4t J. R. Harris.

—Good hay land $1.50 an acre for sale, for this season's use; inquire at the Turner ranch on The Island, or at the Columbus State Bank, this city. J. R. Taylor. 2t

—Roswell G. Horr, the great advocate of the great politico-business principle, protection, passed through the city Sunday to Norfolk, where he spoke on Monday.

—Ross Hammond has written to several here that it is a mistake—the report that he had withdrawn from the congressional race. He is, decidedly, a candidate.

—The republican grand rally at Norfolk Monday to hear R. G. Horr of Michigan was one of the largest gatherings ever assembled in that city, and they heard a good speech.

—A committee of old settlers met at Council Hall Saturday and agreed upon Thursday, September 10, as the day for the Fortieth annual reunion. The program will be announced later on.

—Mayor Jenkins of our neighboring city Schuyler has notified the saloon keepers of that place to quit selling liquor to habitual drunkards, a list of whom he has furnished to the saloons.

—Otto Baker is putting up his hay at the farm northwest of the city and says he never before saw such a crop—going, in his judgment, as high as three tons to the acre. He expects to handle 500 tons.

—Mrs. Backus left yesterday morning for Florence, Nebr., having received a telegram that Mr. Backus had been seriously injured in a buggy accident. It is hoped that he will come through all right.

—Ernest Gerrard returned Friday from his extended trip in Europe and the eastern states of the Union. He has acquired a fund of information that will be of untold value to him in the coming years.

—A jolly crowd of young folks enjoyed themselves at a picnic at Stevens' grove Wednesday of last week, given in honor of Miss Emma Wake, previous to her departure for her new home at Seward, this state.

—It has been determined to hold the McKinley club meetings regularly every Thursday evening. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

—About two weeks ago a fellow canvassed the town, selling a white powder to be put inside piano cases to keep moth away. It has been found that the powder is common table salt, perfumed, and really injurious to pianos.

—Fatty Curtis thinks that heavy weights, like Mr. Winslow and himself, should not be expected to discuss light subjects, and Clinton Gray thinks that light weights should not discuss heavy subjects this hot weather.

—[illegible] Fagan, representing the Lincoln Roofing Company, has been in the city the past week engaged on several different jobs of work. R. H. Henry's store-building; the cold storage; the Ther House; Schroeder's mill, etc. 1

—Lewis Muntz got tangled up on a threshing machine tumbling rod and after going around a score of times and being badly bruised, the machine was stopped and the victim released. It was a close call.—[Ulysses Dispatch.

—A man passed through the city the other day, east bound, having box cages of animals, antelope, prairie dogs, deer, porcupine, rabbits, wolves, etc. He had an idea that some time, possibly, he might start a rival "Wild West."

—Notwithstanding the threatening weather Sunday afternoon a large crowd attended the Orpheus picnic at Higgins' grove. Plenty of amusement, the Maennerchor orchestra furnishing music for dancing which lasted until 11 o'clock.

—Patrick Murphy and family of the vicinity of Platte Center were in the city Friday, taking dinner at the Clother House with their relative, Father Tierney of Monella, Iowa, who had been visiting them, and who that day started for his home.

—Look out for fakirs. One of these has been operating around Falls City recently, selling fruit trees on the instalment plan, to take pay in fruit, when the trees begin to bear. He takes an order which turns up later along as a collectable note.

—It would seem that one of our Columbus ladies took an overdose of laudanum Friday afternoon. Doctors were called in, who used the stomach-pump, hypodermic injections, etc., and the unfortunate woman returned to consciousness after several hours.

—W. T. Howard, after about ten years almost continuous work as editor, says editorial good-by to the readers of the Schuyler Sun, having sold the paper to R. S. Bulla and P. P. Orth. THE JOURNAL will very much miss Brother Howard from the fraternal round table.

—Sunday week a stranger giving his name as Hennessey and claiming to be buying horses for an eastern market, got a team and buggy of Fred Stevens, liveryman, but has not yet returned with them. Stevens has been sending out circulars, trying to locate the man.

—Mike Delaney, a brother of John Delaney, fell from a hay stack at his brother's place near the Magenau bridge yesterday, and dislocated his neck. Dr. Martin was called and cared for the injured man, who he reports will recover in good shape. So says the Fremont Herald.

