Facts in the Case.

We have called upon Chairman Galley of the committee on waterworks in regard to the statement of Mayor Phillips made to the Argus and printed in its last issue, as follows:

"On April 30, 1894, the water fund of the city was in arrears to the extent of $2,451.00; and that this indebtedness has been reduced to $1,660.00, during the past nine months of a year when the expenses of the works were necessarily large, owing to needed repairs and an unprecedented dry season, is proof conclusive that with the present perfect condition of the works, the arrearage will soon be met."

This would be a reduction of the indebtedness at the rate of $88 per month during the nine months referred to. The facts of the case as shown by the reports of retiring treasurer Niewohner May 1, 1894, on the waterworks fund overdrawn and transferred to J. F. Berney, was This, of course, is the actual amount

Overseers Meet. The overseers of the poor (which are he same persons as are supervisors for their several townships), met informally Monday to consider propositions in regard to aiding the needy of the county Some six townships had made no es timate whatever, and the total amount as reported by the others, as needed for seed and feed was $25,000, which it was thought might be cut one-half. It was proposed to take from the poor farm fund $3,000, of old funds some $500, and week. He had sold some grain during of the '94 levy some $5,000, altogether proposition to appoint a relief committee

The current funds of the county are piece had slipped out of the purse into in banks, on a per cent., and there his pocket, so he only lost about $30. would be a question of the legality of their giving it up for this purpose, some thought. Then if the proposition had carried there would be left no money in the county treasury for current expenses Those townships who had sent in no estimates were purely agricultural townships, and this fact seemed strange to some of the overseers. The general feeling of these townships was that they were abundantly able, entirely willing and firmly fixed in their determination to care for their own.

Of course the expense of this meeting must be borne by the overseers themselves individually, but doubtless the local boards will bear the just and reasonable expenses of these fellow-citizens of theirs in looking after their affairs. Episcopal Church.

Moral Sanity.

As a portion of the current discussion of the city, we give a synopsis of the ser mon last Sunday evening at the Presby The treasurer's report for the month terian church by the pastor, the text indebtedness to J. F. Berney, for cash hath not given us the spirit of fear; but

That moral good and moral evil, moral righteousness and moral unrighteous-a common humanity are the binding cords which draw them together, while the moral status for the time being, for policy and politeness, remains in the background. A person that is morally sane may be

Business vocations, society claims, and orally unsound in belief and practice in part or in whole the moral code, which often is more deplorable than if he were norally insane.

But what is the basis of morality? What is the standard? How can we know that a person is a moral man? Communities differ, and opinions of such a life are so varied, that there must be a set standard. We answer: The standard of christian nations is the moral law contained in the ten commandments. which God gave to Moses.

They are the measure of a perfect moral character and of all good government and current citizenship.

The speaker then proceeded to show that men who claim to be moral vet willfully and persistently set at naught even one of these moral laws is out of harmony with morals and good citizenship and God. That these principles are woven into our statute laws and constitute the true basis of our relationship with God and one another, and that men who come and ask for positions of legal trust and are thus morally unsound are also civilly and legally unsound.

He said that moral saneness begins with the child at years of accountability, varying from five to fifteen years of age. when the child first awakens to a sense of guilt in violating any of the moral code of laws, and that it died away when men willfully and deliberately violated these laws and hardened their con-sciences. He said a man was morally insane when he felt guilt for doing that which was a matter of mere indifference, as for instance: When guilt was felt for not putting the left foot first when leaving the door of his house, or for walking the south side of a street instead of the self to all. north, or a weight of sin for killing a mouse that was caught in his house as was the condition of a certain college professor, or a sense of sin for stepping on the grass lest thereby he might kill some insect or worm. Superstition is akin to this. As, some people do not like to start on a journey on Friday, because considered an unlucky day, while they have no conscientious moral sense of guilt in transgressing the fourth commandment in going on Sabbath-morally unsound and demoralizing in their example.

He spoke of the morally ignorant morally deceived and perverted, morally hardened, morally self-righteous, and urged all good citizens when they exercised themselves in the rights of citizenship to do so in principle, and to stand up for those who were ready to raise the standard of citizenship on a moral basis and to throw around all not merely the mantle of charity or love, but to set a practical example. HEMP SEED TO LOAN!
