PROF. R. L. GARNIER, the monkey man, so to speak, said in a London lecture that the first night he spent in his cage in the African forest was one of the proudest of his life. Sometimes, indeed, he was lonely. The gorilla was an animal of shy habits, but his own monkey traveling companions attracted them, and a gorilla, now and then would pay him a visit. He believed he had seen more gorillas than any other white man. The natives told him he would have seen more if he had blacked his face, but the scarcity of water deterred him from doing so. During the nine months he was on the coast he had fever twelve times. His friend Moses was also ill, and his other chimpanzee, Aaron, treated Moses with the greatest care and tenderness. The natives regarded the cage as a sort of fetish. On one occasion he was favored with a prolonged visit from a lady gorilla, who was chasing a dog to which he was in the habit of giving an occasional bone. He was not, however, able to hold much converse with her, as she was too much astonished to talk. It was his intention to return to Africa, bring back a number of chimpanzees, and give practical illustration of the progress he had made.

New Point of Law Invoked to Avoid Smilding Transfer Switches.

Judge W. R. Kelley of Omaha, representing the receivers of the Union Pacific, has filed with the secretaries of the State Board of Transportation a document excounty, relative to envention of county clerks venes in this city on the 9th. Following plaining at length his reasons why his company should not be compelled to put in a transfer switch at Schuyler according to the findings and recommendations submitted by Secretaries Dilworth, Johnson and Koontze last week. Judge Kellowing objections to the ley urges the following objections to the findings:

1. That all of the property of the Union Pacific has passed into the custody and control of five receivers appointed by the United States courts. and therefore it is not in the power of the company to take any steps in regard to the transfer switches.

2. That the Union Pacific shows that it is a corporation existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States and not of the laws of the state of Nebraska. 3. That the Union Pacific has no real estate at Schuyler, sufficient, fit or proper for the site of a transfer switch between its line and the line of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, and that it is impossible to build such a track without placing it upon real estate belonging to third parties. 4. That under the constitution of the state of Nebraska the Union Pacific is prohibited from exercising the right of eminent domain, whereby the said company finds it impossible to obey an order

That since it is not within the 8. power of the Union Pacific to exercise the right of eminent domain, therefore it is beyond the power of the State Board of Transportation to make an order requiring it to do that which is forbidden by the supreme law of the state. 6. That the Union Pacific already maintains transfer switches at South Omaha, seventy miles east of Schuyler. and at Columbus, sixteen miles west.

7. That the Union Pacific is a line running from Columbus to Omaha and the Burlington runs from Schuyler to Omaha, and therefore the through business referred to in the findings of the secretaries does not require a transfer switch at Schuyler.

The contention of Judge Kelley that the state of Nebraska, through any of its authorized boards, has no power to compel the Union Pacific to obey any order requiring it to purchase real estate because the constitution prohibits the Union Pacific from exercising the right of eminent domain, raises a new point which has hitherto been unthought of. The secretaries of the State Board of Transportation acknowledge that the new point raised by the Union Pacific has surprised them, and they have not vet studied the question sufficiently to enable them to predict the outcome. -[Omaha Bee.
