FAMOUS IN THEIR WAY

THE GREATEST THIEF TAKERS OF OUR TIMES.

Superintendent Byrnes of the Metropolitan Police Force and His Predecessor, Superintendent Murray—Sketches of Their Lives with Good Portraits.

Probably the greatest thief taker that the world has ever known is Thomas Byrnes, who was recently made superintendent of the Metropolitan police force of the city of New York. The promotion was made as a result of the retirement of Superintendent Murray on a pension of $3,000 a year.

...
The late Mr. Preston, Gen. Hancock, Gen.
Butterfield, the late Rev. Dr. Crosby and others.

He was born in New York city, June 15, 1842, and at an early age was apprenticed to the gas-fitting trade, at which he worked until his appointment on Dec. 10, 1863, as a patrolman on the police force in the Fifteenth precinct of the city. He became Captain of the Fifteenth precinct in 1870.

He was appointed a patrolman in the capture of three desperate burglars arrested to the tenth, he was promoted to a sundaman's place.

STATE NEWS.

NEBRASKA MISCELLANEOUS MATTERS.

The stock feeders of Gege county will have a meeting for the purpose of taking steps to have the assessment made on feeders reduced. It is claimed by them that a system of double assessment is borne by the feeder.

For the first time in years a tourist rate to the east has been made on an Omaha basis, which enables them to be sold at that city without any uncertainty. The average will be about one and one-third rates for a round trip.

The Fraternal Order of Protectors is the name of an order incorporated last week by the filing of articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. It has its home office in Lincoln and was incorporated by Lincoln men.

Henry Beister, a farmer living four miles east of Wayne, was thrown from his horse and had his neck dislocated. He is still alive, but is entirely paralyzed below the shoulders and the doctors have but little hopes for his recovery.

Adjutant General Vignash has returned from the east after having completed his tour of inspection of the national guard. Last week he granted leave for company First regiment of New York, who are encamped at Fullerton, to go into camp without expense to the station on July 1, 2, 3 and 4, in order to take part in the G. A. R. celebration.

Drugs in their convention at Grand Island, elected officers as follows: President J. H. Kniggelein of Norfolk; vice president W. H. Hamman, Tecumseh; G. W. Howe, Winchester; A. F. Stritz, North Platte; D. B.
Davis, Chadron, and Jerry Bowen of Wood River; secretary, Mrs. Julia Crissay, Omaha; treasurer, Charles F. Sherman, Omaha.

LIVES LIKE A QUEEN.

Among the numerous "red letters" days arranged for the Reatrice Chau-tanguis assembly are Educational, Republican, Democratic, Alliance, Republican, Woman and Suffrage days.
July 2 J. L. Hughes of Toronto, Canada, and several other e-specially prominent will be oak. Republican day is July 14, when such men as Governor McKinley of Ohio and other prominent men will address the Chautanguis.
Democratic day is July 13. Speakers for the occasion have not been definitely secured. On Alliance day, July 6, President Polk, J. H. Davis and Mrs. Mary Lesse of Kansas will be the speakers. On July 4 Robert Noorse of Washington and Chaplain McCabe of New York, the hero of Libby prison, will be present.

State Superintendent Gouddy has in-sued the annual state appropriation of school money. From the report it is seen that the amount to be appropriated among the several counties is $313,283.67. Of this amount $111-328.80 is derived from interest on unpaid principal school lands, $31-889.39 from school land leases, $67-469.40 from state bonds, $100,000.00 interest on state bonds. The total amount is apportioned among the several counties of the state in proportion to the number of school children in each. There are in the state 353,115 children of school age, 2,000 broad acres and a bunch of over 95 cents to each scholar. Douglas county receives $31,721.82 and Lancaster $17,555.

TIGERS OF THE JUNGLE.

A Man-Eater Who Faced a Terror to His Pursues.

A well-known student of the habits of wild animals, writing of the stealthy and dangerous character of the maneating tiger, mentions a case that happened a few years ago in the Nagpur district in India. A tigress had killed several people, and a large amount of money was offered for her destruction.
She had recently dragged away a native, but being disturbed had left the body within a few feet of the entrance.

Four watchers, each with his match-lock, took their positions at these holes. Nothing came, and at length the moon went down and the night was dark. The men were afraid to go out through the jungles, and so remained where they were. Some of them fell asleep.

