A More than Usually Interesting Session of the City's Legislative Body.

Saturday evening saw the mayor and all the members around the council board, ready for business, and we give a brief summary of the important transactions.

The bond of S. L. McCoy as night policeman for $1,000, with John Wagner and J. B. Deleman as sureties was approved.

John, the Baptist, taught "there is one that cometh after me who is greater than I. When he cometh he will baptize you with the Holy Ghost." Paul is in harmony with this teaching, for we find at one time "he having passed through the upper coasts he came to Ephesus, and finding certain disciples he said unto them, Have you received the Holy Ghost since you believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost. And he said unto them, Unto what then were you baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism. Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus." Acts xiii:1-7.

Here Paul found an imperfect work had been done, either by an impostor otherwise by a careless minister. Paul rejoiced their baptism. Then we learn that an applicant for baptism must be taught the gospel fully, or in other words the individual should understand well what he or she was doing and what to expect. The water baptism is an act of obedience whereby we receive the promise that our sins shall be forgiven. We have now been adopted into the family and fold of God, being no longer strangers and aliens but sons and daughters, therefore heirs and joint heirs to the things of the Father's kingdom with Jesus Christ, our elder brother.

What is Baptism?

EDITOR JOURNAL.—In your issue dated April 18th, I notice a reply to a former article of mine that appeared in the Argus, on the subject of baptism. I agree with the writer as to the mode, also the subject, but the object to be attained by baptism I still claim to be a saving one. Not that I would have any entertain for a moment the idea that I believe that when we have been baptized there is nothing more required. My idea is that baptism is for the remission of sins. And if faith in God, also in the Son of God, together with repentance, have done their perfect work, (viz. brought about a golly sorrow for the wrongs we have done, either by omission or commission) then we come fit subjects for baptism. But we find there is only one faith that is acceptable in the sight of God. "There is one body and one spirit even as ye are called in one hope of your calling. One Lord, one faith, one baptism." Ephesians 4th chap. also I Cor. 12th chap. 12th and 13th verses. We are also told how to obtain this peculiar faith. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? To whom shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent." Romans, x:13, 14, 15.

Thus we see the necessity of ministers understanding the gospel before they can teach it to others. After we have been baptized by water, it is necessary that we should receive the baptism of the spirit. This baptism is received only by the laying on of hands and always after the baptism by water. The Savior told Nicodemus unless he received these two baptisms he could not enter into the kingdom of God, John, iii:5.

John, the Baptist, taught "there is one that cometh after me who is greater than I. When he cometh he will baptize you with the Holy Ghost." Paul is in harmony with this teaching, for we find at one time "he having passed through the upper coasts he came to Ephesus, and finding certain disciples he said unto them, Have you received the Holy Ghost since you believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost. And he said unto them, Unto what then were you baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism. Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus." Acts xiii:1-7.
