Several bakers of Omaha have been found giving short weight in their loaves, 1314 oz. instead of 16.

THE London police are engaged in looking for Fenians these days-the old scare broke out in a new place.

Several slight, but distinct earth quake shocks were felt at Mascoutah, Illinois, Tnesday of last week.

BEATRICE Express: A mover's wagon that passed through Fremont the other day had the following candid legend painted upon its canvas: "Sneaking back to Nebraska." Hundreds of the wagons that jolted eastward a month or two ago will be sneaking back to Nebraska sooner or later. Their owners will find, or have found by this time, that the tires will wear off the wheels before a better country is found.

Proportional representation is receiving some attention just now. It always does, just after an overwhelming republican victory. The truth is, however, that it is a just principle. The Chicago Times says:

"In such a system there is more of justice to the voters and of service to the state. It would do away with the feeling of the members of a minority party that political action on their part is nseless, and make them better citizens. It would to a great extent prevent such overwhelming majorities as the demo crats have in this house and the republi cans will have in the next, both of which are equally a menace to the best interests of the nation. Proportional representation is worth the study of sincere public men whatever their political affiliations. It should have a place in every party platform." However, the republican majority will make a much better governing force than we have had lately in the democratic majority.

Bogus Butter.

Last week State Dairy Commissioner Boardman of Iowa unearthed a fraud upon farmers in the person of one H. S. Byers, of Clayton county, who had been engaged in illicit business. About 3.000 pounds of butterine or oleomargarine were seized, and 2,000 pounds of butter in which the bogus stuff was mixed.

The creamery was located at Elkport. The plan was to ship the stuff from eastern factories and mix it with pure butter in such manner as to make it difficult of detection. As the imitation butter was very cheap there was a good profit in selling the mixture for pure creamery butter. The commissioner

Byers promised to make no fight, but will plead guilty and stand the penalty, which is a fine of $50 to $100 or thirty days in jail, or both, and confiscation of the bogus material, which makes it a costly business.

We notice with interest that the two great leaders in this state, Senator Hill and Editor Dana, have not been overcome by the late storm, but are already prepared to gather their scattered forces, an easy task considering their paucity, and join strength with the chieftain in the White House. The bugle call will find the three hand in hand at the head of their little band of stragglers, seeking some secluded spot where the councils of the brave over the pipe of peace, we trust, may arrive at some

The mutual admiration of Editor Dana for Senator Hill and of Senator Hill for Editor Dana is worldwidely known. They would promptly overrule any disturbing element that might be introduced into their councils by Chief Cleveland, the chosen of their party. A comparison of the political policies of the three leading Democratic organs of this city, The Sun, The Herald and The World, would be uncomplimentary to The Sun, which has fought a losing battle by a rigid adherence to Democratic professions. There have been only two real leaders of Democracy. There have been only two men who faithfully adhered to the principles of true Democracy, who have stood their ground and fought valiantly, shoulder to shoulder, against overwhelming odds. That they were ignominiously beaten was not their fault. It was the fault of their party's principles and principals. They deserve for their fidelity every recognition that can be possibly accorded them. They stand alone as the two true and faithful Democratic leaders. They are the logical candidates of the Democratic party for 1896-David B. Hill for president, Charles A. Dana for vice president, or vice versa. VALUE OF ALL FARM PRODUCTS.

Food-A Very Hard Case.

Truck farming is quite an industry in the United States. There are 240,898 men, women and children employed on the 534,440 acres of American truck farms, the annual produt of which was $76,517,155 in the 1890 census year. Most of the truck farms are found in the manufacturing sections of the country. This is but natural, because the market for truck is at the large centers of population, where there are busy workers. Anything that tends to diminish the number of wage earners in large cities will also decrease the demand for farm truck and help to cheapen prices. The nearer we approach free trade and the larger our importations of foreign goods the worse it will be for the truck farmer, because there will be more idle people in the United States. There are 240,893 men, women and children who find work on the farms. All would suffer from free trade.