The photograph from which the figures were taken is an illustration of the gigantic extinct Irish deer (Cervus giganteus) is copied was forwarded to Land and Water by Mrs. Graham Stewart. The specimen was taken from the skin of the animal of a series of Irish legends obtained by her late father, the Rev. T. O'Grady. The height of the deer to the tip of the antlers was 11 feet, and the length 11 inches, and we thus gather that the antlers from tip to tip of the longest antlers can be but 11 feet.

GREATEST KNOWN.

Remains of the Gigantic Irish Deer Capable of Carrying Enormous Antlers.

The trembling wolf fish has entered Clay Pit creek, an estuary of the North Shrewsbury river in New Jersey. Capt.
William C. C. Town of the New Hampshire Wildlife Commission, who missed his Irish wolf dog Paddy some time ago and found the animal dead on the banks of the creek, about a mile from his home, which is the headquarters for all the anglers and hunters in that section. Only the hind legs of the dog were missing, having been eaten off by some animal with remarkably sharp teeth, as the edges of the bone looked as if they had been severed by a saw. Fred Vogel, a professional fisherman, lost a young calf whose hind legs were bitten off in the same manner. Capt.
Joe Depeaux, another old settler at Clay Pit creek, told him that he had climbed the bank. The fish bobbed over his garden patch like an old man with the palsy. The front teeth of his dog had been broken off and the bloodhounds. Eels had disappeared from Clay Pit creek since these monsters first showed themselves. The elderly Capt. Town with his Remington rifle killed a wolf that was rat-ting the hind legs of a horse. It weighed sixty pounds and trembled for 1 hour and 15 minutes after the bullet entered its brain.

EVERY WRONG THAT HAS BEEN PERPETRATED

under cover of law in this or any other country has been cloaked by a pretense of care for "civilization." In some way it has been deemed an aid to civilization that nations should resort to acts of barbarism and injustice, lest some form inherited from the dark ages be endangered.

Most of the wars of the present age are wars for the extension or protection of trade. The warfare of commerce is the engrossing occupation of the century. It is a warfare, fortunately, that does not always involve bloodshed. The underlying consideration, when its generals plan their campaigns, is the answer to the question, "Will it pay?"

In England, publishers derive a large portion, if not the greater portion, of their revenue not from the sale of their publications, but from the unquenchable aspirations of their aristocratic clients. There are hundreds of ponderous pads of fiction, essays and poetry published by London firms every year, for which they have not paid a cent.

WHAT science shall teach us when to stop efforts at reformation and institute only stern, bald justice? What knowledge shall impart the wisdom to draw the line between punishment and restraint? How shall the moral responsibility of the chance infringer of law and the irresponsibility of the moral malfactor who knows no right and was born only with the propensity to evil be distinguished.

The day of literary men and literature is over. It is now the triumphant hour of the imbecile millionaire, the rich society woman, who has nerve, hysteria, a vast deal of impudence, a store of proverbial platitudes, and a continual itch for notoriety; actresses who have more gowns than brains; English lords and ladies, and some assinine royalists. Every fool in the universe with money enough to pay a printer's bill, has published a book.

EVERY day we are told that we are living too fast for our health, yet each to-morrow has a tendency to increase the pace. Where the evolution will cease it is impossible to foretell. The pressure of life has increased enormously in the last quarter of a century. Every indication is that its growth will continue at least to keep pace with the adaptation of the human frame. If it does not outstrip it and lead to a general collapse in the form of greatly lessening the average length of life and lowering the standard of health.

OUR inventors are constantly striving after a saving of time in crossing the continent and sea, to say nothing of their endeavors to provide flying machines and methods of transmission of messages through the unaided medium of the atmosphere. If this chastening were devoted to a lengthening of life by leaving more hours for cultivation and recreation it would be well. But on the contrary, almost the sole object is a greater concentration and devotion to the cramming, narrowing and all-absorbing struggle for material wealth. How long will this go on? Probably for a great while yet, but sooner or later the reaction will come, and man will realize the folly of shortening and mis-ing his life by neglecting all else to make the pace in a race for that which shall enable him to surpass his neighbors in arrogance and display.

THE

FAR from true that right is always might in international quarrels.
There are always two sides to every international question, and it may be said that the great powers of the present day are not always to be found on the right side.
