Having moved two of my hives during the winter to a wooden building near my house, I can watch the bees through a giass coming in and going out, and though I am not quite certain, I think the old bees mostly bring in the honey, and the young ones the pollen. It was certainly so during the ! coider weather we have had, but now many of the younger bees are beginning to be middle-aged, and the difference is not so marked.

A young bee has a good deal of iown on its body, and may be called a orown bee." The old bees have less down, and when full of honey, the body is swollen, black and bright, and looks almost as if honey would spurt out if the bee were pricked with a pin. A bee, loaded with honey, trails its body along the floor, while an empty bee, or one bringing in pollen only, not be seen bringing in pollen. I send you a rough drawing, showing the merchandise paying duty was $369,390,-

Our own observations incline us to believe that young bees also bring in 480,810 during the fiscal year 1891, an honey, and that both young and old bees frequently bring in honey and son bees laden with honey do not sting. -EDS.]-British Bee Journal.