There are still others who are interested in truck farming. There are the manufacturers of boxes, barrels, crates, baskets and other packages. There are the manufacturers of fertilizers, who sell more than $10,000,000 worth of their product to the farmers. There are the seedsmen and nurserymen who supply them with plants and seed at a cost ranging from 50 cents per acre for the cheapest seed up to $24 per acre for asparagus plants in Baltimore. These form other large industries that are interested in protection for the truck farm-

DEAD COKE OVENS. A "Condition, Not a Theory," Confronted the West Virginia Wage Earners. It is to be hoped that Chairman Wilson's heart was cheered the other day as, on his campaign tour through his district in West Virginia, he passed 20 dead coke ovens over which was raised a banner with the words, "Result of Tariff Reform." Mr. Wilson has labored so hard to give prosperity to foreign workmen at the expense of our own, he has enjoyed so intensely the news of the prosperity which has come to England through his efforts, that he surely must have rejoiced at this fresh evidence of the transfer of industry from this country to England, the land which has feted and banqueted and made of such gross meanness, arose from his much of him, its benefactor. Those dead coke ovens are not so dead as the cause which Chairman Wilson represents. The dead coke ovens will come to life again under Republican rule in 1897, perhaps even at the foreshadowing of Republican rule which has been given by the overwhelming Republican victory which swept the country. But the cause of free trade and of its forerunner, "tariff reform," should be so dead that it will not revive for many a year—not at least until a generation shall have passed and there has sprung up again a race of voters who, having never tasted the bitterness of free trade, will be willing to trust the empty predictions of theorists and college professors.

THE PROFESSOR AND POLITICS.

Wilson Could Not Carry His District Even With the Aid of His Lunatic Admirers. When politics in Professor Wilson's congressional district of West Virginia were at fever heat and every effort was being made on both sides for supremacy. an incident occurred on a local train which a gentleman boarded at Piedmont, taking a seat behind two gentlemen who were engaged in a political discussion with great animation. One of them remarked, with a show of dig-

"The Democratic candidate, Mr. Wilpatriot, with the people and for the people. He will be re-elected by an overwhelming majority, for he represents all that is good of the principles of our forefathers.

"Yes, indeed," said his friend, "you are right there, and as a result of his election business will revive, and we will have such an era of prosperity as this great country has never known before. Why," he continued, "the Republican party with its protection fallacy has almost ruined this country. Just as soon as Cleveland was elected. as they owned and controlled almost every great industry, they at once met together and decided to close all their works, throwing the men out of employment and causing such a general depression in the manufacturing and commercial world that the Republican party would be again called upon to save the country from disaster and ruin." This last assertion seemed to excite them both to such an extent that their loud talk and denunciation of the Republicans attracted the attention of every one in the cars. The man sitting behind them, who had been a Republican all his life and was dumfounded at the thought that his party had been guilty 1-Dec-5m been cheered by a re-election to con- they said was based on facts. THE PORK PACKER GOT LEFT.

Shades of Frank Hatton! The Washington Post has descended to a personal abuse of Governor McKinley in its wild despair at the country's indorsement of the policy of protection. The signs of the times were too much for the Washington organ of free trade and the Cleveland "stinkpot," which heeded not the ominous rumble of the cyclone that swept the country, sustaining McKinleyism in a manner that the strongest friends of protection have never before witnessed. The governor of Ohio can afford to smile contemptuously at the ill tempered and blackguardly screed. So can the "ribald and irreverent crowds" who eagerly listened to his words of wisdom. Mr. McKinley is an American patriot fashioned after the model of Abraham such depredations as these. bors for his country's good, not for that

The mud slinger of the Washington Post has soiled the columns of his paper disgust, a manner that is very suggestive of a Democratic convention with the business management.

Think Over This.

If those who voted for a change in favor of protection would buy as they vote, the aggregate of work thus given to the American citizens by such voters would alone be enormous. Insist upon having American made clothes, china, farm products, hardware and other goods.

crops that farmers grow, and in the last column they can see the loss per acre of their net income that they may expect under the Gorman tariff during an average season when drought or too much rain has not spoiled any crop and created a scarcity. It is certainly not a very cheering prospect for the farmers, but they must remember that the Democrats want to buy cheap, so they encourage competition from foreign farmers, such as the potato and onion men of Bermuda, who may also send us tomatoes and other stuff. The farmer in Canada will have a rich harvest in the American markets with his beans, cabbages,
