boyd heads the state delegation to the democratic national convention, with W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, Tobias Castor of Saline county and M. Doolittle of Holt. Delegates First district—Robert Clegg, Lancaster county, and N. S. Harwood, Richardson county.

Second district—Charles Ogden, John A. Creighton, Douglas. Third district—John Dera, Dodge county, F. J. Hale, Madison county.

Fourth district—D. W. Cook, Gage county, Matt. Miller, Butler county. Fifth district—R. A. Batty, Adams county, P. H. Spearman, Red Willow county.

Sixth district—John F. Crocker, Buffalo county, A. W. Gunner, Howard county. A resolution declaring for free coinage of silver was defeated.

That reciprocity is not a "sham," as some democrats have declared, is shown by the latest report of the bureau of statistics. Under the agreement with Spain the reduced duty on flour to Cuba went into effect January 1, and in two months our exports of flour to that island increased in value, as compared with the same months of the previous year, from $77,000 to $155,000.

This is a single item of our exports, and one which has been for years controlled by the Spanish government for the benefit of Spanish producers, who enjoyed the benefit of discriminating duties and drawbacks. The reciprocity arrangement with Spain for the benefit of the West Indian possessions covers a good many other items besides flour, and the exports of all these show an increase amounting in the aggregate for eight months ending February 29—during the first two months of which the reciprocity agreement was not in operation—to over $1,200,000. The new commercial policy of the country is working right along, to the confusion and discomfiture of its opponents. —Omaha Bee.

Who's All Right? ED. JOURNAL:—The Argus of the 28th inst. contains an article under the above heading. It endeavors to refute my communication in the JOURNAL of the 6th, headed "Horse-sense or Mule-sense" which title had been taken partly from the Argus itself. Its reply begins with an untruth, and goes on the same way to the end. If the Argus had been honest, it would have given its readers the whole of its opponent's piece, and not mutilated its heading and picked out a seemingly weak point. But it was evidently afraid to do so, fearing some of its readers might get a little more light than would be profitable for the Argus. Perhaps in its case "ignorance is the mother of devotion." If it had published the whole of my article its readers could have judged for themselves who were the few arguments and the most epithets. But it does really contain one brand-new idea. It aspires to the honor of a reformer. Good! So, when its early demise comes it can claim the crown of religious martyrdom! Before I enter upon the consideration of this claim, I will state a few indisputable facts. There are prosperous men in all classes of society and there are also others far from being successful. This is the case not only among the honest tillers of the soil, but also among mechanics, manufacturers, merchants and professional men and newspaper men also. Who will deny this? But who is to blame when a man spends his money in a saloon or in the "walking delegate" or runs around the country talking alliance instead of walking behind his plow or cultivating, or when he carelessly and recklessly runs into debt, or when he mortgages his farm to buy silk dresses for his wife, and sealin cloaks and pianos for his daughters, and fast horses and buggies for his sons, all on credit? There are lazy men, drinking men, careless men, incapable men, squandering men, in all classes of human society, and there are also able, industrious, abstaining men, saving, wisely-planning, careful men, and they are not the big game, the gamblers and blowing ones, they are the men who mind their own business, who stretch themselves according to the size of their own blanket, and pull up their knees when it happens to be short. Ah, brother Saunders, they are the men who also honestly pay for their newspaper, and are not to blame if the printing office is mortgaged over and over and finally sold by the sheriff.

A friend of the writer, a highly respected farmer who owns one of the best large farms in the county and who has raised a numerous and well-trained family, told me: "I have never run into debt. When I had no flour, I with my family used corn meal and ate mush." My friend began here about twenty years ago with nothing but a number of hungry little mouths, and there are a great many such.

And now for brother Bixby's claim as a religious reformer! If talking to men just what they like to hear, if breeding dissatisfaction, if hatching out envy and hatred between different classes of human society, if preparing the way for civil war even by stirring up class against class, if laying the blame of personal neglect, laziness, want of economy, incapability and consequent poverty, squallor and misery indiscriminately upon the industrious, saving, careful, and therefore well-to-do ones—if all that is religious reform, then hurrah for the Argus. But otherwise, no hurrah.

Yes, brother Saunders, religious reform is needed. Every man is by nature a monopolist as soon and as long as he can be one. Human selfishness is the first-born and the chief characteristic of the whole family of mortals. I am for bribing it anywhere and everywhere, and always. But devil don't reform out devils. Devils don't cure evils. Reform are needed; trusts and gigantic corporations for squeezing out every drop of the poor like the juice out of a lemon, ought to be abolished and exterminated, but all parties are in favor of that, and of one thing the writer is convinced, i. e., that the doctrine of the Argus, selfishness against selfishness, will not "fill the bill." May wider heads than that of the writer and that of brother Bixby and of brother Saunders accomplish it!

To reform society, the individuals composing it must be changed, and then everything will be ALL RIGHT.