—A five-mile, handicap bicycle race took place at the fair grounds Friday evening. Carl Johnson was given a quarter start, and Lester Sisson and Harry Dawson, were his competitors, Johnson coming out first, 18:55; Sisson, 17:44; Dawson, 17:45. There were about thirty wheelmen present, besides a large number of spectators.

—Lute North has gone to Red Oak, Iowa, to get "The Corporal," who has been in the hospital there since his injury. The veterinary says he is able now to leave. Charles Mayne thinks it will be two months before "The Corporal" will be in condition for work on the race track.

—Miss Martha Johnson, the lady evangelist of Platte Center, has been secured to conduct the meeting at the park next Sunday afternoon at 3. Miss Johnson is a very forceful speaker, and whenever occasion offers Columbus people always turn out in goodly numbers to hear her.

—One of our cotemporaries the other day said that "The Henry building was given a coat of tar Wednesday." The two-story brick building, corner of Eleventh and Olive is the one supposed to be referred to. The tar was put on the roof only. The Telegram's local reporter was too economical of words this once.

—Mrs. H. E. Wyman will do dressmaking in the rear room of Mrs. Walters' millinery store on Thirteenth st. She will be ready to receive customers Monday, August 24. Her work will speak for itself, she having had fifteen years' experience in business. A fit guaranteed. Prices reasonable. 2t

—Sheriff Kavanaugh will hold sales as follows: August 17, 1 o'clock, lots 7 and 8, block 238, Columbus; n. e. sec. 2, town 17 north, range 1 west; n. w. sec. 34, town 18 north, range 1 west. August 31, lot 1, block 7, Lindsay; lot 8, block 125, Columbus; s. e. of s. w. sec. 2, town 16 north, range 2 west; lot 1, block 16, Stevens addition, Columbus.

—Last Wednesday night somebody attempted to set fire to the dwelling house of David Maury on North Olive street, it being noticed in the morning that a mattress in the cellar had been saturated with oil, and set on fire. Frank VanAlstine went over at five o'clock to feed some pigs, before going to his work, and noticed smoke coming out of the cellar way, and put the fire out.

—The Schuyler Sun says that the case of Fulmer against the Schuyler Building and Loan Association, the latter claiming nine hundred dollars on foreclosure for non-payment of dues, while Fuller says it is less than one hundred and contests on the ground of usurious interest, is being watched with interest, as if the Association loses, it is likely to have more trouble of the same kind.

—We understand that a certain lawyer in this town, who espouses the free silver cause, said that if they couldn't get their demands by the ballot they would by the bullet. That sounds a good deal like the copperhead talk of '61, or the anarchists of the present day. People with such ideas in their heads ought to be locked up. The majority rule in this country Mr. Lawyerman. —[Madison Chronicle.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. Horst, two of Polk county's oldest settlers and widely known in Columbus and vicinity, passed through last Friday visiting their many friends and relatives in Columbus. They are on their way to Colorado to visit one of their daughters and from there they will go to Kansas to visit another daughter. They expect to return some time in the fall. Mr. Horst seems to feel the burden of his years more than ever, while Mrs. Horst, also being close to seventy years, is yet looking vigorous.

—From a transcript taken from City Clerk Becker's record of city council proceedings it would appear that Councilmen Newman and Welch are opposed to the opening of Kummer, M, and P streets across the railroad tracks, but such, we learn is not, by any means the case, the council standing now a unit, as at the first, for opening all the streets. The objection to the resolution referred to, as prepared by the city attorney, was that it ordered the street commissioner to grade the streets in question before the controversy was settled or differences adjusted, and the city compelled to pay for work that others ought to do.

—In Munsey's Magazine for this month appears a brief sketch of General Drake, who is now governor of Iowa. General Drake was among early frontiersmen and crossed the plains several times before the Rebellion, being in the '50's. The sketch speaks of his band of twenty men being attacked by 300 Pawnee Indians at Shell Creek postoffice, Nebraska. That postoffice was at the Alberson farm, east of this city a few miles, where James Coventry now lives. This was a notable piece of country in the early days as across the river at Linwood is where General Fremont and his band stopped to recuperate when he crossed the plains.—[Schuyler Quill.

