Written for THE JOURNAL. "White Ribbons." BY MIRIAM BAIRD RICE.

A fleet of sensitive quills. Buffing billows of snow. Over the call "Red and white."

In from the snowy main. Haste for the snow king scowls; Marching, a silent train.

Like violets loving the ground. Clashed close to our earth Mother's breast; Throats with a white ribbon bound.

We heard your storm signal at noon; Ways for foreknowledge we tried; Take of the golden corn.

"Abbot says: Besides the well known call of you, they have a low note that passes from one to another and keeps the flock together."

Our Neighbors. Seventeen double-decked cars of sheep passed through here Monday morning...

Dave Hale returned Monday evening after an absence of three weeks in the south.