NEBRASKA NOTES. Mrs. Andrews Hanna, wife of a farmer near Nebraska City, attempted suicide, Friday, by cutting her throat with a razor.

Fifty Sioux Indian bucks, and a number of squaws and papooses left Haskell Saturday for Europe to join the Wild West show.

While watching a chemical experiment at the Alma high school, Miss Jessie Mitchell inhaled the vapor of burning acid and was so overcome that her life was despaired of for a time.

S. J. Mason, traveling man for Linnegar & Meisell, with driver, buggy and family horses, went over a fifteen-foot bank into a pool of water Friday. Mason had his left shoulder sprained.

During the recent storm the roof of the school house at Butka, Loup county, caved in. School was in session, but the presence of mind of the teacher in ordering the scholars to drop over to the wall probably prevented loss of life.

Saturday afternoon while the three youngest children of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Critch of Central City were playing in a cornfield, the clothes of little Letta caught fire, perhaps from the embers of a fire which Mr. Saxton had started early in the day. The child died the following day.

The 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hollman met with a frightful death Friday morning at their home near Bismarck. The folks were outside doing the chores and upon entering the house found a charred mass upon the floor that was twitching—it was the little girl, who, in some manner, ignited her clothing and was burned to death, and was writing in her agonies.

Washington Letter. (From our regular correspondent.) The latest democratic scheme to aid in throwing the election of president into the house of representatives is shrewd, but it will not work, for the very simple reason that the republican leaders see through it and will take care that it is made equally clear to the voters in the states concerned. At a consultation attended by Senators Gorman, Bruce and Hill, and some other prominent democrats it was decided that it would greatly strengthen the chances of the third party to carry, of course with the assistance of the solid democratic vote, four or five of the northwestern states, if it could carry an equal number of southern states.

Carrying out the idea of that conference, southern democrats of prominence have "filled up" every newspaper man that they could get at with their fears that the third party may carry from four to seven of the southern states, and lots of rot has been telegraphed from here concerning this alleged new phase of the presidential campaign. New nothing! There is as much probability that the electoral votes of any southern state with the exception of the two Virginia, either or both of which may be carried by the republicans, will be cast for a third-party candidate as there is that Texas will go republican. It is simply a dodge to try to catch republican voters who belong to the farmers' organization in the northwestern states.

Only three democrats voted against the bill for the admission of cotton into and bagging free of duty, which was passed by the house Saturday afternoon, and yet it is one of the most illogical as well as sectional bills ever before congress. It is a direct blow at one established American industry—the iron hoop and band mills—and it would, if it became a law, create obstructions in the path of those who are trying to establish on a large scale the manufacture of jute bagging in the United States.

Notwithstanding the covert opposition of nine-tenths of the democratic senators and the open opposition and sneers of a few of them, the very men to that conscience should have kept silent, the bill appropriating $100,000 towards helping to entertain the members of the G. A. R., at the coming encampment in this city was passed by the senate. Only ten democrats had the nerve to cast their votes against the bill when the test came, and every one of them represents a Confederate constituency. Here is the list: Berry and Jones of Arkansas; Coke and Mills of Texas; Blackburn of Kentucky; Bates of Tennessee; Fry, the so-called farmer's alliance senator, from South Carolina; Colquitt of Georgia; Pugh of Alabama, and Vest of Missouri.

The world's fair congressional committee have been giving hearing both for and against the opening of the exposition on Sunday, and as far as the arguments go, the opposition to Sunday opening has decidedly the best of it. What congress will do, or whether it will do anything is a matter of doubt; it would much prefer occupying responsibility by doing nothing, but the presence is becoming so strong that some action may have to be taken.

Real estate speculators are everywhere a shrewd lot but those of Washington should be rated above them all; they have made millions by unloading ground bought for a song upon the government at fancy prices, and they are still at it. At the last session of congress a bill appropriating the money to purchase a site for the Washington city post office on the south side of Penn. avenue—the most desirable part of the city, became a law, and in the time the aforementioned speculators received about three times as much as the square—about the most unproductive property in town—was worth, and now engineers are searching for a solid foundation, which they say can only be had upon forty-foot piles, and even then it will be necessary to cement the entire bottom and sides of the cellar, and to provide the building with a powerful pumping outfit to keep it dry.

A bill has been introduced in congress to build a new post office in the same locality, presumably on the same sort of foundation, at a cost of $3,500,000. Now a word about that locality. Strangers to Washington have heard so much about Pennsylvania avenue that it is natural for them to suppose that it is a perfectly proper place to erect costly buildings, but as a matter of fact it isn't. Why? It is too low—less than three feet above ordinary high tide, and its dampness and consequent unhealthfulness have caused it to be abandoned for higher ground. All of Washington's largest business houses, most of which were once on the avenue, are now on F and G streets, and the loss of business and consequent lowering of rentals have caused the forming of a powerful lobby, aided by both of Washington's daily papers, which own plants on the avenue, to work bills through congress locating public buildings in this swampy section. Congress should beware of the scheme.