—Voters should remember that it is their X opposite the candidates for presidential electors that will count on the ballot. These electors afterwards do the voting for president. In 1892 California electors cast 8 votes for Cleveland, 1 for Harrison; Michigan, 5 for Cleveland, 9 for Harrison; North Dakota, 1 for Cleveland, 1 for Harrison, 1 for Weaver; Ohio, 1 for Cleveland, 22 for Harrison; Oregon, 3 for Harrison, 1 for Weaver. It is well enough to be up to "the tricks of the trade," and then you will know how to meet them. We have heard of men putting an X opposite their favorites for president, and yet Xing the electors of the opposition, thus voting against their own wish.

—On the night of July 19, harness belonging to Harry Mosgrove and also to W. H. Lewis was taken from their barns in this city. Descriptions of the harness were sent out. August 7, Mr. Lewis got a letter from Chief of Police Sigwart of Omaha giving a description of the man who was arrested there on suspicion (before word had got to the officers, of the theft here). The harness found with him was doubtless what was stolen here. The description of the thief (who gave his name as Walter Graves, Columbus), the chief says, is: "About 50 years old, sandy complexion, bald on front top of his head, sandy mustache and short sandy beard mixed with gray; nearly six feet tall, slender and somewhat stooped." Some Columbus people who read the Omaha papers at the time of arrest were misled by the name (doubtless assumed). The description answers to nobody here.

In the Toils.

Julius Thandel worked for P. H. Rusche at the farm northwest of the city about two months. One Sunday in July, about four weeks ago, he was left alone at the premises, but given access to the kitchen—the key being left with him, so he could get his dinner. His bed-room was in a different building from the family residence. On returning home in the evening Mrs. Rusche noticed that somebody had been here and there through the house in their absence, and asked Thandel if he had seen any stranger around; he replied that he had not. She found that the kitchen key would unlock other doors of the house, and she also found writing paper and envelopes in his room. In the meantime he gave notice that when his month expired he wished to seek another situation.

After he was gone, it occurred to the folks to look over the premises, when they discovered that a gold watch, two rings and other less valuable things were missing. A search warrant was got out and a portion of the goods found Thursday in Thandel's trunk. The rings, he confessed to sending to his girl at Joliet.

He is a man about thirty years old. The hearing was held before Judge Kilian Monday and continued till Thursday afternoon, for further testimony.

Dean Gardner Dead.

A telegram from Bayfield, Wis., announced the death there, by pneumonia, at 12:30 Saturday morning last, of the Very Rev. C. H. Gardner, dean of the Trinity Cathedral, Omaha.

He was taken sick Monday, but nothing serious was expected until 11 o'clock Friday night. He was 46 years old and leaves a wife and six boys. He was at Bayfield spending his vacation, as was customary. He has been a prominent candidate for bishop of the Episcopal church a number of times.

The Dean had many friends in Columbus, and the good regards of all who knew him.

Big Grocery Sale.

[illegible] entire stock of groceries, crockery, glassware, [illegible], canned goods, fixtures, etc., to be sold at MORTGAGE SALE beginning [illegible] o'clock Thursday morning [illegible], at WAGNER & BOWMAN'S old stand, just south of Friedhof & Co.'s store, Columbus, Nebraska.

—At the McKinley club meeting Thursday evening, J. N. Heater, George Scott and Judge Kilian entertained the audience with republican doctrine. Neither of them expected to be called on, and so no set speeches were made. Mr. Heater appealed to the voters to stand by the principles of protection to American interests, and sound money. The main idea of George Scott's speech was the suggestion to voters to compare the different administrations which we have had, and choose that party that had always done right by the country and given it prosperity. Judge Kilian's speech was a hot fire along the line. The club meetings are well attended, and are doing considerable good. We think it would not be out of the way to have some discussions of the issues between opposing candidates of the different parties, after all get well nominated, and ready for the campaign. The weather is a little too hot yet for comfort, but after the last presidential candidate shall be named, the last aspirant for local and district offices, then ought to begin the arguments on the questions now before the people. Politics, whether theoretical or practical, is a problem involving at once principles, parties and candidates, and neither element can safely be ignored. Sound principles as the foundation; safe, practical, level-headed, common-sense men as builders and workers, and the "temple of liberty" is safe.

