Ed. Graham of Creston was in the city Wednesday. He says that the northeast part of the county is in good shape this fall excepting a small strip where the hail struck. There was more rain during August than for many years back, and the soil is in excellent condition for fall plowing. Mr. Graham tells us that he had 100 acres to oats this year which threshed 9,000 bushels or an average of 90 bushels to the acre. Some of this tract produced over 100 bushels to the acre, and some of it 30 to 40. In one of the 70's he had a field that gave him 110 bushels to the acre.

"In poor, white trash of the south," in the former days of slavery, were little better in their surroundings than the slaves themselves. Regarded as "the mud-sills of society," by the southern aristocracy, it seemed to be necessary that the civil war should sweep over the land to convince the southern people that there is such a thing as manhood, irrespective of dollars and large property interests, but it does seem that we have with us yet some of the old spirit of slavery-drag, domineering, plantation manners in politics. It is the bowing manner of the combined ticket is especially opposing—we are all tired of the official-bosses, and "the rag tags and bob-tails" are going to vote against them.

Mrs. Brindley, the people's candidate for superintendent of public instruction, is in every way qualified for the position. She is scholarly, energetic, thoroughly in earnest, and will give her whole time and attention to the duties of the office. This is what the schools of Platte county need of the superintendent, for the amount paid, and not a mere putting in of time to draw pay. So many people who hold public office get the idea that no equivalent (equal) is required of them, losing sight of the first principles of good government. The people pay and pay for the services of their officials, and they ought to get the worth of the money they pay out. With Mrs. Brindley it will be no half-hearted service, but a work in which she will take great delight, and which will undoubtedly show in its effects upon the schools.

In years gone by the small boy used to think he had a right to all the water melons he could steal, but in these days of new women everybody, men, women and children, seem to have inherited the idea that water melons taste better if they are stolen. Many of the farmers around Columbus keep watchers in their patches, others have had nearly all stolen or cut on the vines. This would be thought of much if there was any end to it, but when everybody steals, it is beyond endurance by a hard-working farmer, who is compelled to rise with the sun and toil until into the night in order to pay off the taxes and interest on his mortgage and have a little left for coal. Suppose a crowd of fun-loving farmer boys, about twenty in number, should go into a store and while one was engaging the clerks in conversation, the others should simply pocket articles in the store? Would it be called by any other name than stealing? Suppose this should be continued all summer, and from year to year? Does any one think the merchant would be justified in allowing it to continue?

Special premium at Platte County Fair at Columbus Sept. 25, 26, 27. E. A. Leonard, editor and proprietor of the Looking Glass, will give ten subscriptions to his paper for the best and nicest loaf of white, brown (graham) and sweet breads made from flour manufactured in Platte county, by any young lady 20 years old or under (age not to be sworn to) and not connected with nor running a bakery. C. B. Tomlin, Sec'y.

There is no good reason in the world why the superintendent of public instruction cannot be a lady. Most teachers are now ladies; they make model teachers in every way, paying strict attention to the business for which the public employs them. The republicans and independents of Platte county see no reason to condemn their candidate because she continues to teach school instead of going out to electioneering. If incumbents of office would spend most of their time in learning the duties of their positions, the county would be better off.

The combined ticket is gaining in favor every day. The opposition has begun to lie about it, which is always to be regarded as evidence of strength on the part of the standard. But lying will not win. "The rag-tags and bob-tails" have their eyes open and their ears unstoppered; they are looking and listening; they are studying bossism a little more thoroughly than ever; they are catching the spirit of the boss while he is trying to wheedle them again. They are measuring him up. They are finding him numerous on the democratic ticket.
