In the morning the different churches will be supplied with delegates to help in the services, and in the evening the eight Protestant churches will have a union meeting in the opera house.

The program of the graduating exercises of the 9th grade of the public schools has been arranged. The exercises will take place at the opera house Wednesday evening, May 29, 1936. Each of the eighteen members of the class has prepared an oration or essay but owing to the length of time necessary to render such a program, it has been decided to have only six of the written productions, interspersed with music and recitations. Pupils were not selected for the program with regard to merit, some whose class standing was quite high not being on the program. The 9th grade has completed all the studies required for second-grade certificates.

D. C. Owen, who lives two miles southwest of Duncan, was in the city Saturday. He says that the frost of the night before did some damage to early vegetables in their neighborhood; the types of corn blades were wilted, but altogether the frost was not so bad as last year. He had a smudge around his potatoes, and they were not hurt. Joseph Hauser, five miles south of the city said that corn in his neighborhood was wilted to the ground, and cabbage and potatoes touched; water in the horse trough had a covering of ice in the morning. Wm. Gerhold says that his corn, in the Shell Creek valley, was not hurt, but on the table land coming this way, it didn't look good.

A letter received from Robert Compton, dated at High Point, Georgia, May 8, says: "Everything seems to be booming in Georgia. I have made inquiry of parties that had lived in the section of the Montgomery county colony land, and they inform me that the land is some of the very best, easy to work, and will grow any kinds of crops except wheat. Fruit of all kinds can be raised; water good and climate healthful. This is a land of plenty, plenty of rain, plenty of life, plenty of work. All is well that ends well." THE JOURNAL does not believe there is a better all-round state than Nebraska, one year with another. Of course, there are places where the temperature is more evenly, but for general purposes Nebraska is hard to equal.

Thomas Flynn, Jim Kelly and James Martin, who in the little thought concerning the matter, gave their residences as Genoa, Licking, O., and Clinton, Ia., were taken up as vagrants, and put to work, with a ball and chain attachment, in Frankfort park. If the city has to feed them, the city thinks their food will taste better to them, if they do a little labor between meals; besides, it is better to enjoy the free air of heaven under the spreading branches of even such shade trees as we have than to be confined within the small space of the city lock-up, and have no sweet song of the birds to beguile away the weary hours.

The city gets vexed when these fellows who do not money to pay fines, but seem to be able some way to get enough funds to make their breaths weighty and very offensive with liquor. The ball and chain is of course attached when the city does not wish its streets to be soiled.

We are in receipt of a communication from the secretary of a Nebraska college faculty, telling us that they are getting up supplement sheets, the first object of which is to advertise their college, the second to spread useful information (on one-half the sheet), and the third to let the public know on what conditions they could supply us with the supplements for our JOURNAL circulation. The United States postal authorities hold that supplements are a constituent part of the newspaper, and may be all advertisements, all reading matter or mixed; that the advertisements must be charged at the same rates as in the regular issue, otherwise it would be a violation of law to circulate through the mails, free within the county of publication of the paper, and at a low rate outside of that. A college in southern Nebraska started out on this lead several years ago, but attention was called to the law, and they stopped. Some Nebraska publishers seem to think all that is necessary to form a supplement to a newspaper is that it have the word "supplement" somewhere on the sheet, and have some reading matter, besides. Our Uncle Samuel is not thus to be wheedled out of his pay for carrying mail matter. Newspapers have a lower rate than posters have.

One of our prominent citizens objects strenuously to being charged in full for water, when often the pressure will not send it more than eight feet from the end of the nozzle, when it should be twenty. If the city has a right to shut off a portion of the pressure, he thinks he ought to be allowed to shut off a corresponding portion of the pay.

There were several people in attendance on the show Thursday. It is said that you can't expect much of a show for twenty-five cents. This reminds of the old fellow who drank some cider that his entertainer had presented him, and when asked how he liked it, there was a brief contest between his honesty and his politeness, but he nevertheless declared that "it was good enough, what there was of it, and there was plenty of it such as it was."

H. J. Hudson was at Silver Creek several days last week, and narrowly escaped serious injury, at least, if not death, while attending an ice-cream social. He had taken his third spoonful of ice cream, when he felt a foreign substance trying to go down his throat, but which had lodged across it. Placing a finger well down and pressing, he deftly flung the intruder out—a stud with a round head on it, which, if it had gone forward, might have caused him to "fare worse." Mr. Hudson says that he saw growing round the road, a foot high, while near by farmers were planting corn with a lister.

Recent reports of decisions in the supreme court of the state say that "the conviction of the Hatty Wright woman in Platte county is affirmed." The main points of the decision are: Evidence examined and held to sustain a conviction under section 210, criminal code, for the knowingly, owning, using and occupying of a house in this state for the purpose of prostitution.

To the district court and not to this has been entrusted the power to impose sentence for the commission of offenses against the laws of the state, and the judgments of that court will not be interfered with on the ground that they are excessive in the absence of a clear abuse of discretion.