—Suggestion is one of the most powerful and fertile faculties of the mind, and news items are very often more valuable for the suggestions they contain than for anything else. The Fremont Tribune of Saturday says:

"During the last electrical storm a barn on Ben Mitchell's farm, seven miles east of the city, was struck by lightning and two horses killed. The antics of the electricity were very peculiar. It went into the stable through the loft door and when it struck the hay it seemed to separate. There were sixteen horses in the barn, eight on either side, and these were all knocked down and two were killed. One of the farm hands had just gone into the barn and when the other men got there he was lying among the horses unconscious. After considerable work he was brought to consciousness. When he was undressed it was found that half of his body was blackened by the electricity. Four of the farm hands had been sleeping in the barn but that night they made up their minds to sleep in a corn crib that had just been built. Had they slept in the barn they all no doubt would have been killed. The barn was not burned but several large holes were made in it. Mr. Mitchell, who was just going to the stable, witnessed the performance. It was about 5 o'clock in the morning."

—The Platte Center Signal says that a jolly crowd of sixteen ladies and gentlemen from Columbus came up in a carry-all Wednesday and visited with Mr. and Mrs. George Mack and other friends, returning home in the evening; that the school board has secured the services of B. J. Hilsabeck of Doniphan as principal of the high school for the coming term at $60 per month; that Wm. Bloedorn left on Tuesday for a twenty days' visit in the southern states. He will visit with James Burrows at Jackson, Miss., then he will go to New Orleans, and from there to Crowley, where there are a number of families who formerly lived in Platte Center. Mr. Bloedorn goes in hopes of regaining health, as he has been suffering from a severe pain in the head for some time, and he believes that a short stay in the south may benefit him some.

—The prospect now for the largest crop of corn in the history of the state is very good, and it is on the quick road to good, solid ears. These be good days for corn, and if the old farmer was right who said that corn needs hot nights to mature good, there can be no objection made on that score either. Very many of the stalks are carrying two large ears of good grain, and we miss our reckoning much if Nebraska's output of corn is not by far the largest in the history of the state. A great crop of corn means plenty to live on another year. It may well be called a "safety" crop. No live creature but can live and thrive on corn. Who wouldn't live in the corn belt?

PERSONAL.

Mrs. George Spooner is visiting friends in this city.

Henry Hunteman was a Columbus visitor Saturday.

Ed. North came up from Omaha Saturday night and tarried over Sunday.

Mrs. Walters went to Aurora Saturday for a few days' visit at her old home.

Lee O'Donnell was in town yesterday, returning to his home at St. Edward, from a business trip east.

Senatorial Convention.

The republican senatorial convention for Platte and Colfax counties met at Council Hall this city, Tuesday afternoon of last week, after THE JOURNAL had gone to press.

C. H. Sheldon was selected as chairman and D. McLeod as secretary.

The delegates present were: D. McLeod, W. T. Walling and P. J. Murphy of Colfax, and C. H. Sheldon, J. G. Pollock, W. W. Wilson, H. T. Spoerry, C. Kramer, H. G. Cross and C. J. Garlow of Platte, and on motion, the delegates present were authorized to cast the full vote of the delegation.

By a unanimous vote of the delegates Sidney C. Gray of this city was selected as the candidate for senator, and in a speech of twenty minutes he ably set forth his views of the present situation of affairs.

He was followed by Walling of Colfax, who dwelt upon the importance of the protective tariff, not only paying our expenses, but lessening the public debt and at the same time keeping the United States home market for our own farm products, our own artisans, our own laborers.

C. H. Sheldon for Platte county, and D. McLeod for Colfax, were chosen as central committee, and the convention adjourned.

Does Your Roof Leak?

Excelsior slate paint will make it as good as new. Most economical roof paint known. It's water proof, it's fire proof, and it stands for years. Ebonite varnish will save your tin roofs. It arrests rust. Saves continual repairing. Lasts three times as long as mineral paint. My roofing-cement is much better than solder. Applied by the undersigned, who can be seen at A. W. Armstrong's on Eleventh street.

Do not destroy your old roofs until you see and consult me, as I can save you many dollars, by repairing with slate paint.

Our Neighbors.

Craig News: John Batchelder's family and Everett Martin, with E. C. Mennell's team, arrived in Craig Wednesday afternoon. They brought two burros with them, which proved a great attraction to the Craig boys. John Kennedy and family stopped with friends in Columbus, but expect to reach home the last of the week.

Madison Chronicle: Hugh Herbison met with a painful accident last Friday morning. He was coming down stairs in the mill, when he stepped on a nail sticking up through a board. The nail went clear through the sole of his shoe and into his foot nearly an inch. Dr. Gossard dressed the wound and Hugh is able to get about, but he has a very sore foot.

Schuyler Sun: Those who have threshed their winter wheat report a good yield and a good quality. Henry Payzant says his turned out twenty-five bushels to the acre, and we hear of other fields which have done equally as well. From the results obtained the past few years it would certainly seem as if our farmers could do much better by sowing winter wheat almost exclusively.

Humphrey Democrat: The editor and wife, accompanied by Mrs. George Smith, took a drive Sunday out to John Mirre's place on Shell Creek. John has been farming on a large scale this year. He had out 275 acres of small grain and has 160 acres of corn. His corn is especially fine, as is all the corn out in that direction. He has commenced threshing and finds that his small grain will be a good yield, oats going about 45 bushels to the acre, wheat about 16 and rye about 25. On the return trip we stopped at Supervisor Bender's and passed a pleasant hour. Mr. Bender has a well improved place with a fine orchard. Speaking of orchards, it is worthy of note that there are many fine orchards in that neighborhood. A ride through Nebraska fields at this time of year convinces one that Nebraska is one of the greatest wealth producing states of the nation and that if we could only obtain a fair price for our products we would have one of the richest and most prosperous people in the union.

A reference to the time tables will indicate the route to be chosen, and, by asking any principal agent west of the Missouri river for a ticket over the Chicago, Council Bluffs & Omaha Short Line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, you will be cheerfully furnished with the proper passport via Omaha and Chicago. Please note that all of the "Short Line" trains arrive in Chicago in ample time to connect with the express trains of all the great through car lines to the principal eastern cities.

EDITORIAL.

NEITHER the republican party nor the country wants any tariff truce; on the contrary, they want a protective tariff put on the statute books at the earliest practicable moment. The men who are now advocating a tariff truce are the men who have for years been advocating free trade. A protective tariff victory is what is wanted, and what will be had next November.

The above from the Madison Chronicle is eminently correct. The "free and unrestricted coinage of silver" was the only battle cry the opponents of republicanism had left that promised anything of a following. "Tariff reform" wasn't able to get on its feet any more. Three "years of Grover" had proved that his wing of the party was not to be trusted with the management of things at Washington, and something different had to be done. The song man tells the story:

"Great Grover lies in clover,
While all the country over
Men are cussing him who never cussed before.
Millions beg for work in vain,
Isn't the "object lesson" plain?
It is just the same old story o'er and o'er.

Having ruined this great nation
With Free-Trade legislation,
Now they're singing a very different song;
For they say with matchless gall
That free silver will cure all,
And, as usual, you'll find that they are wrong.

But sound money and Protection
Will carry the election,
For they cannot fool the people any more;
Then McKinley and Hobart true,
Grover's ruin will undo,
And prosperity 'll be with us as before."

HORR made a speech Wednesday night at Lincoln to some three thousand people. His hits were numerous and fetching. Congress simply regulates and does not create values; with business active, money will be abundant; the whole doctrine of trade rests upon an exchange of equivalents, and the commerce of the world is simply an effort on the part of the people of the world to exchange goods they do not desire for those which they do desire, and the basis of such exchange always must be an equivalent for the goods surrendered. This law of equivalents applies as strictly when money is used in the transfer, as it applies when business is simply done by barter; silver is the shopping money of the commercial world, and very much more of it is being used today than has ever been used at any former period in the history of the world; today we have seven or eight different kinds of money, and under the republican party every dollar of that money is of equal value.

THE republican party favors real bimetallism; the Cleveland democrats are real gold metallists; the Bryan wing, real silver metallists. This is truly, in a nutshell, the central motive, idea, thought and intent of the several parties on the use of metal as money. The present poliey is the declared purpose of the republican party—the largest possible use of both metals as money, consistent with just principles, each dollar as good as any other, and for the future the same stability and solidity, and the conversion of the commercial world to our way of thinking, not only by words of the mouth, but by commercial language—in short, reciprocity.

AT the populist state convention last week at Hastings Silas A. Holcomb was renominated by acclamation for governor; John C. Harris of Nemaha county for lieutenant governor; W. F. Porter, secretary of state; W. F. Cornell, auditor; J. B. Meserve, treasurer; J. A. Jackson, superintendent of public instruction; J. V. Wolfe, commissioner public lands and buildings; Judge Neville and Judge Kirkpatrick, supreme court judges. The state central committee were instructed to place four populists and four democrats on the ticket for electors.

THE Shelton Clipper wonders what the line of conversation will be between Bryan and Sewall when they meet again. After a brief reference, probably, to the sound-money democrats of Maine and elsewhere, who will vote for McKinley, the line of conference will doubtless deflect to Watson of the south, and the populistic contingent of the head of the ticket in which Sewall takes a lively interest—for defeat as to Watson. It will be in order, perhaps, for Bryan to visit Watson, and thus play the double role for which he is billed.

THE Central City Democrat is so eminently correct when it says, "all our resources have been developed by American labor, eating American food, clothed with American cotton, working with American tools, protected by the American flag," that it is absurd in supporting a doctrine whose effect is and has always been just the opposite of the above. Protection and reciprocity are winners for America every time.

THE great majority of people in this country are bimetallists, and favor both gold and silver as currency. For that reason they will vote for William McKinley, and not for silver monometallism and Bryan, or gold monometallism, represented by the other wing of the democratic party.—[Inter Ocean.

MCCREARY of Hastings was elected president of the republican league clubs, John R. Hays of Norfolk vice president, E. J. Mock of Alma secretary and Pat Hall of Saunders treasurer.

Nebraska's Motto Fulfilled!

One man can buy as cheap as another, and a child as cheap as a man. GOOD GOODS for good money, which means our Uncle Samuel's dollars, whether paper, silver or gold—they are equal, too, with us.

WE have already the Yellowstone, the Yosemite, the Grant and the Sequoia national parks, and preparations, it appears, are making for an addition to the list. Inspector McLaughlin has arranged to buy for the government an area of ten miles square in the Shoshone and Arapahoe reservation in Wyoming. The tract includes the hot springs at the head of the Big Horn river in the Ocol mountains in the northwestern part of the state, and the scenery is picturesque and magnificent. The springs themselves are already famous, being visited by many persons for their curative qualities, and altogether the government has probably not made a bad bargain in agreeing to purchase the tract for $60,000. The policy is a wise one which sets apart some of the most impressive and sublime of the wonderlands of this continent of ours to public uses, and the day is not distant whe they will far more than repay their cost as the pleasure grounds and resorts of a multitude.—[N. Y. Sun.

"THERE was a gentleman from Nebraska a few years ago in congress," writes a Kansas man to the Topeka Capital, "who used his oratorical powers in favor of a jump into the low tariff bramble bush, from which the country had emerged two or three times before in a mutilated condition. As that congress was generally of the same quality of wisdom, Uncle Sam was forced to make the leap. Now with eyes and factory fires put out, wandering blind and hungry in the darkness, the same previous and precocious youth leads up to another bush which, he assures us on the honor of a populist, has sight restoring power, and exhorts his victim to jump in."

THE list of victims of the heat at Chicago last Saturday was appalling. The ordinary death rate in the city is fifty a day, but those last week were 200 above the average. Nearly all the 109 deaths reported Saturday were traceable more or less directly to the heat. Saturday was the third successive day that St. Louis has been the hottest city in the United States, at 5 p. m. 103°. Sixty-eight persons were under treatment for prostration by heat during the day.

HON. ORLANDO TEFFT of Cass county, republican candidate for lieutenant governor, is one of the ablest men in state politics. He has served with distinguished ability during several sessions of the legislature and has rendered his party very important services. His honor is above reproach and his talents are such as fit him for any office within the gift of the people of this commonwealth. —[Tecumseh Chieftain.

CLAUDE H. HOOVER, the murderer of Samuel Dubois, was executed at Omaha Friday morning, at 11:37. Thirteen minutes after the drop fell he was pronounced dead. He said: "My death must be laid at the door of intemperance. I was crazed by drink and I killed my friend. I made my sister a widow and took from children, whom I love, their natural protector."

ON the 15th of June last, as given in the dailies of last Saturday, Kamaishi, a seaside town of Japan, was wiped out of existence, 953 dwelling houses being swept away and 4,985 persons drawn down to destruction. At several other places also the loss of life and property was fearful. The enormous wave, caused by earthquake, swept inland for two miles.

THREE Italian murderers were lynched at Hahnville, La., Saturday night.
